At the Police Board Hearing
This Morning

The police board hearing was resumed at 10.25.

Counsel for complainant read a protest from James McLaughlin to Judge Hadley against the common victualer's license granted Edward F. Shea in East Merrimack street last year. It was shown by the records that the license was granted April 28, and was surrendered May 2. The records also showed that another license was granted Edward F. Shea May 15, 1908. The new license showed a change in numbers.

Mr. E. D. Shattuck was sworn to tell of the petition circulated in Middlesex street for a reduction in the number of licenses there.

Counsel for prosecution said he would show that the petition was gotten up by suggestion of Commissioner Hanson. That, however, was not mentioned in the charges or specifications and Mr. Bent objected to its being admitted. The evidence was admitted and counsel for prosecution proceeded to examine Mr. Shattuck.

He said that in March, 1908, he had a conversation with Commissioner Hanson relative to liquor saloons in Middlesex street.

"I went to see Mr. Hanson," he said, "to ask him to relieve us of so many saloons in Middlesex street."

"Mr. Hanson, upon seeing me, said: 'Yes, I know what you're coming for. I told him what you wanted and he said: 'That is just what we want to do.'" that the hearing was to be given."

"Yes sir."

"Were you at the hearing?"

"I was."

"How many persons were there who were interested in the petition?"

"I couldn't say."

Witness was given permission to refresh his memory on names and he named five or six. He said he could not remember the names of others.

He said he didn't know how many business people there were in Middlesex street not named in the petition.

"Did you object to any particular saloon in Middlesex street?" asked Mr. Johnson.

"No," replied witness.

"You heard the request made at the hearing to indicate what saloon was objectionable?"

"I did not."

"Have you sufficient memory about your interview with Mr. Boulger to give us his exact words or the substance of any particular statement he made to you?"

"Nothing more than I have testified to."

"Do you understand my question?"

"I think I do."

"Then answer it. I am not asking for anything extra."

Mr. Johnson again asked for exact words or substance of any particular statement.

"I can't answer any better than I have," said Mr. Shattuck.

Mr. Bent then took Mr. Shattuck in hand.

"Does your petition ask for any hearing?" said Mr. Bent.

"No, sir," replied witness.

"When you drew this, you didn't intend to have any hearing before the board?"

"A hearing was not thought of at that time."

"How long after the petition was made were you notified of a hearing?"

"A week or ten days."

The board voluntarily offered you a hearing?"

"Yes."

"Then the board gave you more than you asked?"

"No, sir."

"All you did was to make a protest—you didn't ask for a hearing?"

"No."

"But you got a hearing?"

"Yes."

"Isn't that more than you asked for?"

"Yes."

"How many saloons were there that would be covered by the petition?"

Witness had to stop to count. He counted eight.

"Are you accustomed to visit places where liquor is sold?"

"What do you mean by accustomed?"

"Don't you know what accustomed means?"

"No, sir."

"How often do you visit places where liquor is sold?"

"Perhaps four or five times a month."

Asked if he had visited hotels on Sundays, witness said he did for the purpose of looking at samples.

"What kind of samples?" asked Mr. Bent.

"Samples of goods."

"Did you ever sample the Sunday sandwiches?"

"This question was too much for the gallery and there was an uproar."

"Why did you draw the line on the Richardson house in your petition?" asked Mr. Bent.

"No particular reason," said witness. Witness enumerated the saloons that have been added in Middlesex street since he has been in business there. He said that four had been added.

The hearing was resumed at 12.15, and counsel for prosecution announced that the distance included in the petition had been agreed upon as being 2070 feet.

Witness William B. Moffatt was called by counsel for prosecution who asked the superintendent to read from the Sun of Jan. 2. This was taken up under charge number 37. He said number 37 was not a charge but a conclusion.

Counsel for prosecution delayed reading of the article in question and said he would lay the foundation to it. He proposed to show the condition of the department before the department went into office; that the department was in excellent condition. This was strenuously objected to by Mr. Johnson and Mr. Bent. The mayor wanted to allow his counsel to proceed. He said it was the only opportunity he had to learn as to the condition of the department.

"This is not a hearing for you to be informed as to the condition of the department," said Mr. Johnson. "It's a hearing on serious charges, charges of malfeasance, incapacity and neglect of duty, and no counsel has any right to introduce or attempt to introduce evidence that is not pertinent. Sitting here as counsel for one of these three gentlemen, I object and protest against evidence for the purpose of a broad-cast investigation. We will meet any pertinent evidence, and to allow the evidence that counsel for the prosecution has offered would be utterly wrong, unfair and unjust."

Mr. Burke's protest was as vigorous as that of Mr. Johnson. He protested, he said, with all power of voice and sentiment and called it a star chamber session.

Counsel for prosecution was told to proceed and exceptions were saved.

Supt. Moffatt read from his annual report of 1907 and from the report of the board for 1908.

He was then given to read the newspaper article in question. He did not read aloud. Counsel for prosecution then announced that he would read the article aloud.

"I guess you won't," said Mr. Johnson, jumping to his feet. "Not unless Your Honor rules more arbitrarily than you have even thus far in the hearing." Mr. Johnson said that the idea of introducing a newspaper article in evidence against respondents in such a case as this was absurd and unheard of in the annals of such hearings.

Mr. Bent and Mr. Burke, too, objected, and Mr. Bent argued vigorously as against the way that counsel for prosecution was proceeding in the matter. Mr. Bent, after having presented some new phases of the question, asked for a ruling.

Upon adjournment was made at 1 o'clock, and the mayor said he would give his ruling when the hearing resumed at 2.15.

10,000 MASSACRED IN POLICE COURT

Fearful Slaughter in Armenia by the Turks

American Women in Danger at Beirut — 5000 Left Homeless by Open Rapine — Atrocities of the Worst Kind Perpetrated by the Fanatical Moslems — Constantinople Invested by the Constitutionalists

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22.—According to advices received here today from Asiatic Turkey, ten thousand Armenians have been massacred at Adana and in the vicinity of that city.

AMERICAN WOMEN

ARE IN DANGER

BEIRUT, April 22.—Five American women missionaries are in danger at Hadjin in the vilayet of Adana, Asiatic Turkey. One of them, Miss Lambert, has sent a message down to the coast asking for immediate help. The women are entirely alone and defenseless. The villages surrounding Hadjin are in flames and Hadjin itself is infested by Nomad tribesmen. Messages from the interior are being suppressed by the authorities.

Hadjin is in the northern part of the vilayet of Adana.

5000 Are Homeless

The situation in the country north, east and west of Alexandretta arising from the anti-Christian outbreaks is very serious. There has been massacre and pillage at Antioch and Hama. Aleppo is in a state of panic. Only 400 Turkish soldiers are in the city. Beardless is at a standstill and there is every reason to fear a serious outbreak. The city is full of Bedouin Arabs, Kurds and Circassians. The town of Kirikhan, a short distance east of Beilan and southeast of Alexandretta 418 murderers have been released from prison. They at once joined the mob and began committing depredations. At Tarsus 100 persons have been killed, 800 houses have been burned and there are today 5000 persons without homes.

THE SITUATION

IS IMPROVING

BOSTON, April 22.—Up to 10.30 a. m. today the American board of commissioners for foreign missions had received no advices concerning the situation at Hadjin and other points in Asiatic Turkey later than the cablegram which arrived last night from Rev. William N. Chambers at Adana, stating that the situation was improving and that the missionaries at Hadjin and Marash were safe. It was stated at the headquarters of the American board today that no mission and the officials connected with the board are definitely known to be at Hadjin at present are Miss Virginia Billings and Miss Emily Richter. Mrs. Mary P. Rogers, widow of Rev. Mr. Rogers who was killed at Adana, is now at Tarsus. Miss Olive M. Vaughan, who has been in America and is visiting at Clifton Springs, New York. Two Assault Cases Were Disposed of Today

A long drawn out assault case which necessitated the service of an interpreter to bring out the testimony offered, took up the greater part of this morning's session of the police court.

There were three defendants, Simon Bue, William Stonis and John Smith alias John Blazonis, and they were charged with assault and battery on Ignas Diskewicz. Daniel J. Donahue appeared for Bue and Stonis, while J. Joseph O'Connor represented Blazonis. Nathan D. Pratt appeared for the government.

The government contended that the three defendants met the complainant in a house in Fayette street a week ago Sunday and without any provocation whatsoever assaulted him, beating him about the face and body.

Seven witnesses were sworn for the government and Ignas Diskewicz, the complainant, was the first to be examined. He stated that he is a fireman at the Higelow Carpet company and resides in a court off Fayette street with a James Alexis, the latter's wife being his wife's sister. He knew all three defendants and met them on the morning of April 11th in the hallway of the building in which he lives. In the afternoon he went to a house in Fayette street to collect some money from a woman who lived on the third floor. After transacting his business with the woman he started to leave the house and was descending the second flight of stairs when Blazonis grabbed him and threw him to the floor. Bue and Stonis were with Blazonis at the time.

Witness said that he was so frightened that he did not know whether or not he had been hit, but that his face was marked and body was sore all over as a result of the assault. Later Diskewicz said that he had been kicked, but was not sure which one of his assailants kicked him.

A few days after the assault Blazonis went to his house and said he would pay Diskewicz if the matter were not brought into court. Blazonis said he would not be examined.

Liquor Forfeited

The liquor seized at the house of Patrick Curran several weeks ago by the police officers of North Chelmsford was declared forfeited.

Llewelyn Jones, a second offender, was fined $6.

Assault on Ball Player

The sequel to a baseball game played last Saturday was aired before Judge Hadley in police court this morning, when two young men were arraigned on complaints charging them with assault and battery on Paul Carver, aged 13 years.

Carver, after being sworn, testified that he was playing first base on the Dracont Centre grammar school team, which was playing with Taylor's team in a field at the corner of Hildreth street and Aiken avenue.

At one point in the game the batter struck the ball to the pitcher and the latter threw it to Carver. While Carver was attempting to field the ball, one of the young men who stood behind the pitcher, threw a ball striking Carver in the abdomen. The blow was of such force as to cause Carver to drop to the ground. Just as he was about to rise it is alleged that the other young man hit him in the mouth. Carver bled profusely from the mouth and later suffered pains about the abdomen.

One of the defendants had little to offer for defense. He said that he was assisting in umpiring the game and hearing Carver shout for someone to throw the ball for him despite the fact that the ball that he held was not in play.

Another said that he struck Carver because the latter had got mad and threw a ball at him.

Judge Hadley decided that the assault was unprompted, found the defendants guilty, and fined them $15 each.

DISORDERS IN ASIATIC TURKEY

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22.—Grave news was received here today from Erzerum, the principal town of Turkish Armenia. The delight of the people at the proclamation of constitutional government is now being supplanted by a movement in favor of the laws and the sultan, which it is feared may lead to a conflict between Christians and Moslems. The wave of fanaticism which originated at Adana some ten days ago apparently is spreading generally through the east. The Christian villages in the vilayets and Aleppo and Clavas have been attacked by Kurds, Circassians and Nomads and the inhabitants are imploring the Porte to send troops for their protection.

The disbandment of five thousand time-expired men in the Constantinople garrison and the replacement of the remainder of the garrison by Saloniki troops, the punishment of soldiers according to the degree of their guilt in the revolutionary movement of last week and the transfer of the police of Constantinople to the reformed Macedonian gendarmes, all of these conditions to be executed with care and moderation in order to prevent bloodshed.

The investment of Constantinople by the constitutionalists is practically complete. Contingents of the third army corps have been sent to points in Asia Minor, notably Eski-Sheri, a station on the Anatolian railroad to intercept fugitives and cut off communication with the capital on this side.

TURKISH PEOPLE ON VERGE OF WAR

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22.—The conflict between Mussulman Piety and the political ideas of the west has brought the Turkish people to the verge of civil war. Zeal for the faith has been unloosed and the adjustment of the sultan's relations to the committee of union and progress probably will only postpone the armed struggle between the deliverers of the ancient teachings of the prophet and those who are urging the teachings from western Europe. The cabinet debated the situation for four hours yesterday, giving special attention to the negotiations which the ministers have taken in hand on behalf of the sultan, with the military members of the committee, among whom are Husuli Pasha, the commander of the Third army corps, his division commander, Izzet Pasha, chief of the general staff.

The sultan's primary demand is to remain the constitutional sovereign, with all the spiritual powers of the Caliphate with liberal allowances for his household, while he also asks for a variety of other guarantees, which it would not be difficult to grant.

The demand of the committee of union and progress is that the sultan shall offer no resistance whatever, and submit unconditionally.

The Saloniki committee, which is the backbone of the whole progressive movement, is largely military, and its most important civilian members are with the army.

Some members of the cabinet, including Rifaat Pasha, the former minister, are active constitutionalists. Tewfik Pasha, the grand vizier, who personally is most agreeable to the sultan and to military men, and who is looked on as best qualified to direct negotiations looking to a compromise. He has not been able to proceed very far in these negotiations, up to the present, owing to the uncertainties which have prevailed in the last few days, both within and outside of the capital. The grand vizier and his cabinet are quite prepared to resign, if the committee asks for their withdrawal from office. Indeed, they are anxious to resign and have only been held in office by the feeling that they may be able to avert a civil war or prevent acts of violence, which would bring about unwelcome intervention by the powers.

The committee, a vague term to represent influential men of modern spirit, is without definite limits. Its adherents who have a right to a voice in its affairs are divided among themselves. The radical faction insists that there shall be no compromise; that the sultan must be deposed and a reasonable prince, for instance, Yusuff Izzeddin, shall be named as his successor; that the whole administration be cleansed; that no promise of Abdul Hamid's can be trusted and that to re-establish the system of ten days ago would be to settle nothing.

The conservatives urge that the deposition of the sultan would only be possible after severe fighting; that it is uncertain whether the troops under the control of the committee would uphold such an act with their bayonets; that the wavering soldiers of the First army corps, to the number of 25,000 or 30,000, now garrisoning in the city, would be inflamed and break out into open revolt and that to demand too much means the failure of all.

"The sultan has got them to quarreling among themselves," said one of the ambassadors yesterday, "and he will have his own way yet."

BRILLIANT EVENT

Beautiful Decorations and Exquisite Gowns. Made Striking Scene at Associate Hall Last Evening

The inclement weather failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the members of Lowell Council, Knights of Columbus, and their friends, and the annual ball of the council held in Associate hall was one of the brilliant social affairs of the season and was attended by a large and merry gathering.

The interior of Associate hall never looked more inviting, for the decorations were elaborate and most artistic. The prevailing colors were white and gold. The back wall of the stage was hidden behind a wall of bunting, and the front was hedged with tropical plants in pleasing variety. While overhead was suspended an illuminated emblem of the order bordered with greenery. Streamers of the prevailing colors extended from the chandelier in the center to all corners of the hall, while for the center piece was a large floral bell. The gallery front was decorated with white bunting and greenery while the windows were hung with beautiful draperies.

The floral decorations were done by Collins, the Gorham street florist, and were very artistically arranged. The Knights of Columbus orchestra of 15 pieces, composed of members of the council under the leadership of

WHAT IS HEM-ROID?

A TABLET, TAKEN INTERNALLY, THAT CURES PILES.

Piles (hemorrhoids) are getting more common every day, because we live unnaturally, overeating, overworking, taking little exercise, gradually causing a distention of veins and tissues in the lower bowel. Blood stagnation is the cause of piles, and a condition that can't be permanently cured with ointments.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is the only internal remedy that cures piles by freeing the circulation. Sold under guarantee at Carter & Sherrill's, Boston. — Dr. Leonhardt Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y.

HEEL AND TOE MATCH

Officers Murphy and Clark Walk From Boston

Lowell may not have any famous Marathon runners, but it certainly has some corking square heels and toe walkers and on its police force is that. Yesterday a square heel and toe match from the North Station, Boston, to the corner of Lawrence and Rogers streets, this city, was held between Police Officer Dan Murphy of the regular force and Superintendent Officer Joseph Clark.

Accompanying them on several judges and timers were Officers Matt McCann and Dan Lynch, both of whom are themselves. Officer McCann had a cyclometer on his wheel which at the finish showed that the distance was 25 and 1-10 miles.

The race was won by Murphy by 20 yards in 4 hours, 45 minutes, 40 seconds which is faster than Dan O'Leary went it and beats the best previous record made by Austin Gallery, the greater and ex-Alexander John Daly who covered the ground in 5 hours, 1 minute.

The two officers kept together all the way until they reached Wamsit when Murphy pulled away and it is said that Clark lost through a blunder of his. Dan Lynch, who gave him a couple of "fuzers," otherwise called "fuzers," to get the men walked straight heel and toe throughout the distance and their time is considered excellent. The men left the starting point at 10 o'clock this morning.

DEATH AND RUIN

Lake Erie Was Swept by a Great Squall Today

CLEVELAND, April 22.—A squall which swept along the southern shore of Lake Erie yesterday left death and ruin behind it. The wind reached a velocity of nearly one hundred miles an hour for a few minutes. Day was made dark as night. Trees and frame houses were blown down in all parts of the city. Lightning started many fires. A young woman was blown into Wade Park pond and drowned. The roof was blown from the main building of the Case school of applied science and from Adelbert college. Monuments and trees were blown down in Woodland cemetery. Telegraph and telephone wires were down.

GOV. DRAPER

Sends Message on Railroad Situation

BOSTON, April 22.—The creation of a corporation to be financed by any railroad corporation of Massachusetts, presumably the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad for the purpose of purchasing and holding stock of the Boston & Maine railroad was the solution of the railroad controversy in this state suggested by Gov. Draper in a message to the legislature yesterday. "The governor suggested that, if such a corporation be formed it should be strictly limited that a majority of its directors shall be citizens of Massachusetts and that its principal offices shall be in Boston. The message follows:

"The existing situation in regard to some of the great railroad companies which are serving the commonwealth of Massachusetts seems to me to be unsatisfactory. It is not necessary for me to state in detail the events which have led up to this condition or to attempt any characterization of them. It is the condition which exists which needs improvement.

"At the present time there is a large amount of stock in the Boston & Maine railroad which is generally understood to be owned by foreign corporations or by gentlemen who are not citizens of Massachusetts. This stock may at any time change ownership and become the property of some great railroad whose main interests would not be in Massachusetts nor New England. If anything can be done so that this condition may be changed and the ownership of this stock brought into the control of Massachusetts it would seem to be wise and for the best interests of the commonwealth. I am informed and believe that this result can be brought about if in the opinion of your honorable bodies it is considered wise.

"I therefore suggest that you consider the advisability of creating a corporation which under such limitations as you prescribe shall have the right to purchase and hold stock in the Boston & Maine railroad giving to any railroad corporation incorporated under the laws of this commonwealth the necessary power temporarily or otherwise to finance said corporation and I would suggest that if a charter is granted to such a corporation its powers be strictly limited.

"Among other things it should be provided that a majority of the directors of the corporation must at all times be citizens of the commonwealth and that its principal offices and place of business must be in the city of Boston, as well as the meetings of its directors and that the corporation shall not have the power to sell or dispose of the stock so acquired by it without the consent of the commonwealth after investigation by the railroad commissioners and action by the legislature. If such a corporation is authorized with the powers and limitations which I have indicated I am informed and believe that it could acquire a large holding of stock of the Boston & Maine railroad and control of one of the great lines of railroads serving Massachusetts and New England into the Massachusetts company and chartered by the commonwealth such ownership and control would rest in that company until the commonwealth by act of its legislature should relinquish it.

"It seems to me that this would result in benefit to New England and would remove doubt and uncertainty now existing and bring a large part of the railroad interests in our immediate vicinity into harmonious relations with the government and citizens of the commonwealth and I commend such action to your favorable consideration."

FOUND HANGING

PROVIDENCE MAN HAD BEEN MENTALLY DEPRESSED

PROVIDENCE, April 22.—The dead body of Louis Fritz, one of the oldest carriage repairers in Rhode Island, was found hanging by a cord from a hack in his Point street factory yesterday. The cord was fastened tightly about his neck. Mr. Fritz had been mentally depressed of late over business troubles, it is said.

CHURCH CHOIRS

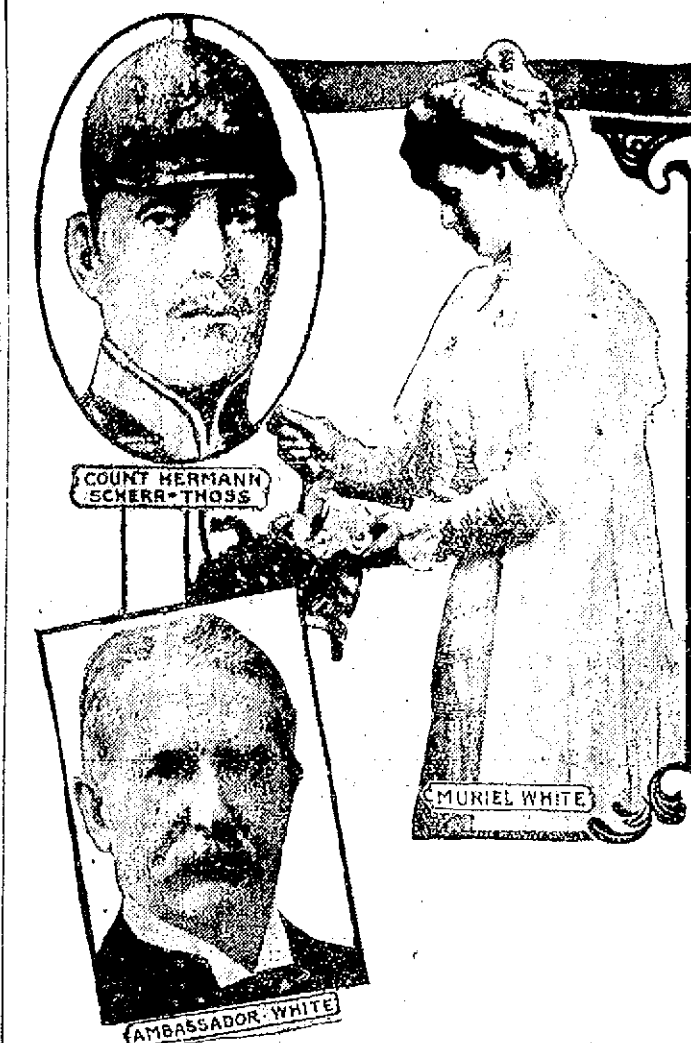

WOMEN TO BE ALLOWED TO REMAIN

At a meeting of the committee appointed to take charge of the music in the Catholic churches of the diocese held in Boston, Monday, and which was attended by the organists of the local Catholic church choirs, it was announced that the women will be allowed to remain in the church choirs.

TO RE-ESTABLISH CHURCH

LONDON, April 22.—The long promised bill for the re-establishment of the church in Wales was introduced in the house of commons yesterday by Premier Asquith.

AMBASSADOR WHITE AND DAUGHTER TEXTILE NOTES

PARIS, April 22.—Arrangements for the wedding of Count Hermann Scherr-Thoss and Miss Muriel White, daughter of the American ambassador, which were delayed by differences in the faith of the contracting parties, are completed, but Ambassador White will not attend the Catholic service. The civil ceremony will be held at the mairie of the eighth arrondissement, in which the ambassador resides, on April 23. The following day the religious marriage will be celebrated at St. Joseph's church, in Avenue Hoche, one of the most exclusive Catholic churches in Paris. The service will be simple and will be attended only by members of the immediate families.

DIAMOND NOTES.

The New England league season will open tomorrow, but there will be nothing doing in Lowell for the Tigers will open at New Bedford and will not get back home until Wednesday next when the opening game at Washington park promises to be a swell event. Mayor Brown will throw the first ball over the plate.

The University of Vermont team, on which Haynes of Lowell is a valued member plays here tomorrow.

Washington park will be well rolled with a steamroller before the opening game as the outfield is a little soft.

Since Edward F. Brady offered a home run bat to the Lowell player who will make the first home run within the grounds, the fans are figuring out just where to hit the ball to make a home run possible. Jimmie Gardner, the boxer, who is also a fan and a fair ball player, appears to have it figured out.

It is said that Jimmie says that in his opinion the only way to get a home run within the grounds is by hitting along the third base line clear to the left field fence. The ball upon reaching the fence will come out and down between the fence and the row of trees, and by the time a fielder can get to it a fast runner could get home.

The right field fence is so short that a ball hit to it bounces back into the open field where the fielder can get to it easily, but a long hit to the left field fence always leaves the ball close to the fence.

Nichols, the Villanova college shortstop during the past three years, is being tried out at third. His throwing was not perfect, but his hitting the change of position, but otherwise he looks good. On the bases he particularly shines and has that snap which the crowd is always seeking in ball players.—Fall River Globe.

A large number of Lowell fans went to Boston yesterday to root for Fred Lake and his Red Sox, and the Red Sox won.

AMATEUR BASEBALL.

The Crecents will play the Sagamores on Saturday, April 24, for a purse of $10. Game called at 3 o'clock. Take Chelmsford street car and get off at Parker street.

A game scheduled for Monday afternoon at the Highland school grounds between the Young Champions and Y. M. C. A. Juniors was not played on account of the non-appearance of the Y. M. C. A.'s.

The Young Champions have reorganized and challenge any 14 or 15 year old team in or around Lowell. Send challenges to Manager S. E. Rostin, 649 Middlesex street.

The "Centrals" baseball team will challenge any baseball team in the city under 15 years of age. This is a fine team and would like to challenge the best. The Centrals beat the "Chelmsfords" Thursday by a score of 2 to 1. The lineup is as follows:

J. Kane, c; W. Kelley, p; G. Waller, 1st b; H. McGuire, 2nd b; O. O'Connell, 3rd b; R. Cluff, 4th b; J. Doherty, 5th b; F. Fyfe, 6th b; C. Cassidy, 7th b.

Send all challenges to Joe Shea, Central street, corner of Walnut.

The Fairmonts opened the season Monday by defeating the Oakland Grangers' team by the score of 4 to 1. The feature of the game was a tall tale between Drummer Moore and Jack McSorley and the running of George Cluff.

The Fairmonts, a strong team of the Oakland, would like to arrange games for Saturday with any Lowell team in the city. (Lancaster) Tribune.

Spencer Martin, 2nd baseman of the Boston Sox, was hit by a pitch from Billie Beck, Wilson of the Farmers Burns of Chelmsford yesterday. Send all challenges to Barry & Owen's battery.

The Tyngsboro baseball team would like games with the following in the city: Waverley, T. R. & Co., Lowell, 1st b; M. C. A., Chelmsford, Centre and

Interesting Items From Mill Centres

UTICA, N. Y., April 22.—Chiefly to avoid paying its personal tax in the city, the Utica Knitting Co. will transfer its executive offices to Oriskany Falls, where the company has a plant. The company considers the assessment of its real and personal property too high. The law decrees that the real estate of a company be assessed in which it is located, but that the personal property be assessed in the town where its principal office is located. In 1907 the company was assessed at $120,700 on its real estate and $391,000 on its personal property. In 1908 the company was assessed on its real estate at $201,350, and on its personal property at $450,000. The company demurred to its assessments and was given a hearing and the board of assessors claimed that the assessment was fair and just on the report made by the company and that the assessment compared with those on other manufacturing property in the city. The total assessment was $651,350. The company's action was taken at a meeting of the stockholders held at its local office on Erie street. The vote was unanimous in favor of the proposition to remove the principal offices to Oriskany Falls. As soon as the necessary papers certifying the action are filed the removal will be de facto and the city of Utica will lose the personal tax of the company.

PERSEVERANCE CO. ADDITION
WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 22.—The Perseverance Worsted Co. is to erect a modern addition to its plant on River street. Plans have been made for the building of a basement and two-story addition, 5x170 feet. Work will be started as soon as possible. Foundation & basement are the architect. The building will be of brick and the basement of concrete. The new part will be connected with the present mill by a passway. The addition is to be erected on the southeast side of the present mill and will be for the finishing department, which will be given over. More space will be changed by the change for the installation of looms, if desired.

PLAN NEW KNITTING MILL
NORRISTOWN, Pa., April 22.—Plans have been drawn and proposals invited for a knitting plant that will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, and will be one of the largest industrial plants in the Schuylkill valley. The mill will be the Ballard Knitting Co. the factory will be on Astor street, adjacent to the Williams Manufacturing Co. The plans call for a building 134 feet long, 80 feet wide and five stories in height and a basement. The product of the plant will be hosiery, underwear and all kinds of knit goods, and it will furnish employment to upward of 400 hands, if not more.

BLACKKNIT MILL BUSY
BLACKSTONE, Mass., April 22.—All of the looms that it is possible to operate in the Blackknit mill are now being run by Waterhouse & Howard, who are also operating their mill on Eagle street full time. The building of the new weave shed at Blackknit, which necessitates so many changes at the mill, makes it impossible to operate all of the looms, but over 50 are now being run and every loom that can be used during the necessary changes will be operated all of the time.

SILK MILL FOR LEBANON
LEBANON, Pa., April 22.—That Lebanon will get the proposed new silk mill operating here now, was as good as guaranteed at the meeting of citizens in the Mann building. The $53,000 already subscribed for, in amounts from $10,000 to $100,000, was increased by pledges of $12,500 to over $65,000. Further pledges were in sight when the meeting ended, and the balance of the $100,000 needed for the bond with which the mill will be built is said to be assured.

The Patten corner has attracted the attention of the European capitals and caused a bill to be introduced in congress against option trading. It also has resulted in many threats against Patten, who goes about accompanied by a bodyguard.

ON THE ALLEYS

LOWELL ONE PRICE DEFEATED WEST ENDS

The Lowell One Price team took two points and the total last night in the Minor league, from West Ends. The match was played on the Crescent alleys. Grant was high man with a three-string total of 392 and a single of 113.

BOWLWAY LEAGUE

The Bowlways and the Highlanders split even last night on the Bridge street alleys, each team taking two points in the Bowlway league. Dwyer was high man with a three-string total of 235, and Croft took the single with 111.

Overseer Bean, formerly of Wilton, N. H., has taken charge of the finishing department of the Faulkner Mfg. Co.

ASSOCIATED PRESS OFFICERS

NEW YORK, April 22.—Following the annual meeting of the Associated Press, held here Tuesday, the board of directors met yesterday and organized by the election of the following officers:

President, Frank E. Noyes, Chicago Record-Herald; first vice president, J. C. Hemphill, Charleston S. C. News and Courier; second vice president, John H. Faber, Boston Traveller; secretary and general manager, Melville E. Stone, assistant secretary and assistant general manager, Charles S. Diehl, and J. R. Youatt of New York, treasurer.

HARVEY TARBELL

Has Returned From European Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Tarbell, the former well known local landscape architect, arrived home Tuesday after a delightful tour of the countries of Europe and a very enjoyable cruise through the Mediterranean sea. The itinerary included England, Ireland, France, Italy, Greece, Germany and the Holy Land.

He marvelled at some of the buildings, ruins, etc. that he saw and agrees with others that a tour of Europe is indeed a valuable education. While Mr. Tarbell's trip was principally for pleasure, he paid particular attention to the landscape work in the different countries and came home with many new ideas.

He tells some very interesting stories of the trip. One place which he was greatly interested in owing no doubt, to the fact that his business is that of planning, is the city of Pompeii which stood at the base of Mount Vesuvius, between Herculaneum and Stabiae, in Italy, which was buried in 79 A. D. by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius.

The city lay buried until 1689 when some ruins were noticed but nothing was done towards restoring the city until 1755 when the Neapolitan government took charge of the work of excavating and the work has continued up to the present time. Of late years, however, the government has had little to do with the work, it being carried on by subscription.

Mr. Tarbell says that he spent quite a little time at the site of the ruined city where at times thousands of people are employed in carrying away earth and ashes which buried the city. Men, women and children are employed to excavate and carry the dirt away and their pay averages about 15 cents a day. When the money subscribed is exhausted, the work is stopped until more money is forthcoming from public spirited citizens or from some of the historic societies throughout the world.

The remains found are in a remarkably good state of preservation owing to the fact that the city was destroyed not by lava, but by sand, ashes and cinders, forming a light covering and practically hermetically sealed the town.

INCOME TAX

PRESIDENT TAFT HAS NOT CHANGED VIEWS

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Recent agitation, it is said, at the White House has in no wise changed President Taft's views, that an income tax should be in the nature of a last step for raising revenue for the national government. The president believes an income tax is the best and most equitable of the special taxation devices under consideration and he favors the levy of such taxes as will cause the least friction with the people. President Taft, it is said, has implicit confidence in Senator Aldrich and believes that a satisfactory solution of the tariff question and of raising increased revenues soon will be reached.

TWO REPORTS

FITCHBURG, April 22.—When the trustees of the Burbank hospital met yesterday to consider the report of the trustees' recent investigation into the charges of alleged misconduct by doctors and nurses and alleged ill treatment of patients, two reports were submitted to them. The majority report was signed by Mayor M. Fred O'Connell, chairman of the committee; Charles E. Kane, vice chairman; Alvan Crocker and W. W. Downend. The minority report was presented by the fifth member of the committee, Harry Bennett who is also president of the common council. The majority report recommends certain changes in the conduct of the hospital and the method of electing the executive committee and favors the appointment of a new superintendent of the hospital in his report recommending certain changes in methods and urges the removal of Dr. George McIver and of the matron, Miss Ada White.

MADE WELL AND STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bardonia, Ky.—"I suffered from ulceration and other female troubles for a long time. Doctors had failed to help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and I decided to try it. It cured my trouble and made me well and strong, so that I can do all my own work." Mrs. JOSEPH HALL, Bardonia, Ky.

Another Woman Cured.

Christiana, Tenn.—"I suffered from the worst form of female trouble so that at times I thought I could not live, and my nerves were in a dreadful condition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me, and made me feel like a different woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold to suffering women."—Mrs. Mary Wood, R.F.D. 3.

If you belong to that countless army of women who suffer from some form of female ill, don't hesitate to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

For thirty years this famous remedy has been the standard for all forms of female ill, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, fibroid tumors, ulceration, inflammation, irregularities, backache, and nervous prostration.

THE CHARTER AMENDMENT BILLS.

The board of trade committee has filed in the legislature the amended charter bill, and it is to be hoped that the Lowell delegation will use their influence to have the bill become law.

The committee on cities insisted that the party designation should not be dropped, and Lowell influences, principally republican, opposed any change in the election of the school board. The other features of the bill remain practically unchanged with the exception that the "Recall" has been eliminated. The common council will go if the amended charter bill be adopted in its present form. The bill provides for nine aldermen elected at large for two years, so that the city will thus get the best men and be able to keep them long enough to derive some benefit from their experience in transacting the city's business.

If an alderman renders good service the voters can elect him, thus giving him four years in office, a period which should make him a very valuable public servant if he is the right kind of a man.

The salary of the mayor is to be not less than $3600 and not more than $5000, the amount to be fixed by the board of aldermen. The mayor's power of appointment and removal without confirmation is limited to the superintendent of streets and the inspector of buildings.

Should this bill be enacted and adopted by the people, it will accomplish a few very important improvements. Should the Meehan-Conley bill providing for the separation of the police and licensing powers be also adopted the whole will result in a very considerable change in our municipal government, and we believe a change for the better. The Meehan-Conley bill is right in principle so far as a separation of the police and licensing powers go. It might be well to make the experiment of having the business done as proposed by this bill. If it effects the desired improvement then there will be reason to rejoice, but if not the only alternative is to place the license granting power in the hands of the governor of Massachusetts and take it completely out of local politics.

So far as the local police commission is concerned it must be apparent to all that the very best men who can possibly be selected may be made the scapegoats of scheming politicians, may be investigated and possibly removed on technical charges. Such a system cannot last because under such conditions the time is at hand when no honest or capable man will accept a position on our police board for the reason that however well he performs his duties he may be made the butt of some designing politician who happened to be elected mayor on a platform of general opposition to corrupt interests, a platform intended mainly to catch votes and deceive the people.

The charter in amended form combined with the Meehan-Conley bill will be submitted to the people at the state election, and if adopted will take effect and be in full force next year. The city is in the greatest need of a more systematic method of transacting its business, and the charter bill will accomplish something in that direction but not so much as we require. However, it is a matter of taking what we can get when we cannot get what we want.

THE VETO OF THE PAVING LOAN.

We approve the action of the aldermen in passing the paving loan over the mayor's veto. The reasons urged by His Honor for vetoing the loan order were far fetched and based simply upon the fact that the cost under the present contract is to be a few cents a yard higher than under the contract for paving Central and Middlesex streets last year. As Alderman Wainwright well said, the paving of Bridge, Merrimack and the remaining portion of Middlesex street will be a more difficult proposition than that of paving streets on which there is no net work of car tracks and few obstructions of any other kind.

The improvement of Central and Middlesex streets by the black paving laid there last year is so clearly a benefit to the city that nobody who has the city's interests in view could object to having some of the other business streets similarly paved even if the cost be a little higher.

It is an imperative necessity to complete the job on Middlesex street at least as far as the depot, and it is equally necessary to pave Merrimack street from Bridge street to city hall.

The condition of Merrimack square for some years past has been deplorable owing to the laying of conduits, the construction of sewers and the changing of tracks. Public convenience and necessity demand that the square shall be paved in the best possible manner, and we know of no better paving than that which is laid on Central and Middlesex streets, the kind authorized by the order which the mayor vetoed. The difference in the cost is a small matter compared to the possible loss and certain inconvenience that would be caused by putting off the paving of these streets for another year.

The aldermen acted in the interest of the city in passing the loan over the mayor's veto, and it is to be hoped that the lower board will concur in order that the job may be started in time to be finished before the arrival of cold weather.

THE SITUATION IN TURKEY.

The situation in the Turkish empire is very alarming. The country is at present in the throes of revolution intensified by religious frenzy aimed mainly at Christians. Already a large number of Christians have been massacred, and still other outrages of a similar kind will be perpetrated before the trouble is ended.

The Armenians as usual will have to suffer much of the atrocities perpetrated by the Moslem fanatics. The situation calls for the prompt interference of the powers to prevent further outrages. It appears that the sultan's way will be overthrown and civilization will have no cause to regret that particular feature of the revolution. He has repeatedly saved himself by appealing to the fanaticism of the Mohammedans and turning their fury against the Christians.

The progressive element known as the young Turks, the leaders in this revolution, will probably overthrow the present dynasty and establish one to their own liking.

There is an opportunity now for the Armenian revolutionists to strike a blow for the freedom of their country. They have suffered untold cruelties, and anything they can do to overthrow the present government and to add in establishing their freedom would be justified under present conditions. There is an opportunity for the Hindu and other revolutionary societies to help the motherland, but of late they have been too busy engaged in fighting one another, or we might say in cutting each other's throats to do anything for their country. It is to be hoped that out of the fires of revolution will come a government more strongly committed to the principles of justice and civilization than was that presided over by Abdul Hamid, who has been justly designated "the damned."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Yolande Mero, a noted Hungarian pianist, will be presented to the American public next winter by Henry Wolfson, who has just closed a contract with her for sixty concerts in the United States and Canada, commencing in New York city in November next. Mr. Paul Zitel, in his book, "Artistic Impressions," speaks of Miss Mero as the greatest pianist who has come out of Hungary since the days of Liszt. In addition to all of the artistic requirements demanded of a virtuoso of the present Miss Mero is endowed with that rare gift of personal beauty that has won her distinction among her contemporaries. Miss Mero was born in Budapest in 1887, and her public performances commenced when she was nine years of age. She has toured Germany, Hungary, and not a year ago made her debut in London, where she was hailed with acclamations.

A movement is on foot in Russian and Austrian Poland to honor the memory of Helena Modjeska, the Polish actress who died in California, April 8. Arrangements are being made for a memorial service to be held in Warsaw, and a statue of Miss Modjeska will be erected in the foyer of the Warsaw theatre. A committee is working in Austrian Poland to erect another statue at the Lemberg theatre.

The Warsaw theatre has established a Modjeska fund to further the education of young actors. An effort is being made to collect money to bring the body to Warsaw for burial, and if it is permitted there will be a public funeral. There is some doubt, however, as to whether the Russian authorities will permit this. Insanitary as Miss Modjeska was expelled from Russia several years ago when she was about to make a public appearance in that city. It is believed in Warsaw is not possible, the body will be interred in Cracow, in Austrian Poland.

Cracow was the early home of Miss Modjeska.

John W. Thomas of Shelby county, Ky., was an only citizen. He threatened and frightened the neighbors and farm house was his arsenal as well as his castle; he defied the officers of the law, and they were afraid to venture upon the premises to arrest him. He's gone now. A kinsman offered to pay him $10 a month for living somewhere else than in Kentucky, and Thomas promptly closed with the offer.

J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., has decided to become a member of the North Shore colony of Nassau county, and has purchased the Leonard Jacob estate on Long Island sound at Glen Cove for a price reported to be about $250,000. The tract consists of an island about fifty acres in extent in Long Island sound, adjoining Dosoris, the county seat of Charles A. Dana. There is a country house on the property and an attractive lake, a house upon which more than $100,000 will be spent in improvements. Deep water admitting all large yachts is within a short distance of the house. Mr. Morgan assumes a mortgage for $225,000 on the place, which he obtained through Thomas Joyce from Lawrence Jacob.

The executive committee of the New Haven Paint and Clay club has made a public protest against the position taken by the central committee in not following the recommendation to include one or more experts on architecture in their committee for considering the plans for the new county court house. "It seems a reasonable and self-evident proposition," says the protest, "that one or more experts should be included in this court house committee. The court house, which will have one of the most conspicuous sites in all New Haven, is a matter of vital importance to everyone who takes pride in the city. And it will not be enough that the building should be a fine one in itself, if it does not harmonize and lend itself to the scheme of its surroundings." Ralph Adams Cross, in a recent lecture on architecture in the Yale School of Fine Arts, they quote "spoke of the crying sin of American architects as 'individualism,' the sorry result of which produces architectural anarchy. The fact that we have no municipal art commission to pass on buildings in New Haven makes it most important that every architect should be taken to insure in the new court house a worthy and creditable structure. If the county commissioners should reconsider this point, and decide to admit an expert to their committee, they would have the satisfaction of knowing that they were acting in accordance with the best precedent, with the voice of public opinion, and for the best interests of New Haven."

Witness noted a shortage of seven bags of cement in the count of a load, and the driver said that he would bring them the next time. A few days later a load arrived, and the driver, after following the custom of going into the office to report the load, drove away with the cement still on the cart.

Soon after reporting, this instance witness was assigned to another job. Witness was one of those who attended hall games until it became known the told of an outing that the street department employees had, and said that a portable shed was built in the carpenter shop and then taken to the scene of the outing in the department's emergency wagon. It was used for the cook. Witness said that each man contributed $1 a month toward a fund which was supposed to be used in the interest of a certain majority applicant. The money was collected by Timekeeper Burton. Witness said that his father had been offered employment in the department within a week.

John F. Roberts, another discharged street department employee, told of conditions that existed in the police department the few days that he was there. He said that the men idled away the time. He cited the shelling of three street department employees told the investigating committee last night how time was wasted at the city stables during the administration of Supt. John C. Needham.

Daniel H. Logue said that he worked about the yard for a time in the early part of last year, nominally performing the duties of a foreman, although he was not so designated. He said that there were 25 men about the yard. In the paint shop the force varied from five to nine. Up to February practically nothing was done by them. Then they began sandpapering watering carts.

Asked how the men occupied the time, he said that they sat about the fire and told funny stories. Occasionally they painted a sign. "No Admittance Except on Business" or "No Smoking" and everyone was smoking. The witness added, Cards were also played. One of the men got a wheelbarrow of coal as it was required.

"The boss couldn't get into the shop while we were there," the witness declared.

CRAZED BY FEAR

Woman Plunged Through Window to Her Death

NEW YORK, April 22.—During a small fire in the tenement at No. 445 Grand street yesterday afternoon Mrs. Rachel Mathison, temporarily crazed by fear, leaped from a window on the fourth floor, plunging through the window to her death.

The fire started in the flat on the third floor, occupied by Mrs. Rebecca Ganz, who opened the door of her bedroom shortly after four o'clock and found the room in flames.

Mrs. Ganz called in several tenants living on the same floor, and for several minutes they fought vainly to extinguish the blaze. It spread quickly to the other rooms of the apartment, and Mrs. Mathison, who was in the street and gasped the alarm.

Mrs. Mathison, who was alone with her daughter, Rose, in their room on the floor above, was aroused by shouting in the street. She ran to the front window, threw it open and was met by a blast of flame and smoke from the windows below. Her clothes were scorched by the flames.

Afraid to Escape by Hall

Jumping back from the window with a cry of terror, Mrs. Mathison ran with her daughter to the door of their apartment. The fire had not spread to the hallway yet, but it was filled with smoke. Other tenants were running down the stairs, and both Mrs. Mathison and her daughter, who had escaped unhurt, fled to the street.

"I will have to jump," she screamed to her daughter, and ran again to the front window, with Rose clinging to her skirts and trying to calm her. The fire engines had arrived by this time, and, diving Mrs. Mathison's intention as she leaped from the window, the firemen shouted to her not to jump, and several of them started up the stairs of the building to bring her down. There was time even then for the mother and daughter to escape either by the stairs or by the roof-scuttle, through which some of the other tenants had climbed.

The fright-crazed woman left the window for a moment and, picking up her pet ferret, which was barking about the flat, she hurried it through the window to the street. It was killed outright. Then she climbed onto the sill, while the crowd renewed its shout: "Don't jump!"

Girl and Woman Struggle

Rose, clinging to her mother's skirts, was struggling desperately to hold her back. Mrs. Mathison did not try to drag her daughter with her, but sought to fight her off. For several seconds they struggled fiercely, the mother practically hanging out of the window and the daughter bracing herself against the sill within. The crowd below was watching breathlessly now. Suddenly, with a violent effort, Mrs. Mathison thrust herself from the window, and the little girl, her strength gone, but still grasping her mother's skirts, was carried with her. A cry of horror went from the street as the pair fell, and then the crowd surged forward to the spot where they lay off the pavement, both unconscious.

Mrs. Mathison and her daughter, Rose, were taken to the hospital, where the mother died. At the hospital it was found that the daughter was suffering merely from a bruise on the head and shock. The mother's left leg was broken, her skull fractured, and she was injured internally. She lived only a few hours.

Mrs. Mathison was a widow and the mother of eight children, of whom Rose is the youngest. The others were all away at work when the fire started. The blaze was extinguished without difficulty, but not before the front apartments on the third and fourth floors burned out. The damage was about $1,000.

MR. ROOSEVELT NO AGREEMENT

Was Warmly Greeted at Mombasa The A. O. H. Conference Availed Nothing

MOMBASA, British East Africa, Apr. 22.—Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt arrived here last evening on board the steamer Admiral. He was in the best of health as were all the other members of his party. The Admiral entered the harbor flying the American flag at her fore and main masts. She dipped her German ensign while passing the British cruiser Pandora, whose crews and masts were manned by cheering sailors. The Pandora saluted the ex-president, who was on the bridge interested in watching the Admiral coming into port.

The people of Mombasa were in a great state of expectancy throughout the day, and the first word that the ship had been sighted brought them in crowds to vantage points, where they might catch a glimpse of the distinguished visitor. The Admiral, however, came slowly up to the harbor and it was dark when the ex-president, accompanied by his son Kermit and the captain, arrived at the landing. They were brought ashore in the commandant's surf boat and carried to a place of shelter in chairs on natives' shoulders.

There was a perfect deluge of rain, but in reply to the expressions of regret at the weather, Mr. Roosevelt said he was glad to get ashore in any weather. He added that he was in splendid form and could start to the hunting grounds could not come a minute too soon. The governor's aide boarded the Admiral and extended a welcome to Mr. Roosevelt, who received another cordial greeting on shore from the provincial commissioner, who conducted him to the government house. R. P. Cunningham, the hunter and field naturalist, who is in charge of the expedition, also was at the landing. The former president seemed highly pleased when he observed the military guard drawn up. He replied to the guard's salute by doffing his hat and smiling broadly. The crowds on shore pressed eagerly forward to see the noted American, who is accompanied by Europeans, Indians and natives, and presented a picturesque appearance. While genuinely hearty in their welcome of the former president of the United States, the people were not in any way demonstrative.

It had been the intention of the party to remain in Mombasa for two days, but the flood of rain began here and it was deemed advisable to change this plan.

The special train which will carry Mr. Roosevelt and his party to Sir Alfred Pease's ranch on the Athi river will leave here at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

DUBLIN, April 22.—The conference of Matthew Cummings, national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, and Fr. P. H. O'Donnell of Massachusetts, delegates from America, with representatives of the two sections of the Order of Hibernians, was held privately yesterday but ended without result. The proceedings were protracted, the American delegates declining to make any statement on the conference. Joseph Devlin, M. P., in behalf of the board of Erin, issued a statement in which he said:

"We believe that the center of an organization working for Ireland ought to be located in Ireland and not in America. Our national convention, meeting on Irish soil, continues to be the supreme authority to formulate a policy of organization."

It is said that the conference resolved itself into a conflict between the Sinn Feiners and parliamentarians, and that an agreement appeared hopeless.

ENTIRE STATE

PLUNGED IN GRIEF OVER GOVERNOR'S DEATH

HARTFORD, April 22.—The whole state of Connecticut is plunged in gloom today over the death of Governor George L. Lilley, and messages of condolence with the family have poured into the executive mansion, in Farmington avenue all night. The arrangements for the funeral awaited a conference between Executive Secretary Charles Goodwin representing the family, and the joint committee of senators and representatives appointed as soon as the general assembly convened. Acting Governor Weeks of Middletown was sworn into office as governor during the morning. Immediately afterwards he officially notified the general assembly of the death of Gov. Lilley and his own accession to office. It was expected that as soon as the day of the funeral was set that a proclamation making the day a holiday for the purpose of mourning the death of the chief executive, would be issued.

Gov. Lilley, it is believed, knew that he would not recover although he kept up bravely while consciousness lasted. Just before he sank into semi-consciousness which preceded the state of coma, Mr. Lilley remarked to his nurse that he did not expect to leave his bed again. He expressed a wish to be able to do so to complete work that he had set out to do but he said he felt that he would not be able to. Said he: "If I had ten thousand lives to live I should be glad to have accomplished what I have accomplished."

A few hours later Gov. Lilley had entered the vale over which hung the shadow of death.

CHANNING CONFERENCE

FALL RIVER, April 22.—The 56th annual Channing conference of Unitarian churches was held in the First Unitarian church here yesterday. Officers were elected as follows: President, Job C. Tripp, Fair Haven. Vice president, Samuel H. Tingley, Providence. Secretary, Rev. George Kent, Providence. Treasurer, Augustus R. Pierce, Providence.

ON FREE LIST

COTTONSEED OIL MAY BE PLACED

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Cottonseed oil was the subject of an exchange of opinion between protectionist Republicans and tariff for revenue Democrats in the senate yesterday. Taunting members of the minority by saying that the cotton seed oil industry of the south appealed to him for tariff protection, Sen. Aldrich suggested to Mr. Bacon that if the senator from Georgia and other southern senators would get together in favor of placing that product on the free list as was the case when the bill passed the house of representatives, he thought an agreement to that end might be reported.

This suggestion was called forth by a statement by Mr. Bacon, who said if the 25 per cent. ad valorem levied on importations of cotton seed oil did not produce an income, he thought it should go on the free list.

Sen. Simmons of North Carolina, coming into the chamber at that moment, protested against such action, declaring that he was free to say that he was not in favor of placing cotton seed oil on the free list.

"Saying that the importation of cotton seed oil in 1898 was 202 gallons and that it yielded revenue of $8.28, Mr. Aldrich said the tax on that article was for the protection pure and simple."

"Any pretence," declared Mr. Tillman, rising in his place and speaking vigorously, "that there is protection on cotton seed oil through such a duty, is a humbug. Cotton seed oil producers do not want any protection at all."

Mr. Aldrich said that he had been appealed to by such producers in the south, and Mr. Tillman retorted that he "did not represent such people."

Mr. Money joined in a declaration that the south did not want protection on cotton seed oil.

A SQUARE DEAL AND A SQUARE MEAL

Here's a square deal for the people who can't eat a square meal without after pain and distress.

Go to Carter & Sherburne's today and get a box of Mi-o-na tablets: the great prescription for indigestion and stomach troubles.

Take one if your suffering is intense, two tablets with or after meals and at the end of ten days if you can't eat a square meal without distress go to Carter & Sherburne's and get your money back.

That's where the square deal comes in.

But Mi-o-na is really a stomach up-builder of great merit: every day the makers receive more than a dozen letters from grateful people which state that after they had lost all hope Mi-o-na cured.

The quick and positive action of Mi-o-na on the stomach in case of gas, flatulency, sour stomach and heartburn is worth a lot of money to any sufferer.

Why not try Mi-o-na at Carter & Sherburne's? Fifty cents buys a large box.

E. D. Howe, Gardner, Mass., says: "I suffered from severe pains in my stomach. I tried different remedies without relief, after using two boxes of Mi-o-na I found myself completely cured."

Mi-o-na is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Oh; what a difference in the morning when you take Booth's Laxative! 25 cents at Carter & Sherburne's.

MRS. BOYLE HAS FINALLY BEEN IDENTIFIED AS HELEN McDERMOTT

MERCER, Pa., April 22.—Mrs. Boyle, the alleged wife of James H. Boyle, abductor of Willie Whittle, is a mystery no longer. Last night the Associated Press was given absolute information that the woman is Helen McDermott of Chicago. Stories to the effect that she is a member of a prominent and wealthy family it was said are without any foundation whatever. Last night Attorney T. C. Cochrane, representing the prosecution, said without qualification that Mrs. Boyle was Helen McDermott. Her family resides in Chicago.

Attorney J. P. Stranahan, Jr., counsel for the woman, confirmed the identification. Mr. Stranahan said last night that Mrs. Boyle's brother visited her once. This was some time ago when he had a lengthy talk with her and returned to Chicago to prepare means for her defense. Since that time funds have come from Chicago regularly to Mrs. Boyle. During the latter part of the week a deposit of $1,000 was made to Mrs. Boyle's favor here and owing to various statements, the house was led to believe she was a member of a prominent family.

Attorney Cochrane had had possession of the history of the woman for some time. Facts in regard to her alleged visits in Kansas City, St. Louis, Louisville, Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland, St. Joseph, Mo., and Brooklyn are to be made public by the prosecuting counsel.

POLICE OFFICER

Was Attacked by the "Whyo" Club

BOSTON, April 22.—Hundreds of people looked on while upwards of 20 of the famous "Whyo" gang of the Roxbury Crossing district assaulted a police officer with hands, feet and clubs at the corner of Longwood avenue and Phillips street, shortly after 7 o'clock last evening.

Reserve Officer George Johnson was the victim of the attack, and saved himself from serious injury only by drawing his revolver and firing at the gang. When he was taken to police station 10 Lieutenant Rufus Fessenden quickly summoned a physician to attend him.

The affair was the first intimation that the police had that the famous gang or any part of it still existed or had been reorganized. A man named Michael Quinn, known by the police as "Silver" Quinn and living on Longwood avenue, demanded the attention of Johnson.

Quinn is of powerful build and is considered a difficult man to place under arrest. He is credited by the police with having in the past assaulted Patrolman Hooper, Patrolman McCarthy and Sergeant Byrne, all of Station 10.

Quinn resisted Officer Johnson and tore himself from the latter's grasp and at once began to put up a lively fight against arrest.

Disdaining to use his club on the man, Johnson called to a crowd of young men who were standing near by for assistance. Instead of giving aid, however, they set themselves upon the police officer with the cry of "Whyo! Whyo!"

The officer drew his short club to protect himself against the attack of the crowd, numbering fully 20, but the club was snatched from his hands and used by the crowd to beat the officer. He was kicked and beaten with fists, thrown on the ground and trampled upon, while the crowd continued to shout their favorite call.

The scene of the fight was in a thickly populated tenement district. The calls of the mob and those of the police officer caused windows to be broken in nearly every house, while people ran from all directions to the scene of the encounter.

Under the attack Johnson released his hold on Quinn and directed his efforts to protect himself. He was nearly unconscious from the beating when his assailants fled, but he raised himself on his elbow, with his revolver in his hand, and fired a shot after the retreating gang. They scattered and continued at full speed while the officer regained his feet and pluckily staggered after them as fast as he could in his dazed condition. He fired an occasional shot as he ran, but all of the bullets went wild.

Bruised and bleeding the officer called up his station and Lieutenant Fessenden sent men out to Johnson's assistance.

A watch was kept on the homes of some young men suspected, but no one was arrested.

SCOTT'S BILL

MAY NOT BE CONSIDERED BY CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Although it is not probable that the anti-grain speculation bill introduced by Rep. Scott will be considered by the house during the present session, the author of the measure is not relaxing his efforts to promote early attention to the measure.

For a time Mr. Scott has been under the impression that the placing of wheat on the free list until the Patton corner has been broken would offer a remedy for the situation, but upon investigation he has found that the price of wheat in Canada is practically the same as in this country and therefore it would be no inducement for the Canadian shippers to send their product to this country. Mr. Scott's bill proposes to reduce grain speculation to the minimum by preventing the use of telegrams and telegraph companies for the purpose of dealing in grain futures.

New York Giants In the National League And Cleveland Naps In the American Look Like Two Best Bets for Pennants

THE games are on, the season here. The stricken ball cuts through the air. The batter fans the atmosphere. The runner rounds the bases. The umpire calls the strikes and balls, puts runners out when they are in, nor heeds the footers' angry squalls that they will kill him, sure as sin! The season's here, the same old muck, and on the seats the same old us.

The main question among the baseball fans of the country at present is what teams will capture the pennants in the National and American leagues. Can Frank Chance, leader of the Chicago Nationals, twice world's champions and three time pennant winners, cap the flag for the fourth time? Will McGraw of the New York Giants, with his greatly strengthened team, take the title away from the Cubs? Is this Philadelphia's year, or will Fred Clarke's perennial pennant puruers, the Pittsburgh Pirates, cop it? Is Hugh Jennings of Detroit going to win another banner? Can Lajoie of Cleveland, after many unsuccessful attempts, finally land the much coveted banner?

The person who tries to guess six months ahead what teams will win either the National or American league pennant is, as a general rule, wasting time. In most cases some contingency comes into a pennant race and upsets at least some of the calculations of the experts. A team that just now, for instance, looks like a sure pennant winner might easily be put out of the running by the illness or other incapacity of one or two of its leading pitchers.

In sizing up the four leading teams in the National league I find that the New York Giants are strongest. The Cubs are weak without the services of their two great stars, Evers and Catcher Killebrew. Another thing is that this great baseball machine is not running as smoothly as it did two years ago. Whether the Pittsburghers are stronger than in 1907 will depend largely on the ability of Abner to play first base. The Phillies have not been improved to any great extent. Still I look to see them put up a great fight.

If the Giants do not capture the National league pennant this season, it will be the fault of luck. Johnny McGraw has unquestionably the best team that ever represented New York city. To specify the points of strength is difficult, as there is no apparent weakness in the team.

The pitching staff is the strongest that ever represented the Giants in the league. Take a look at these and see for yourself. Of the right handers there are Christy Mathewson, Leon Ames, "Bugs" Raymond and Otis Crandall. The left handers are George Wiltse, "Rube" Marquard and Jake Weimer. Is there a club in the country that can beat—Mathewson is due for another good season. Wiltse is stronger than he was last season and won't have to work out of his turn this season, as he did last, as the team is equipped with two other south paws—Weimer and "Rube" Marquard. The former pitched good ball for Cincinnati and with a strong in and out field to back him up Weimer will make a better record. "Rube" has still to deliver the goods, but McGraw would not have paid $11,000 for Marquard without being pretty certain that he was worth the coin. Crandall, with a year's experience, will make a good record. Of "Bugs" Raymond great things are expected. "Bugs" work for St. Louis last season was off times sensational. There has been considerable talk of Raymond, like "Rube" Waddell, being a hard man to handle. This may be so, but Raymond is now playing under a manager who is used to being obeyed, and "Bugs" knows this. An excellent illustration of how McGraw can whip his men into line and make them remain on their feet is the case of Mike Donlin. Since Donlin came to New York he learned how to obey orders, and that is why he batted himself into second place among the sluggers last season. And McGraw will do the same with Raymond. Indeed, he has Raymond thoroughly tamed now. Raymond is a great pitcher when he settles down to his work. He has no equal when it comes to using the elusive spit ball.

Last season McGraw neither had a reliable pitching staff nor a trustworthy set of outfielders. The one consistent among the delivery clerks was Christopher Mathewson, who never had a bad spell. George Wiltse went finely until September and then broke down. Otis Crandall was a spring sensation and a fall disappointment. The Fowler (Ind.) boy had hard luck in many of his combats. Luther Taylor and Joe McGinnity couldn't beat the top notch teams and often needed aid from Royal Rescuer Mathewson to subdue the clubs which finished in the second division.

It was thought that with the absence of Roger Bresnahan the catching department would be weakened, but shrewd Johnny McGraw knew what he was doing when he made the trade last winter. He has an excellent catcher in Schick, whom he secured from Cincinnati. In addition, he has picked up a wonder in Myers, the Indian. The latter will probably prove a harder hitter than Bresnahan. He picks out good balls and is consequently no pot hitter. He knows what he is doing at all times. Then he has Wilson and Snodgrass, either of whom is as good as some best catchers on other clubs.

Myers' real name leaked out recently. The big Indian had kept it a secret ever since he went into professional baseball. It seems that a newspaper man in Richmond, Va., went to school with the big chief at Dartmouth and told some of the players the name under which Myers matriculated. When the chief woke up somebody surprised him by calling him "Chief Torts". The Indian smiled and said: "Well, I guess you fellows have got me with the goods. That is my real name."

Myers is descended from an old line of Indian aristocracy and did not desire to have his real name known in baseball. He is a great-grandson of the famous chief of the Cuchilla tribe of Mission Indians of California. The fighting ancestor was named Quaqua, and Torts, or Jack Myers, his grandson, is very proud of the royal blood in his veins.

It would be hard to find a better outfield in the older organization than that of the Giants. Every one will come close to hitting .300, and each one is lightning fast on the bases. Herzog, who held down Doyle's place last fall, has the makings of a splendid outfielder. He is not as graceful as the other two, O'Hara and Murray, but he is as fast as a jack rabbit in covering ground and always delivers the goods. His lack of grace in covering the position is due to the fact that he has always played the infield.

O'Hara in center is one of those easy going outfielders who apparently know where the ball is going to fall and are always under it without any undue effort. He takes long drives so easy that they do not look difficult. Murray is covery and the co-operation between better and runner are more marked than last year. All this means attractive baseball. What it may mean relative to the championship must be decided later.

Speed is the keynote of the whole organization. On the field it is in evidence in the ability of the players. On the bases it is more in evidence by their nimbleness and daring. At bat it is a striking characteristic because one may see that every play has a motive behind it. The nine of 1908 was a great power, so far as speed was concerned, in spots, but the team of this year collectively is much faster.

The American League. Of the four leading clubs—Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis—its team in the pitching department by the addition of Cy Young, than whom there are few better, if any, in the business. The question has been raised that without Criger he will not be of much use. Clevelanders, however, have great faith in the ability of Bemis and Clarke to catch the famous veteran and cause him to have just as successful a season as if his old side partner were behind the bat. Then Pitchers Wright and Sittion of the recruits appear to have just as much class as either of the two Detroit youngsters named.

Behind the bat Cleveland is more formidable than Detroit. By the time the season is well on Cleveland will have Clarke and Bemis to offset Charles Schmidt, and there is no doubt of Clarke being superior to Schmidt. As for Land and Easterly, the Cleveland recruits are better batters than Beckendorf and Stanage and probably just as good receivers. Then Cleveland has Jim McInane to use in a pinch, and the veteran is far from being all in despite his age.

Cleveland has the classier infield both in fielding and batting. Stovall is a more valuable man than Rossman.

Locke Play, "The Climax," Is "Melody Drama." "Going Some" Marks David Belasco's Debut Into Slang—An Outdoor Comedy

[From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent.]

At last something new in the way of a description of a stage production has been discovered. The progenitors of the new production at Weber's theater, "The Climax," have stated that it is a "melody drama" and leave it to the public to decide just what a melody drama is.

No longer are the stereotyped forms of description of stage products good enough for the down to date managers, and it will probably be a very short time before somebody else goes the hackers of "The Climax" one better and promulgates what posterity will hear spoken of as an "oratoristic melodrama" or a "symphoniously comic progress much better were it not for her voice.

The Age of Ideal Smashing.

The age of the demolition of ideas has long been with us, but sometimes we forget that fact. A gentle reminder comes to us, however, in the shape of a new drama at the Belasco theater that has a shocking, a slangy, a title. Think of the wanton desecration of that temple of hyper-developed art, the Belasco theater, from which has streamed into the heavens the pillar of flame of dramatic genius that could be ignited only by Mrs. Leslie Carter! How Mrs. Carter must write and cry out as at a distance she hears that play with the title of "Going Some" has been produced on those classic race with the champion of the rival Centipede ranch.

Speed is not really a champion runner at all and counts on feigning sickness and getting a genuine athlete as a substitute, but when the genuine runner finally appears he is on crutches! The manner in which Speed, terror-stricken by the threats of the cowboys to shoot him if he loses the race, manages to bluff out the situation and comes off with flying colors furnishes the climax of the comedy.

The leading members of the company are Lawrence Wheat, Walter Jones, George Leach, Oza Waldorp, Muriel Starr, Laura Lemmer, Thomas J. Harrigan, Herbert Cottle, George K. Hecox, Escamillo Fernandez, Augustus Glassman, Hugh Cameron, Charles West, William Harrigan and W. Tammany Young.

Galsworthy's London Success.

It begins to look as if John Galsworthy was going to have an important chapter to himself when the stage history of the present day in London comes to be written. His first play, "The Silver Box," produced at the Court theater, was one of the notable achievements of the Granville-Barker regime, although it was a depressing work and not exactly popular. The second, "Joy," was too complex, its psychology too intricate, its intentions too subtle for present stage use. Perhaps it was ahead of English time and nearer to German requirements.

The third, "Strife," which has been put on for a trial series of matinees, gives definite evidence that Galsworthy is a dramatist worth more than local attention and that "The Silver Box" was not merely a lucky guess.

Evidently the tip had gone forth that the occasion would be interesting, for all the available "Intellectuals" were present at the opening, from Bernard Shaw to Beerbohm Tree, and among Americans, from Winthrop Ames, manager of the New theater in New York, to Chester Bailey Fernald of "Cat and Cherub" fame.

The play deals with a struggle between the board of directors of a tin mine and their workmen, who have been on strike until they are starving, but there is no physical violence. It is a conflict of ideas and forces and not of persons and consequently is disappointing to those who want the time-light focused on stars. In the circumstances it speaks well for Charles Frohman that he had the courage and good will to produce it. My guess is that he never would have done it if J. M. Barrie had not insisted on it.

Frederick Ingelka

A PLAY WITHOUT A MANUSCRIPT.

Charles Frohman has fixed upon the latter part of April as the date for the London appearance of William Collier in "The Patriot." Mr. Collier and nearly all of the American company are in London ready to appear in the witty little three act farce written by the comedian in collaboration with Hartley Manners without changing an "if," "and" or "but" of the manuscript in deference to British sensibility or understanding.

Mr. Frohman's unexpectedly sudden decision to jump Mr. Collier from New York to London at one move as nearly as one moves a pawn on a chessboard has brought out the surprising fact that "The Patriot" has been running all season in New York without ever being put into manuscript form. Mr. Frohman called Mr. Collier asking for the manuscript "by the next boat," and the comedian had to reply: "There never has been a manuscript. Will write it on the way over."

The fact is that Mr. Collier and Mr. Manners in the beginning talked over the plot of "The Patriot" and agreed upon a certain line of action. Mr. Manners sketched some scenes, which Mr. Collier speedily filled in with dialogue written on the backs of envelopes, old letters and wrapping paper. The rest of the play was made in the process of rehearsal. Mr. Collier, as stage director, saying to an actor, "When I say so and so, you say such and such." Perhaps that accounts for the remarkable naturalness and likeness of everything that is said in "The Patriot," although it is called a farce. At any rate, it is probably the only play that ever ran an entire season in New York without a manuscript.

THE KING'S DRAMATIC CRITIC.

The theaters have a great attraction for the Princess of Wales, and she was once referred to by the king as "our musical and dramatic critic." When she is in London and her other engagements permit she almost invariably attends a theater in the evening, either with only a lady in waiting with her or with one or more of the younger members of the royal family, such as Prince Arthur of Connaught or her brother and sister-in-law, Prince and Princess Alexander of Teck. She is an inveterate first nighter, and theatrical manager in London when they have a production of more than ordinary importance have become accustomed to make inquiries at Marlborough House to see whether her royal highness proposes to occupy the royal box or not. It is largely upon her report that other members of the royal family decide whether to visit a certain play or not, and particularly is this the case with the king and queen.

PROFESSIONAL ETHICS, BY FROM.

I would as lief think of accusing a dramatic critic of personal bias in his reviews of plays and players as of accusing a bank clerk of dishonesty, since the second would be no more treacherous to his employers than the first. Personalities never can be entirely absent from dramatic criticism so long as the public prefer to read about persons than about things, but personalities, delving into an actor's character or disposition as a man, apart from his work on the stage, is unfair and generally makes dull reading.

Latest Action Photos of Some of Johnny McGraw's New York Giants

the same kind of a fielder as O'Hara. He never appears to exert himself.

Securing Murray is one of the greatest of McGraw's many clever trades. McGraw has his team well drilled in all the fine points of baseball. It works its base running plays as smoothly as a clock, and the infield works as smoothly and harmoniously as it did last year. Larry Doyle at second has improved his style to a great extent. Constant association with other men who are old and expert in the business has done him a great deal of good, and he will be one of the real stars this year. McGraw had his team devote considerable time each day during the training season to base running, and his instructions will bear fruit as the season progresses.

The shrewdness of the Giants' manager can be seen in the manner in which he has sought to build up his team where it was weak last year. He was not blind to the shortcomings of any of his players, and he realized that if he could have "stretched out" a little more now and then on the bases he would have captured some of those contests which he missed by a single run.

The little turns and quickness in taking advantage of opportune moments for which McGraw is famous were never as much in evidence as they are this season. The long leads from bases to worry the pitcher, the well timed rein the American league, which are again expected to land in the first division. I prefer Cleveland's chances. In sizing up the leading teams last season I found that the Naps have been strengthened the most. Chicago without its great leader, Fielder Jones, is weak. St. Louis is due for a great slump, as the men are going, not coming, and Detroit has not been strengthened to any great extent. The Tigers have not improved their pitching staff unless Jones and La Fitte show remarkable form for recruits. To counteract any great winning prowess that any one of these three may display it looks now as if Detroit would be forced to go along without a really serviceable left hander. Killian being troubled with a lame arm. He hopes to get into shape again, but it is a toss up as to whether or not he will be successful. Cleveland, however, has strengthened LaFite has it all over Schaefer, and Moravitz is scarcely in Bradley's class as a third sacker, although he may out-bat the Clevelanders a trifle. As for the man who will play short for the rival teams, Cleveland will have the better of it should Turner be able to resume his position and stay in the game. If Perring is the man, it should be a standoff. Bush played a sensational game at the bat, on the bases and in the field for the Tigers last fall, but whether or not he can keep up the pace this season remains to be seen. If he should succeed in so doing he will have something on the Cleveland utility infielder.

There is no question of Detroit outfielding Cleveland in the outfield, but with Flick back into the game the Naps' garden will compare well with any of its rivals outside of Detroit.

tragedy." In the language of the chronic poker player before the draw, "Who knows?"

Properly speaking, "The Climax" is a drama, with incidental music, arranged by Joseph Carl Brill. The entire action of the play takes place in the apartments of Luigi Gellanti, a teacher of vocal music, with a glimpse of his studio adjoining, in which his son Pietro helps to ease out their precarious livelihood by giving music lessons.

Adeline, a girl who is a distant relative of the Gellantis and who is thought by them to possess a voice of much promise and who aspires to become an operatic artist, has taken up her abode with the Gellantis. John Raymond, a doctor, and Pietro are madly in love with Adeline. She, however, devoted to her art, spurns their attentions, and Dr. Raymond ventures to presume that his love-making would boards that once splintered under the foot poundings of Zaza and the illustrious Du Barry!

Langhush thought she may, "Going Some" has arrived. Paul Armstrong and Rex E. Beach wrote the play, a comedy, produced by the Shuberts.

Outline of the Play.

The new comedy is an "outdoor" play with the winning of a foot race—a hundred yard dash—as the central factor in the plot. It is described as a "comedy concerning cowboys and college men" and is said to be the first play in which these contrasting elements have been humorously combined. The four acts of the play take place at the Flying Heart ranch, New Mexico. In the interior of the bunk house at the ranch, at the ranch again and at the arrival of the Centipede ranch. The action takes place between Monday and Saturday of one week.

According to the story of the comedy, a "rab-rab" boy from Yale of the name of Speed, whose athletic achievements have actually been limited to leading the cheering on the side lines, is visiting the Flying Heart ranch with his coach in search of diversion. Speed, wishing to make an impression on a Smith college girl who is also visiting at the Flying Heart, volunteers to represent the Flying Heart in a foot

6 O'CLOCK CHARGE IS CHANGED

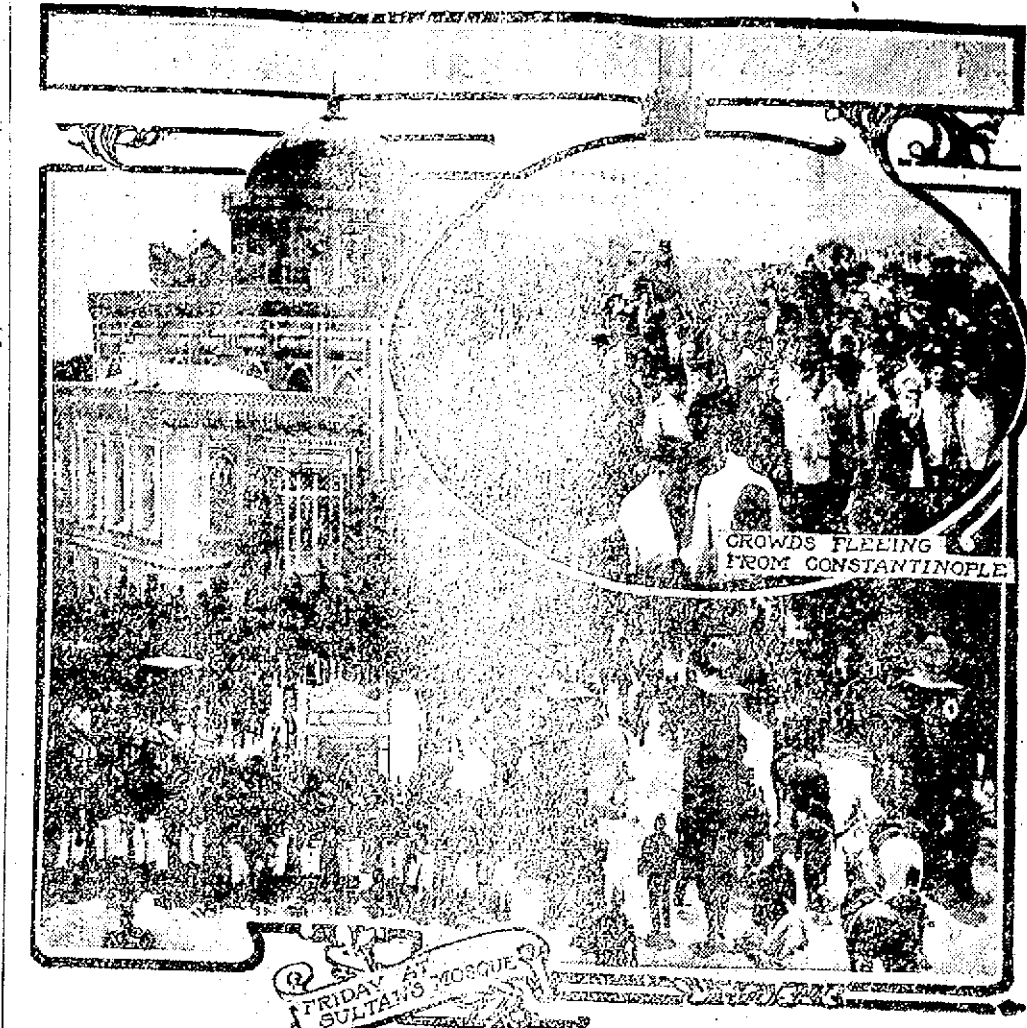

Clinton Man Now Accused of Murdering His Wife

CLINTON, April 22.—The charge of manslaughter brought against Patrick Gannon of this town as a result of the killing of his wife, Mary, on April 14, was today changed to murder by Judge Jonathan Smith in the district court. It is understood that the charge was changed because of the findings of the jury at an inquest yesterday into the woman's death. Gannon will be brought in from the Fitchburg jail, where he was committed in default of $5000 bail on Saturday to stand the new charge. It is alleged that Gannon killed his wife with a hatchet but following a quarrel in which he found fault with her for her drinking habits. According to the medical examiner, the woman's body was a mass of bruises, her nose and right eye were broken and fragments of the hatchet were placed in the woman's large causing internal hemorrhages.

AUTO OPERATOR

May be Charged With Murder in First Degree

NEW YORK, April 22.—A jury in the coroner George F. Shady's court yesterday returned the verdict that the killing of a woman by an automobile operator was murder in the first degree. The woman, who was named in the indictment as Mary, was killed by an automobile operator on March 27. Assistant District Attorney Nott said he would take up the case with the grand jury at once, and ask for Darragh's indictment under section 1014, article 91, of the penal law, in which murder in the first degree is defined as follows: "The killing of a human being unless excusable or justifiable is murder in the first degree when committed by an act imminently dangerous to others and evincing a depraved mind, regardless of human life, although without a premeditated design to effect the death of any individual without design to effect death by a person engaged in the commission of or in an attempt to commit a felony either upon or affecting the person killed or otherwise." Assistant District Attorney Dana also attended the inquest. Darragh's lawyer was Edward F. Hanmer. The body of the woman was represented by Shaw & Meyers. Mr. and Mrs. Trimble heard much of the testimony. The woman was in the rear of the court room, crying as the witnesses told of the killing. D. C. McLaughlin, a teacher in the public schools, said he saw the accident. He could not qualify as a speed expert, but said he never before had seen an automobile going as fast as Darragh's car when it struck the woman. He heard no horn sounded, William R. Downing, a student of the college of the city of New York, testified that the automobile was going very fast and that he heard no horn. American Women in Danger at Beirut -- 5000 Left Homeless by Open Rapine -- Atrocities of the Worst Kind Perpetrated by the Fanatical Moslems -- Constantinople Invested by the Constitutionalists

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22.—According to advices received here today from Asiatic Turkey, ten thousand Armenians have been massacred at Adana and in the vicinity of that city.

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE IN DANGER

BEIRUT, April 22.—Five American women missionaries are in danger at Hadjin in the vilayet of Adana, Asiatic Turkey. One of them, Miss Lambert, has sent a message down to the coast asking for immediate help. The women are entirely alone and defenseless. The vilayet surrounding Hadjin is in flames and Hadjin itself is besieged by the fanatical Moslems. Messages from the interior are being suppressed by the authorities. Hadjin is in the northern part of the vilayet of Adana. The records of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions show that Miss Virginia Phillips, Miss Alice M. Vaughan, Miss Emily Robinson and Miss Mary Rogers, wife of the Rev. D. M. Rogers, who lost his life at Adana, are stationed at Hadjin. 5000 Are Homeless

The situation in the country north and west of Adana is a fearful one. There have been massacres of Armenians at Antioch and Hama, and in the vilayet of Adana. The city of Adana is a state of panic. Only the Turkish soldiers are in the city. Business is at a standstill and there is every reason to fear a general massacre. The city is full of Armenian refugees, Kurds and Circassians. The town of Hadjin, a short distance west of Adana and southeast of Aleppo, is a scene of horror. It has been isolated from the world and human communities. At present, the population has been driven from the city and the houses are empty. The Turkish soldiers are in the city and the Armenians are being massacred. The situation is improving.

THE SITUATION IS IMPROVING

BOSTON, April 22.—Up to now, it is today the Armenian board of commissioners for foreign missions has been in a state of panic. The situation at Hadjin and other points in Asiatic Turkey has been a fearful one. The Turkish soldiers are in the city and the Armenians are being massacred. The situation is improving. MR. ROOSEVELT

Starts for Sir Alfred Pease's Rapch

MONROVIA, British East Africa, April 22.—Theodore Roosevelt and the members of his party are to leave Monrovia at 3:30 p. m. today on a special train for Kani Plains station where they will be conveyed to the rapch of Sir Alfred Pease on the Athi river. Sir Alfred is there awaiting the coming of his guests. The party probably will remain at the rapch for one week, using it as a base for shooting expeditions and then move on to Nairobi.

Mr. Roosevelt, his son, Kermit, Edmund Heller, F. C. Selous, the English author and hunter who has joined the party and R. F. Cunningham, the general manager of the expedition, were entertained at dinner last night by the members of the Monrovia club. The acting governor of the protectorate, F. J. Jackson, in disposing the health of the former president of the United States read the following telegram from King Edward:

"I bid you a hearty welcome to British East Africa and I trust that you will have a pleasant time and meet with every success."

Continuing Mr. Jackson said Mr. Roosevelt is the "big stick" at home and after seven strenuous years as president of the United States had come to Africa to make use of the rifle. In conclusion he promised the distinguished visitor an immense variety of game and good sport.

When Mr. Roosevelt arose to reply to these words of welcome he was enthusiastically received with full Highland musical honors. He began by saying a tribute to the British people, praising their energy and spirit in civilizing the uncivilized places of the earth. He said he was surprised at what he had heard of the progress of British East Africa, but he warned his hearers that they could not expect to achieve in a short time what it had taken America twenty generations to accomplish. He then emphasized the necessity of leaving no questions to be solved by the authorities of the rapch and commented upon the fact that the people at home knew little of affairs abroad. In this connection he mentioned the United States and the Philippine Islands.

Continuing, Mr. Roosevelt expressed his great pleasure at the welcome given him yesterday by the British people. He said he believed in peace and he hoped that all the nations would provide themselves with this means to the end of peace.

In conclusion, Mr. Roosevelt referred briefly to his future plans and gave some of his first impressions of the country.

Mr. Roosevelt was followed by Mr. Selous who expressed the hope that Mr. Roosevelt would in the future use the power of his position to bring about an understanding between Great Britain and Germany.

J. Aiden Loring and Major Adams did not come ashore from the Athi yesterday because of the heavy rain. They disembarked this morning.

Before leaving, Mr. Roosevelt telegraphed to King Edward, thanking him for the message read by Mr. Jackson at the dinner given to Mr. Roosevelt by the Monrovia club last night.

A guard of honor composed of marines and bluejackets was at the railroad station when the Roosevelt party arrived and was inspected by Mr. Roosevelt. A number of officials and civilians also were present and the station building was decorated with flags. Mr. Roosevelt spent the morning at Government house, where he was the guest last night of Mr. Jackson, Kermit Roosevelt, Alden Loring, Edmund Heller and Major Adams. They spent their time up to the leaving the train sight-seeing. From Monrovia Mr. Roosevelt despatched a cablegram to the Emperor of Germany, saying:

"I desire to express my admiration of your treatment on board the German steamer Admiral under Captain Dörner and my admiration of the astounding energy and growth of the mercantile and colonial interests of Germany in East Africa."

PROPERTY LOSS

Caused by Storm Will Exceed $1,000,000

CLEVELAND, April 22.—A careful survey today of the result of Wednesday's thunderstorm shows that the early reports under-estimate the extent of the damage wrought. The revised list of dead places the number of fatalities at seven, of which five were in Cleveland and one at Ashtabula. In addition scores of persons were injured, several of whom doubtless will die. The property damage will aggregate over $1,000,000.

The storm which started early Wednesday morning southwest of Cleveland, moved in force until this city was struck and here the greatest damage was done. After leaving Cleveland the storm moved eastward and the damage was done east of Ashtabula. While the weather bureau recorded the velocity of 66 miles an hour for the wind the instruments in the path of the storm in the worst of the storm it is estimated that the wind blew at the rate of at least 75 miles an hour and in the path of the storm.

FUNERALS

PAYTON.—The funeral of John W. Payton, a well known and highly respected member of St. Peter's parish, took place this morning at 8:30 o'clock from his late home, 116 Chapel street, and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. The funeral service was held in St. Peter's church where at 10 o'clock a funeral high mass was sung. The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Fr. Burns. The choir, under the direction of Prof. P. P. Haggerty, sang the Gregorian mass. At the offertory Prof. Haggerty sang "Domine, Deus, Christus" and after the elevation "Te igitur." As the requiem mass was being sung, the Rev. Fr. Burns, Mr. James E. Donnelly sang "De Profundis" assisted by the choir. Mrs. J. W. McKenney presided at the organ.

The bearers were Mr. Michael O'Connor, Patrick Galvin, John Gattas and James Duggan.

After leaving the church the funeral cortege proceeded to the Catholic cemetery where the remains were consigned to their final resting place. In the family lot. The committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Burns.

The casket at the home was draped with the American flag as a mark of respect to the departed veteran of the Civil war. The floral offerings were as follows:

Large wreath with purple ribbon inscribed "Good-bye, Father" from the family of deceased; large spray inscribed "Grandma" Miss Mary McKenna; spray inscribed "Grandpa" the Misses Anna, Margaret and Mary Payton; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Galvin; Mr. Thomas Kilhannon and family; Miss O'Connor and sisters; and a large spray inscribed "Memories from the Daughters of Veterans, Post 1022."

The funeral arrangements and burial were in charge of Undertaker John A. Finnegan.

TWO VICTIMS

OF FIRE STARTED FROM USE OF KEROSENE

BUTLAND, Vt., April 22.—The bodies of a woman and her child lying on the kitchen floor and kerosene can near the stove in the house of Annie Hawley, a Butland milk peddler, today revealed to the neighbors another tragedy resulting in the use of oil in kindling a fire. The victims were Mrs. Hawley who was 23 years of age and her one-year-old baby boy, Roy. While the husband was on his milk route, the woman evidently poured kerosene on the kitchen floor and before he could arrive she and the baby had been burned to death. Neighbors saw smoke coming from the house and rushed to the scene in time to save the building from being destroyed, but too late to save the lives of the woman and child.

GREAT MASSACRE

IN SYRIAN TOWNS

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22.—The situation in Asiatic Turkey is distinctly threatening. The wave of

LATEST IS RANK POISON

People at Lewiston, N. Y. Warned Against Drinking Water

LEWISTON, N. Y., April 22.—The ice monster crowding his devastating bulk between the banks of the lower Niagara river slumbered the night through, heedless of the war which had been declared against him by the state engineers. On his flanks anxious watchmen waited, worried by the southwest squalls which had been driving ice over the falls throughout the afternoon and evening. But the force of the current crowded with loose lumps of ice evidently ground out a smooth subway for itself beneath the main mass. The flow for the water in the night and receded an equal distance in the early dawn. The ice which ploughed the upper banks uprooted huge trees and pulverized docks and bathhouses is still poised on its lofty level, but the middle line of the surface of the ice has apparently dropped a few feet. The jam is of appalling proportions. Apparently a peaceful expanse of dirty ice mingled with wreckage and uprooted trees, it is nevertheless twelve miles long and in many places sixty feet in its grinding depth. It represents millions of tons and a strength powerful enough to annihilate the four villages along its border if it should start to go out all at once. Another element of danger is its pestilential nature. Mingled with the slushy ice and cast high on the banks is a work's sewage from all the cities along the Niagara frontier. Physicians are warning the people to beware of using the water as it is rank poison. The plan of the state engineers, Henry Kunzle, assistant superintendent of public works, and Charles A. Tuttle, an expert on high explosives, is first to blow off the head of the ice giant now projecting into Lake Ontario by an enormous charge of dynamite. Other sections of the body of moisture will then be successfully separated from the whole and allowed to drift out into the lake. Three wagonloads of dynamite were sent from Buffalo last night for this purpose and are now safe in Youngstown, at the mouth of the river. Captain Mitchell, officer in command at Fort Niagara, has offered the assistance of his 720 men. Captain Nelson, in charge of the lifesaving station at Youngstown and his crew of seven men, will also help.

Considerable disappointment is being expressed on both sides of the river at the reluctance of the American and Canadian governments to hasten to the relief of the community. Mr. Kunzle and Mr. Tuttle have arrived here and are on their way to Youngstown.

KEY TO BLOCKADE

FORT NIAGARA, N. Y., April 22.—From the roof of the historic old French castle at Fort Niagara this morning Engineer Kunzle surveyed the situation of the tremendous ice jam at the mouth of the river. The key to the blockade seemed to consist of a fan-shaped mass of ice ground on a sandbar and projecting about 300 feet into the lake. A narrow channel was open on either side of it.

The plan of the engineers was to lay planking over the hummocks and cravens of the ice canal on the American side, anchor a can of dynamite at that point and by its explosion begin the tearing out of a narrow channel up to the very head of the jam three miles above. "The pressure of the ice at this point, both outward to the sandbar and laterally to either shore, is something stupendous," declared Mr. Kunzle today.

STANDING ON THE PRECIPICE

IN POLICE COURT

Two Assault Cases Were Disposed of Today

A long drawn out assault case which necessitated the service of an interpreter to bring out the testimony offered, took up the greater part of this morning's session of the police court.

There were three defendants, Simon Blue, William Stonis and John Smith alias John Blazonis, and they were charged with assault and battery on Ignas Diskewicz. Daniel J. Donahue appeared for Blue and Stonis, while Joseph O'Connor represented Blazonis. Nathan D. Pratt appeared for the government.

The government contended that the three defendants met the complainant in a house in Fayette street a week ago Sunday and without any provocation whatsoever assaulted him, beating him about the face and body.

Seven witnesses were sworn for the government and Ignas Diskewicz, the complainant, was the first to be examined. He stated that he is a fireman at the Bigelow Carpet company and resides in a court off Fayette street with a James Alexis, the latter's wife being his sister. He knew all three defendants and met them on the morning of April 11th in the hallway of the building in which he lives. In the afternoon he went to a house in Fayette street to collect some money from a woman who lived on the third floor. After transacting his business with the woman he started leave the house and was descending the second flight of stairs when Blazonis grabbed him and threw him to the floor. Due and Stonis were with Blazonis at the time.

Witness said that he was so frightened that he did not know whether or not he had been hit, but that his face was marked and body was sore all over as a result of the assault. Later, Diskewicz said that he had been kicked, but was not sure which one of his assailants kicked him.

A few days after the assault Blazonis went to his house and said he would pay Diskewicz if the matter were not brought into court. Blazonis said he would give the complainant $30 or $35 each.

One of the defendants had little to offer for defense. He said that he was assisting in unloading the game and bearing Carver shout for someone to throw the ball for himself and threw the ball to him despite the fact that the ball that he held was not in play.

Another said that he struck Carver because the latter had got mad and threw a ball at him.

Judge Hadley decided that the assault Diskewicz if the matter were not brought into court. Blazonis said he would give the complainant $30 or $35 each.

SEN. MCCARREN

To Tell of $500,000 Account

NEW YORK, April 22.—Thomas A. Ennis, head of the firm of Ennis & Stoppard, stock and grain brokers, now in bankruptcy, yesterday came out of hiding. Today he will meet Lindsay Russell, receiver for the firm's estate and, with him, go over affairs with the idea of facilitating the collection of assets. Ennis' wife, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Riley, and Mrs. C. F. Stoppard also have volunteered to appear before Mr. Russell.

The wide publicity given the receiver's determination to compel the attendance of everyone having knowledge of the whereabouts of money belonging to the bankrupts was responsible, it is believed, for their decision. It also caused Senator Patrick H. McCarrren to call up the receiver early yesterday and assure him that he (the senator) would be on hand punctually on Saturday, the day fixed in the newspapers, to settle his $500,000 account.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the office of Suffolk, No. 165 Broadway, accountants to the receiver, Mr. Russell will meet all creditors who desire to attend.

"The outlook is much brighter," said Mr. Russell last night.

Other Stock Exchange houses besides W. V. Graves & Co., Lawson & Co. and Schuchmacher & Co. it was discovered yesterday, have been acting for Ennis & Stoppard. It is understood Secretary Ely, of the Exchange, was in conference yesterday with the receiver in respect to that phase of the failure.

Also it was learned that the Hughes investigating commission was considering the advisability of requesting a visit from Senator McCarrren. The commissioners some time ago requested the attendance of James R. Keene, but he said he was too ill to appear. It is hoped by those concerned that the Brooklyn financier will be able to accept the invitation and enlighten the committee in respect to the particular methods in Wall street whereby a man can speculate to the extent of $500,000 at a time without putting up a cent of real money.

Ennis & Stoppard are practically penniless, it was declared. They made strenuous efforts, it is said, to collect from Senator McCarrren, and other sources of liquid accounts. For two hours on Sunday last, it was alleged, Ennis was with the Brooklyn senator.

Again, it was reported that Peter Doelger, Jr., brewer, had lost about $250,000 by the failure. That report is incorrect. Some time ago a suit was brought by Mr. Doelger to recover a large sum of money from the firm. This suit has been pending for a long time.

Many letters from cranks and other persons of limited intelligence have been received by Receiver Russell. One, it was alleged, contained a threat against the life of Senator McCarrren.

BIG ESTATE

WAS PUT UP AS BAIL FOR CHAUFFEUR

NEW YORK, April 22.—William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., gave his $1,000,000 estate known as Deep Dab, at Great Neck, L. I., as bail for his chauffeur, John S. Richardson, who was arrested for exceeding the speed limit while on his way through Flushing yesterday driving a 30 horse-power automobile.

Mr. Vanderbilt was the only other occupant of the machine as Bicycle Policeman Harry McAvoy held up the outfit on Broadway and then took them around to the Flushing police court. He had returned from Europe but a short time ago and was on his way to Manhattan on business when his machine fell into the hands of Policeman McAvoy. He was in a hurry to continue his journey and an examination was dispensed with, the chauffeur waiving examination and being held in $100 bonds. When the bail bond was made out Mr. Vanderbilt offered his country estate as security.

"It is worth $100," inquired Clerk McGee.

"Well," replied Mr. Vanderbilt, "I would like to buy another like it for $200."

BATTLEFLAGS

Were Handed Back to the State Today

BOSTON, April 22.—The shreds of two old battleflags which were carried by the soldiers of the tenth regiment of Massachusetts volunteers in seven bloody battles in the Civil war were today handed back to the state and took their places in that distinguished company of colors which makes Memorial hall at the state house one of the most inspiring places in Massachusetts.

For forty years the two flags, a national and state, have rested in the public library at Northampton, to which institution they were presented by Col. Parsons at a parade of the regiment in that city in 1868. The regiment was one of the first to take the field and the flags carried during the first years of the war were returned at the time of the great reception of the colors at the state house in the fall of 1865.

Subsequently the regiment again went to the front with new colors and it was these flags which Col. Parsons retained and gave to the library of his native town. The flags were brought down to the state house today by the old color bearers of the regiment and handed to Gov. Draper with brief ceremonies in which it was stated that they were in the battles of Rappahannock, Bull Run, Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Cold Harbor, North Anna and Petersburg. The flags were placed beside the other colors of the tenth regiment in one of the niches in Memorial hall.

MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 22.—In behalf of the state of Rhode Island Gov. Aram Pothier sent the following telegram of sympathy to the widow of Mrs. Anna H. Lilley.

TRIED SUICIDE

Girl Made Attempt to End Her Life

NEW YORK, April 22.—Bertha Beatrice Hubbell, of Bridgeport, Conn., tried to kill herself by cutting her throat and wrists on a New Haven train early last evening. When the train pulled into the Grand Central station, Conductor J. J. O'Donnell found her huddling in a corner of one of the day coaches. On the floor was a small penknife, which she had used in her attempt to end her life.

The girl was weak and helpless from loss of blood, but still conscious. A policeman sent a hurry call for an ambulance. Dr. Power, of Flower hospital, responded and hurried the young woman to that institution.

There it was found necessary to take four stitches in each of the cuts in her wrists and seven stitches in the throat. The keen blade of the penknife had gone dangerously near the jugular vein, but she will recover.

A note found on the floor beside the girl read as follows:

April 21.—I am going to take my own life. Mother has done this. Sister burnt all my clothes; keep nothing. Please do not take me to No. 100 Congress street when I am dead. Let people talk when I am dead.

There were errors in the spelling of the note, and it was badly written on a small piece of paper. On the other side was written, "Bertha Beatrice Hubbell," and under this: "My mother has tried to have my brother beat me, and I cannot stand it any longer. I am sick of life."

Two cards were also found. One bore the name of "Dr. Robert L. Smith, of No. 576 John street, Bridgeport, Conn." the address of No. 112 Coleman street, and the name of Mrs. C. B. Trulock, No. 1221 Grant street, Transamerica avenue.

On the second card was the name of "M. R. Humphreys, Bridgeport, Conn."

On the way to the hospital the girl called from her stupor and told Mr. Power she hoped she would die. She said she was twenty-six years old and had a husband, and did not like to be a burden to her mother and brother-in-law.

At No. 100 Congress street, Bridgeport, a reporter found Mrs. Phoebe Hubbell, the widowed mother of the would-be suicide, and two of her sisters. They said Bertha had been employed for several years in various families, and that she was not at home often. "She has been acting queerly of late," said the mother, "and she has not been like herself. We are of the belief that she has had an affair with some young man, and that she has been hurt, but we do not know this to be true. All we do know is the man."

She has been telling us of late that she would do something that would shock and surprise us. She left home this afternoon at 2 o'clock, saying that she was going to visit an aunt who lives in East Bridgeport. My daughter was last employed by a family on Park avenue, Bridgeport. I do not care to mention the name."

Mrs. Hubbell also said that her daughter was in the habit of going to New York to visit relatives at No. 207 West One Hundred and Ninth street. Two of the other daughters, correspondents of the mother said, were now in the household. The mother's age is twenty-two years.

A charge of attempted suicide was made against the girl at the Fifty-first street police station. She had no belongings when she was found, and the penknife with which she had made the attempt to end her life was in the possession of the police.

VICTIM'S LIPS

Were Sealed by Black Hand Signal

NEW YORK, April 22.—After identifying the picture of Leonardo Bartaloni in the rogues' gallery as one of a trio of Black Handers to whom he paid $700 six months ago for the return of his kidnapped boy, Salvatore Randazzo, the father, when called upon yesterday to identify the Italian who had been caught after a half year hunt, became suddenly mute.

The moment the old man was brought into the same room with Bartaloni, the prisoner gave him a mysterious sign. The father's face blanched. "I do not know him," he repeated with faltering words.

When Bartaloni was later arraigned in the Tombs police court before Magistrate Cornell he was discharged for lack of sufficient evidence. Lieut. Golder, of the Italian detective bureau, claims that Bartaloni has been arrested several times in connection with kidnappings, bomb throwings and attempted murders.

The Randazzo family, living on the first floor of 5 Livingston street, was in a state of terror all yesterday, when the father returned from police headquarters, where he had refused to identify Bartaloni, he was in a state of collapse.

For the past week the father has guarded little Salvatore, his six-year-old son, to and from public school No. 25, on Chrystie street, for fear he would again be kidnapped, and the neighbors say he was recently in receipt of a letter, commanding him to keep silent, under the penalty of death. This letter was stamped in blood and bore the usual signs of the Black Hand, a dagger, a cross and cross-bones and skull.

The father of the abducted boy, whose payment of $700 to the abductors for the return of his child after it was kidnapped on Oct. 29, 1903, practically exhausted his savings of 16 years, has been increased many fold recently by the arrest of two other Italians implicated in the plot, one a relative by marriage.

One of these men, Giuseppe Adragio, has already been convicted and is now under indictment and awaiting trial. As they are both Sicilians, it is now believed that their associates in the crime of blackmailing have taken up their cause and are awaiting a chance to seek revenge upon the father for his former activity in aiding the police. It was the knowledge of these threats and the sign of death passed to the old man by Bartaloni yesterday that caused the father to fail in the identification.

DOCTOR HELD

NEW YORK, April 22.—Dr. Archibald F. S. Barry, whose wife died last November, was arrested last night on a woman's warrant charging homicide. The physician told the city when the case of his wife's death was revealed through an autopsy. The arrest was made at One Hundred and First street and Columbus avenue, by Detectives Hunt and McVey, who identified him through a photograph.

Mrs. Marie Barry died in her home, No. 512 West One Hundred and Thirtieth street. Her husband secured the certificate and gave acute indignation as the cause of death. The Rev. Father Kelly, of the Church of the Annunciation, reported the case to the coroner's office as suspicious.

The certificate was held up and Dr. Barry was ordered to make an autopsy. This revealed that death had been caused by peritonitis—the result of a surgical operation. By the time Dr. Barry had made his report, Dr. Barry had died. Coroner Shady said that a general alarm for the missing husband. Recently the police were informed that he was back in town.

After being taken to headquarters, last night he said he was innocent, but beyond this refused to make any statement. He will be arraigned today.

HEEL AND TOE MATCH

Officers Murphy and Clark Walk From Boston

Lowell may not have any famous Marathon runners, but it certainly has some corking square heel and toe walkers and on its police force at that. Yesterday a square heel and toe match from the North Station, Boston, to the corner of Lawrence and Rogers streets, this city, was held between Police Officer Dan Murphy of the regular force and Superintendent Officer Joseph Clark.

Accompanying them on bicycles are judges and timers were Officers Matt McMan and Dan Lynch, both all round athletes themselves. Officer McMan had a cyclometer on his wheel which at the finish showed that the distance was 25 and 1-10 miles.

The race was won by Murphy by 200 yards in 4 hours, 45 minutes, 40 seconds which is faster than Dan O'Leary's best time and beats the best previous record made by Austin Cadery, the veteran and ex-Atlantic John Daly who covered the ground in 5 hours, 1 minute.

The two officers kept together all the way until they reached Waverley when Murphy pulled away and it is said that Clark took through a blunder of his partner Dan Lynch, who gave him a couple of "sinners" otherwise called doughnuts, to eat. The men walked straight heel and toe throughout the distance and their time is considered excellent. The men left the starting point at 10 o'clock this morning.

DEATH AND RUIN

Lake Erie Was Swept by a Great Squall Today

CLEVELAND, April 22.—A squall which swept along the southern shore of Lake Erie yesterday left death and ruin behind it. The wind reached a velocity of nearly one hundred miles an hour for a few minutes. Day was made as dark as night. Trees and frame houses were blown down in all parts of the city. Lightning started many fires. A young woman was blown into Lake Erie yesterday and drowned. The roof was blown from the main building of the Case school of applied science and from Adelbert college. Monuments and trees were blown down in Woodland cemetery. Telegraph and telephone wires were down.

Sends Message on Railroad Situation

BOSTON, April 22.—The creation of a corporation to be financed by any railroad corporation of Massachusetts presumably the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad for the purpose of purchasing and holding stock of the Boston & Maine railroad was the solution of the railroad controversy in this state suggested by Gov. Draper in a message to the legislature yesterday. The governor suggested that if such a corporation be formed it should be strictly limited that a majority of its directors shall be citizens of Massachusetts and that its principal offices shall be in Boston. The message follows:

"The existing situation in regard to some of the great railroad companies which are serving the commonwealth of Massachusetts seems to me to be unsatisfactory. It is not necessary for me to state in detail the events which have led up to this condition or to attempt any characterization of them. It is the condition which exists which needs improvement.

"At the present time there is a large amount of stock in the Boston & Maine railroad which is generally understood to be owned by foreign corporations or by gentlemen who are not citizens of Massachusetts. This stock may at any time change ownership and become the property of some great railroad whose main interests would not be in Massachusetts nor New England. If anything can be done so that this condition may be changed and the ownership of this stock brought into the control of Massachusetts it would seem to be wise and for the best interests of the commonwealth. I am informed and believe that this result can be brought about if in the opinion of your honorable bodies it is considered wise.

"I therefore suggest that you consider the advisability of creating a corporation which under such limitations as you prescribe shall have the right to purchase and hold stock in the Boston & Maine railroad giving to any railroad corporation incorporated under the laws of this commonwealth the necessary power temporarily or otherwise to finance said corporation and I would suggest that if a charter is granted to such a corporation its powers be strictly limited.

"Among other things it should be provided that a majority of the directors of the corporation must at all times be citizens of the commonwealth and that its principal offices and place of business must be in the city of Boston, as well as the meetings of its directors and that the corporation shall not have the power to sell or dispose of the stock so acquired by it without the consent of the commonwealth after investigation by the railroad commissioners and action by the legislature. If such a corporation is authorized with the powers and limitations which I have indicated I am informed and believe that it could acquire a large holding of stock of the Boston & Maine. This would result in bringing the ownership and control of one of the great lines of railroads serving Massachusetts and New England into the Massachusetts company and chartered by the commonwealth such that company until the commonwealth by act of its legislature should relinquish it.

"It seems to me that this would result in benefit to New England and would remove doubt and uncertainty now existing and bring a large party of the railroad interests in our immediate vicinity into harmonious relations with the government and citizens of the commonwealth and I commend such action to your favorable consideration."

FOUND HANGING

PROVIDENCE MAN HAD BEEN MENTALLY DEPRESSED

PROVIDENCE, April 22.—The dead body of Louis Fritz, one of the oldest carriage repairers in Rhode Island, was found hanging by a cord from a hack in his front street factory yesterday. The cord was fastened tightly about his neck. Mr. Fritz had been mentally depressed of late over business troubles, it is said.

DIAMOND NOTES.

The New England league season will open tomorrow, but there will be nothing doing in Lowell for the Tigers will open at New Bedford and will not get back home until Wednesday next when the opening game at Washington park promises to be a swell event. Mayor Brown will throw the first ball over the plate.

The University of Vermont team on which Haynes of Lowell is a valued member plays here tomorrow.

Washington park will be well rolled with a steamer roller before the opening game as the outfield is a little soft.

Since Edward F. Brady offered a home run bat to the Lowell player who will make the first home run within the grounds, the fans are figuring out just where to hit the ball to make a home run possible. Jimmie Gardner, the boxer, who is also a fan and a fair ball player, appears to have it figured out right for Jimmie says that in his opinion the only way to get a home run within the grounds is by hitting along the third base line clear to the left field fence. The ball upon reaching the fence will come off and down between the fence and the row of trees and by the time a fielder can get to it a fast runner could get home.

The right field fence is so short that a ball hit to it bounds back into the open field where the fielder can get to it easily, but a long hit to the left field fence always leaves the ball close to the fence.

Nichols, the Villanova college shortstop during the past three years, is being tried out at third. His throwing was not perfect, due probably to the change of positions, but otherwise he looks good. On the bases he particularly shines and has that snap which the crowd is always seeking in ball players.—Fall River Globe.

A large number of Lowell fans went to Boston yesterday to root for Red Sox and his Red Sox, and the Red Sox won.

AMATEUR BASEBALL.

The Crescents will play the Sagabroes on Saturday, April 24, for a purse of $10. Game called at 3 o'clock. Take Chelmsford street car and get off at Parker street.

A game scheduled for Monday afternoon at the Highland school grounds between the Young Champions and Y. M. C. A. Juniors was not played on account of the non-appearance of the Y. M. C. A.'s.

The Young Champions have reorganized and challenge any 14 or 15 year old team in or around Lowell. Send challenges to Manager S. E. Reister, 640 Middlesex street.

The "Centra's" baseball team will challenge any baseball team in the city under 12 years of age. This is a new team and would like to challenge the best. The Centra's beat the "Chelmsford's" Thursday by a score of 29 to 7. The lineup is as follows:

1. Kane, c. W. Kelley, p. G. Willett, 1st b. H. McDunn, 2nd b. O'Donnell, 3rd b. H. Cluff, 4th b. J. Bailey, 5th b. F. Byrne, 6th b. T. Cassidy.

Send all challenges to Joe Shea, Central street, corner of Walnut.

The Payments opened the season Monday by defeating the Oaklanders Green's team by the score of 8 to 4. The future of the game was a contest between Drummer Morse and Joe M. Corey and the running of George Cluff.

The Payments, a strong team of the Oaklanders, would like to arrange a game for Saturday with any 14-year-old team in the city. Line-up: Drummer Morse, p. George Cluff, 1st b. H. McDunn, 2nd b. O'Donnell, 3rd b. H. Cluff, 4th b. J. Bailey, 5th b. F. Byrne, 6th b. T. Cassidy.

The Tyngsboro baseball team would like a game with the following team: W. M. C. A. T. R. & T. Lowell, 1st b. Y. M. C. A. Chelmsford, Centre, and

Interesting Items From Mill Centres

UTICA, N. Y., April 22.—Chiefly to avoid paying his personal tax in the city, the Utica Knitting Co. will transfer its executive offices to Oriskany Falls, where the company has a plant. The company considers the assessment on its real and personal property too high. The law decrees that the real estate of a company be assessed in which it is located, but that the personal property be assessed in the town where its principal office is located. In 1907, the company was assessed at $150,000 on its real estate and $391,000 on its personal property. In 1908 the company was assessed on its real estate at $201,500, and on its personal property at $450,000. The company demurred to its assessments, and was given a hearing and the board of assessors claimed that the assessment was fair and just on the report made by the company and that the assessment compared with those on other manufacturing property in the city. The total assessment was $651,500. The company's action was taken at the meeting of the stockholders held at its local office on Erie street. The vote was unanimous in favor of the proposition to remove the principal offices to Oriskany Falls. As soon as the necessary papers certifying the action are filed, the removal will be de facto and the city of Utica will lose the personal tax of the company.

PERSEVERANCE CO. ADDITION. WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 22.—The Perseverance Worsted Co. is to erect a modern addition to its plant on River street. Plans have been made for the building of a basement and two-story addition, 50x170 feet. Work will be started as soon as possible. Fountain & Kinnicut are the architects. The building will be of brick and the basement of concrete. The new part will be connected with the present mill by a pathway. The addition is to be erected on the southeast side of the present mill and will be used for the finishing department, which will be changed over. More space will be given by the change for the installation of looms, if desired.

PLAN NEW KNITTING MILL. NORRISTOWN, Pa., April 22.—Plans have been drawn and proposals invited for a knitting plant that will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, and will be one of the largest industrial plants in the Schuylkill valley. The building will be on Astor street, adjacent to the Wildman Manufacturing Co. The plans call for a building 155 feet long, 50 feet wide and five stories in height and a basement. The product of the plant will be hosiery, underwear and all kinds of knit goods, and it will furnish employment to upward of 400 hands, if not more.

BLACKINTON MILL BUSY. BLACKINTON, Mass., April 22.—All of the looms that it is possible to operate in the Blackinton mill are now being run by Waterhouse & Howard, who are also operating their mill on Eagle street full time. The building of the new weave shed at Blackinton, which necessitates so many changes at the mill, makes it impossible to operate all of the looms, but over 50 are now being run and every loom that can be used during the necessary changes will be operated all of the time.

SILK MILL FOR LEBANON. LEBANON, Pa., April 22.—That Lebanon will get the proposed new silk mill, three times as large as the silk mill operating here now, was as good as guaranteed at the meeting of citizens in the Mann building. The $53,000 already subscribed for, in amounts from $10,000 to $100,000, was increased by pledges of $12,800 to over $65,800. Further pledges were in sight when the meeting ended, and the balance of the $100,000 needed for the bond with which the mill will be built is said to be assured.

The King of the Wheat Pit

CHICAGO, April 22.—Many times since the Patten wheat corner developed the wheat king's brokers have had to engage in frantic buying campaigns to ward off a slump. On several occasions when the market threatened to break violently Patten's stubborn buying brought a rally and turned the tide against the bears. The Patten corner has attracted the attention of the European capitalists and caused a bill to be introduced in congress against option trading. It also has resulted in many threats against Patten, who goes about accompanied by a body guard.

ON THE ALLEYS. LOWELL ONE PRICE DEFEATED WEST ENDS.

The Lowell One Price team took two points and the total last night in the Minor league from West Ends. The match was played on the Crescent alleys. Grant was high man with a three-string total of 222, and a single of 112.

BOWLWAY LEAGUE. The Bowlways and the Highlanders split even last night on the Bridge Street alleys, each team taking two points in the Bowlway league. Dwyer was high man with a three-string total of 225, and Croft took the single with 111.

BILLERICA. John P. Gregware, master mechanic at the Faulkner Mfg. Co., had two fingers of his right hand badly crushed yesterday afternoon while removing one of the plate presses in the finishing room. His injuries were attended to by Dr. O'Donnell.

Charles Johnson has been reappointed sealer of weights and measures by the board of selectmen. Overseer Braun, formerly of Winton, N. H., has taken charge of the finishing department of the Faulkner Mfg. Co.

ASSOCIATED PRESS OFFICERS. NEW YORK, April 22.—Following the annual meeting of the Associated Press, held here Tuesday, the board of directors met yesterday and organized by the election of the following officers: President, Frank B. Noyes, Chicago Record-Herald; first vice president, J. C. Thompson, New York News; second vice president, John H. Fahy, Boston Traveller; secretary and general manager, Melville E. Stone; assistant secretary and assistant general manager, Charles S. Dient, and J. R. Youatt of New York, treasurer.

HARVEY TARBELL

Has Returned From European Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Tarbell, the former the well known local landscape architect, arrived home Tuesday after a delightful tour of the countries of Europe and a very enjoyable cruise through the Mediterranean sea. The itinerary included England, Ireland, France, Italy, Greece, Germany and the Holy Land.

He marvelled at some of the buildings, ruins, etc. that he saw and agrees with others that a tour of Europe is indeed a valuable education. While Mr. Tarbell's trip was principally for pleasure, he paid particular attention to the landscape work in the different countries and came home with many new ideas.

He tells some very interesting stories of the trip. One place which he was greatly interested in owing to the fact that his business is that of improving and restoring beauty, was the site of the city of Pompeii which stood at the base of Mount Vesuvius, between Herculaneum and Stabiae, in Italy, which was buried in 79 A. D. by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius.

The city lay buried until 1639 when some ruins were noticed but nothing was done towards restoring the city until 1756 when the Neapolitan government took charge of the work of excavating and the work has continued up to the present time. Of late years, however, the government has had little to do with the work, it being carried on by subscription. Mr. Tarbell says that he spent quite a little time at the site of the ruined city where at times thousands of people are employed in carrying away earth and ashes which buried the city. Men, women and children are employed to excavate and carry the dirt away and their pay averages about 15 cents a day. When the money subscribed is exhausted, the work is stopped until more money is forthcoming from public spirited citizens or from some of the historic societies throughout the world.

The remains found are in a remarkably good state of preservation, owing to the fact that the city was destroyed not by lava, but by sand, ash and cinders, forming a light covering and practically hermetically sealed the town.

INCOME TAX

PRESIDENT TAFT HAS NOT CHANGED VIEWS

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Recent agitation, it is said, at the White House has in no wise changed President Taft's views, that an income tax should be in the nature of a last step for raising revenue for the national government. The president believes an income tax is the best way to collect all the special taxation devices under consideration and he favors the levy of such taxes as will cause the least friction with the people. President Taft, it is said, has implicit confidence in Senator Aldrich and believes that a satisfactory solution of the tariff question and of raising increased revenues soon will be reached.

TWO REPORTS

FITCHBURG, April 22.—When the trustees of the Burbank hospital met yesterday to consider the report of the trustees' recent investigation into the charges of alleged misconduct by doctors and nurses and alleged ill treatment of patients, two reports were submitted to them. The majority report was signed by Mayor M. Fred O'Connell, chairman of the committee; Charles E. Vane, vice chairman; Arthur Crocker and B. W. Dwyer. The minority report was presented by the fifth member of the committee Harry Bennett who is also president of the common council. The majority report recommends certain changes in the conduct of the hospital and the method of electing the executive committee and favors the appointment of a male superintendent. The report in his report recommends more sweeping changes in methods and urges the removal of Dr. George Mciver and of the matron, Miss Ada White.

MADE WELL AND STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bardonia, Ky.—"I suffered from ulceration and other female troubles for a long time. Doctors had failed to help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and I decided to try it. It cured my trouble and made me well and strong so that I can do all my own work." Mrs. JOSEPH HALL, Bardonia, Ky.

Another Woman Cured. Christiana, Tenn.—"I suffered from the worst form of female trouble so that at times I thought I could not live, and my nerves were in a dreadful condition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me, and made me feel like a different woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold to suffering women."—Mrs. MARY WOOD, R.F.D. 3. If you belong to that countless army of women who suffer from some form of female ills, don't hesitate to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs. For thirty years this famous remedy has been the standard for all forms of female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, fibroid tumors, ulceration, inflammation, irregularities, backache, and nervous prostration.

THE CHARTER AMENDMENT BILLS.

The board of trade committee has filed in the legislature the amended charter bill, and it is to be hoped that the Lowell delegation will use their influence to have the bill become law.

The committee on cities insisted that the party designation should not be dropped, and Lowell influences, principally republican, opposed any change in the election of the school board. The other features of the bill remain practically unchanged with the exception that the "Recall" has been eliminated. The common council will go if the amended charter bill be adopted in its present form. The bill provides for nine aldermen elected at large for two years, so that the city will thus get the best men and be able to keep them long enough to derive some benefit from their experience in transacting the city's business.

If an alderman renders good service the voters can reelect him, thus giving him four years in office, a period which should make him a very valuable public servant if he is the right kind of a man.

The salary of the mayor is to be not less than $3600 and not more than $5000, the amount to be fixed by the board of aldermen. The mayor's power of appointment and removal without confirmation is limited to the superintendent of streets and the inspector of buildings.

Should this bill be enacted and adopted by the people, it will accomplish a few very important improvements. Should the Meehan-Conley bill providing for the separation of the police and licensing powers be also adopted, the whole will result in a very considerable change in our municipal government, and we believe a change for the better. The Meehan-Conley bill is right in principle so far as a separation of the police and licensing powers go. It might be well to make the experiment of having the business done as proposed by this bill. If it effects the desired improvement then there will be reason to rejoice, but if not the only alternative is to place the license granting power in the hands of the governor of Massachusetts and take it completely out of local politics.

So far as the local police commission is concerned it must be apparent to all that the very best men who can possibly be selected may be made the scapegoats of scheming politicians, may be investigated and possibly removed on technical charges. Such a system cannot last because under such conditions the time is at hand when no honest or capable man will accept a position on our police board for the reason that however well he performs his duties he may be made the butt of some designing politician who happened to be elected mayor on a platform of general opposition to corrupt interests, a platform intended mainly to catch votes and deceive the people.

The charter in amended form combined with the Meehan-Conley bill will be submitted to the people at the state election, and if adopted will take effect and be in full force next year. The city is in the greatest need of a more systematic method of transacting its business, and the charter bill will accomplish something in that direction but not so much as we require. However, it is a matter of taking what we can get when we cannot get what we want.

THE VETO OF THE PAVING LOAN.

We approve the action of the aldermen in passing the paving loan over the mayor's veto. The reasons urged by His Honor for vetoing the loan order were far fetched and based simply upon the fact that the cost under the present contract is to be a few cents a yard higher than under the contract for paving Central and Middlesex streets last year. As Alderman Wainwright well said, the paving of Bridge, Merrimack and the remaining portion of Middlesex street will be a more difficult proposition than that of paving streets on which there is no net work of car tracks and few obstructions of any other kind.

The improvement of Central and Middlesex streets by the block paving laid there last year is so clearly a benefit to the city that nobody who has the city's interests in view could object to having some of the other business streets similarly paved even if the cost be a little higher.

It is an imperative necessity to complete the job on Middlesex street at least as far as the depot, and it is equally necessary to pave Merrimack street from Bridge street to city hall.

The condition of Merrimack square for some years past has been deplorable owing to the laying of conduits, the construction of sewers and the changing of tracks. Public convenience and necessity demand that the square shall be paved in the best possible manner, and we know of no better paving than that which is laid on Central and Middlesex streets, the kind authorized by the order which the mayor vetoed. The difference in the cost is a small matter compared to the possible loss and certain inconvenience that would be caused by putting off the paving of these streets for another year.

The aldermen acted in the interest of the city in passing the loan over the mayor's veto, and it is to be hoped that the lower board will concur in order that the job may be started in time to be finished before the arrival of cold weather.

THE SITUATION IN TURKEY.

The situation in the Turkish empire is very alarming. The country is at present in the throes of revolution instigated by religious frenzy aimed mainly at Christians. Already a large number of Christians have been murdered, and still other outrages of a similar kind will be perpetrated before the trouble is ended.

The Armenians as usual will have to suffer much of the atrocities perpetrated by the Moslem fanatics. The situation calls for the prompt interference of the powers to prevent further outrages. It appears that the sultan's sway will be overthrown and civilization will have no chance to regret that particular feature of the revolution. He has repeatedly saved himself by appealing to the fanaticism of the Mohammedans and turning their fury against the Christians.

The progressive element known as the young Turks, the leaders in this revolution, will probably overthrow the present dynasty and establish one to their own liking.

There is an opportunity now for the Armenian revolutionists to strike a blow for the freedom of their country. They have suffered untold cruelties, and anything they can do to overthrow the present government and to aid in establishing their freedom would be justified under present conditions. There is an opportunity for the Hunakist and other revolutionary societies to help the motherland, but of late they have been too busily engaged in fighting one another, or we might say in cutting each other's throats to do anything for their country. It is to be hoped that out of the fires of revolution will come a government more strongly committed to the principles of justice and civilization than was that presided over by Abdul Hamid, who has been justly designated "the damned."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Yolande Moro, a noted Hungarian pianist, will be presented to the American public next winter by Henry Weissman, who has just closed a contract with her for sixty concerts in the United States and Canada, commencing in New York city in November. Dr. Paul Ertel, in his book, "Artists' Biographies," speaks of Miss Moro as the greatest pianist who has come out of Hungary since the days of Liszt. In addition to all of the artistic requirements demanded of a virtuoso of the present Miss Moro is endowed with that rare gift of personal beauty that has won her distinction among her confreres. Miss Moro was born in Budapest in 1887, and her public performances commenced when she was nine years of age. She has toured Germany, Hungary, and not a year ago made her debut in London, where she was hailed with acclamations.

A movement is on foot in Russian and Austrian Poland to honor the memory of Helena Modjeska, the Polish actress who died in California, April 8. Arrangements are being made for a memorial service to be held in Warsaw, and a statue of Mme. Modjeska will be erected in the foyer of the Warsaw theatre. A committee is working in Austrian Poland to erect another statue at the Lemberg theatre.

The Warsaw theatre has established a Modjeska fund to further the education of young actors. An effort is being made to collect money to bring the body to Warsaw for burial, and if it is permitted there will be a public funeral. There is some doubt, however, as to whether the Russian authorities will permit this, inasmuch as Mme. Modjeska was expelled from Russia several years ago when she was about to make a public appearance in that city. If burial in Warsaw is not possible, the body will be interred in Cracow, in Austrian Poland.

"ROLLED THE BONES" MEN OF BRAINS

Needed to Solve Social Problems

Testimony Offered at the Hearing in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, April 22.—Former street department employees told the investigating committee last night how time was wasted at the city stables during the administration of Supt. John C. Needham.

Daniel H. Logue said that he worked about the yard for a time in the early part of last year, nominally performing the duties of a foreman, although he was not so designated. He said that there were 22 men about the yard, in the paint shop the force varied from five to nine. Up to February practically nothing was done by them. Then they began sandpapering watering carts.

Asked how the men occupied the time, he said that they sat about the fire and told funny stories. Occasionally they painted a sign, "No Admittance Except on Business," or "No Smoking," and everyone was smoking, the witness added. Cards were also played. One of the men got a wheelbarrow of coal as it was required.

The horse couldn't get into the shop while we were there," the witness declared. Witness noted a shortage of seven bags of cement in the count of a load, and the driver said that he would bring them the next time. A few days later a load arrived, and the driver, after following the custom of going into the office to report the load, drove away with the cement still on the cart.

Soon after reporting this instance witness was assigned to another job. Witness was one of those who attended ball games until it became known he told of an outing that the street department ordered, and said that a portable shed was built in the carpenter shop and then taken to the scene of the outing in the department's emergency wagon. It was used by the cook.

Witness said that each man contributed $1 a month toward a fund which was supposed to be used in the interest of a certain majority applicant. The money was collected by Time-keeper Burton. Witness said that his father had been offered employment in the department within a week.

John E. Roberts, another discharged street department employee, told of coming to the city hall to see the paint shop during the day that he was there. He said that the men idled away the time. He cited the shelling of three baseball bats for one of the carpenters as one of the items of work performed. He carried one hod of coal during the time he was on the payroll. He said the paint shop door was always kept locked on the inside. Asked how the men spent their time, he said: "They read the papers or they might have rolled the bones for an hour or two."

Asked by Attorney Sughrue of Boston, counsel for the investigators, as to what he referred to as "bones," he said "dice."

Joseph S. Chambers said that Supt. Needham told him to select a street sprinkler cart for his horses and after he had done so informed him that the price was $56. Witness refused to pay and received no work.

Inspector Timothy McCarthy said that at the mayor's request he asked Supt. Needham if the two horses belonging to a Serbian were kept in the city stables. Needham said that they were not costing the city anything and he proposed keeping them. Morris Freedman testified that he paid $25 to Lewis Bernstein in the street department stable and was then conducted into the office where Supt. Needham was. He received 1-2 days' employment.

William Byrne told of his efforts to secure employment. Another time Needham told him that fifty dollars was easy for two years' steady work. Najly Nassali said that he gave Mrs. Needham a fancy scarf but that he was assigned to work in the sewer department he declined, preferring the street department.

Charles R. Vose, a police inspector, told of finding in cellar walls of private property stone flagging which had presumably been removed from Commercial street, as that street was then being paved. Atty. Sughrue said that he expected the expert accountants would be ready to report at the next session.

DUKE'S CHILDREN

ARE SUED BY DOWAGER DUCHESSES

NEW YORK, April 22.—Justice Dowling, in the supreme court, yesterday, appointed John Bowers of New York guardian of Viscountess Montague, aged 6 years; Lord Edward Eugene Montague, aged 3 years; and Lady Mary Alva Montague, aged 8 years, minor children of the Duke of Manchester.

The children are made defendants in a suit brought by their grandmother, Consuelo, dowager duchess of Manchester, and her sisters, Natalia Lister-Kaye and Emily Yznaga, against William K. Vanderbilt and Harry B. Thibault, executors of the will of their father, the late Fernando Antonio Rhodes as executor of the will of Ellen M. Yznaga, widow of Senator Yznaga. The Duke of Manchester is also made a party to the suit.

Senator Fernando Antonio Yznaga Delvalle died in New York on Feb. 28, 1902, and the suit now brought is to set aside the probate of his will in the orphan's court of Philadelphia on the ground that that court did not have jurisdiction.

73 YEARS OLD

AGED MAN WEDDED TO A GOVERNESS

DAYTON, O., April 22.—E. J. Barney, 73, Dayton's wealthiest citizen and captain of industry, was married yesterday afternoon to Mrs. Elinor Chapman, 39, the pretty widow of State Senator W. W. Chapman, who for some months served as a governess in the Barney family.

Barney's two daughters remained away from the wedding.

Barney, until the last few years, was president of the Barney & Smith Company, and is reputed to be worth $600,000.

Since the death of his wife, nine years ago, with a large family of servants he has maintained a magnificent $200,000 residence in Dayton, besides several suburban homes. The decorations, it is understood, have been unalterably opposed to the second marriage of their father, and as a result social ostracism of the first family of the city it is believed will be the issue.

NEW MEMBERS

Board of Trade Gets an Increase

The directors of the board of trade met at the office of Secretary McKenna yesterday afternoon and admitted 27 new members. The membership committee is confident that it will increase the membership to 500 by July 1st. The committee consists of George D. Hawley, chairman; Moses Marks, Frank Ricard, A. A. Byam, and F. L. Favor.

A communication was received from Bernard F. Gately, asking for better trade accommodations out of Lowell on Sunday mornings. The committee referred to the transportation committee.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of Stephen C. Davis, a member of the board since its inception. It was voted to send a copy of the resolutions to the family of the deceased.

The city advertising committee, consisting of Moses Marks, Milo D. Clay, James O'Sullivan, S. F. Whipple, and Abel R. Campbell, was appointed to assist the finance committee of the Lowell Automobile club in raising money for the auto carnival of the week of Labor day. Members spoke of the great interest outside of Lowell in the carnival.

The secretary of the Boston chamber of commerce asked co-operation for a more equitable system of taxation. An effort will be made to change the constitution of the state so as to tax property in classes as is done in New York, and some other states. Stocks and bonds, it is claimed, ought not to pay taxes often equal to one-half of their carrying power, when the tax on real estate and other property is figured in as cost of maintenance.

Chairman Charles H. Conant of the postal affairs committee reported that through the efforts of the board of trade better postal facilities would be enjoyed by that part of Tewksbury recently annexed to the city, beginning the first of May. This will take, in lower Andover street, Clark road, and a part of the Oaklands. It was voted to extend a vote of thanks to Congressman Ames for the active part he took in the matter.

Bertrand L. Chapman, publisher of the New England Magazine, addressed the board on an advertising proposition for the city in connection with his magazine.

The newly elected members were as follows: Orville E. Coon, Frank M. Bregan, Joseph J. Albert, Wilfred C. Foster, J. P. Curley, F. W. Cragin, George D. Kimball, Herbert L. Chapman, P. A. Howard, Carl P. Hurd, John P. M. Nauch, Louis Weller, Stephen Ryan, Mrs. A. Ayer, Murray H. Pratt, J. B. W. Thayer, John P. Davis, Al. W. Bennett, Silverblatt, M. Sydenham, H. L. Martin, C. E. French, Irving Burt, H. R. Rochester, A. A. Jones, Wm. H. Wilson, John J. Hanton.

Miss Deane Spalding appeared on a literary program presented at the school of Expression, Boston, on Saturday, April 17. The subject of the program was "The Little Girl in the Sun." She was accompanied by Miss Spalding and Miss Spalding.

Miss Spalding, said by critics to be the poet's best poetic effort. Miss Spalding is amply qualified to do the poet's justice and received many compliments on her representative interpretation of Lamb's thought.

CRAZED BY FEAR

Woman Plunged Through Window to Her Death

NEW YORK, April 22.—During a small fire in the tenement at No. 412 Grand street yesterday afternoon Mrs. Rachael Mathison, temporarily crazed by fear, leaped from a window on the fourth floor, dragging with her her thirteen-year-old daughter, who had tried to restrain her. The woman struck the sidewalk and was mortally injured. She died last night in Gouverneur hospital. The daughter landed on top of her mother and was not seriously hurt.

The fire started in the flat on the third floor, occupied by Mrs. Rebecca Ganz, who opened the door of her bedroom shortly after four o'clock and found the room in flames.

Mrs. Ganz called in several tenants living on the same floor, and for several minutes they fought vainly to extinguish the blaze. It spread quickly to the other rooms of the apartment, and Mrs. Ganz ran screaming to the street and gave the alarm.

Mrs. Mathison, who was alone with her daughter, Rose, in their rooms on the floor above, was aroused by shouting in the street. She ran to the front window, threw it open and was met by a blast of flame and smoke from the windows below. Her clothes were scorched by the flames.

Afraid to Escape by Hall

Jumping back from the window with a cry of terror, Mrs. Mathison ran with her daughter to the door of their apartment. The fire had not spread to the hallway yet, but it was filled with smoke. Other tenants were running down the stairs, and both Mrs. Mathison and her daughter could have escaped unharmed. The latter tried to get her mother down the stairs, but Mrs. Mathison had lost her wits at the sight of the smoke and stood wringing her hands helplessly and praying aloud.

"We'll have to jump!" she screamed to her daughter, and ran again to the front window, with Rose clinging to her skirts and trying to calm her. The fire engines had arrived by this time, and, drawing Mrs. Mathison's attention as she leaned from the window, the firemen shouted to her not to jump, and several of them started up the stairs of the building to bring her down. There was time even then for the mother and daughter to escape either by the stairs or by the roof-scuttle, through which some of the other tenants had climbed.

The fright-crazed woman left the window for a moment and, picking up her pet fox terrier, which was barking about the flat, she hurried it through the window to the street. It was killed outright. Then she climbed onto the sill, while the crowd rent her its shout: "Don't jump!"

Girl and Woman Struggle

Rose, clinging to her mother's skirts, was struggling desperately to hold her back. Mrs. Mathison did not try to drag her daughter with her, but sought to fight her off. For several seconds they struggled fiercely, the mother practically hanging out of the window and the daughter bracing herself against the sill within. The crowd below was watching breathlessly now.

Suddenly, with a violent effort, Mrs. Mathison threw herself from the window, and the little girl, her strength gone, but still grasping her mother's skirts, was carried with her. A cry of horror went up from the street as the pair fell, and then the crowd surged forward to the spot where they lay on the pavement, both unconscious.

Drs. Axtell and Wolfer, from Gouverneur hospital, took the mother and daughter there. At the hospital it was found that the daughter was suffering merely from a bruise on the head and shock. The mother's left leg was broken, her skull fractured, and she was injured internally. She lived only a few hours.

Mrs. Mathison was a widow and the mother of eight children, of whom Rose is the youngest. The others were all away at work when the fire started. The blaze was extinguished without difficulty, but not before the front apartments on the third and fourth floors burned out. The damage was about $1,000.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The expenditure of $2,250,000 on the canal zone during the month of January has brought the total expenditures on the zone toward the construction of the canal, civil administration, sanitation and plant building up to $23,915,000.

MAY RESTORE CONSTITUTION
TEHERAN, April 22.—The British and Russian diplomatic representatives were received in audience by the shah today and advised his majesty to proclaim amnesty to all political offenders and to restore the constitution. The shah promised to reply within a few days.

THE AGONY OF RHEUMATISM
If the thousands of intelligent people afflicted with the agonizing pains of rheumatism would listen to the advice of those who are honestly striving to help them, the volume of pain in this world would be greatly diminished.

New-fangled rheumatism cures have come—most of them have gone—but for years and years NEURALGIC ANODYNE has stood the test; it has relieved and cured thousands of the most aggravated cases of rheumatism, and its friends are legion.

It quickly relieves and cures nervous headache, toothache, cold on chest, lame back, cramps in the stomach, and all common disorders of the bowels.

There is no remedy in existence that is so effective in case of emergencies as NEURALGIC ANODYNE. Keep it in the house at all times. The price is only 25 cents. Made by The Twitchell-Champlin Co., Portland, Me.

MR. ROOSEVELT NO AGREEMENT

Was Warmly Greeted at Mombasa The A. O. H. Conference Availed Nothing

MOMBASA, British East Africa, Apr. 22.—Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt arrived here last evening on board the steamer Admiral. He was in the best of health as were all the other members of his party. The Admiral entered Villindi harbor flying the American flag at her fore and main masts. She dipped her German ensign while passing the British cruiser Pandora, whose rails and masts were manned by cheering sailors. The Pandora saluted the ex-president, who was on the bridge interested in watching the Admiral coming into port.

The people of Mombasa were in a great state of expectancy throughout the day, and the first word that the ship had been sighted brought them in crowds to vantage points, where they might catch a glimpse of the distinguished visitor. The Admiral, however, came slowly up to the harbor and it was dark when the ex-president, accompanied by his son Kermit and the captain, made a landing. They were brought ashore in the commandant's surf boat and carried to a place of shelter in chairs on native sleds.

There was a perfect deluge of rain, but in reply to the expressions of regret at the weather, Mr. Roosevelt said he was glad to get ashore in any weather. He added that he was in splendid form and that the start to the hunting grounds could not come a minute too soon.

The governor's aide boarded the Admiral and extended a welcome to Mr. Roosevelt, who received another cordial greeting on shore from the provincial commissioner, who conducted him to the government house. R. F. Cunningham, the hunter and field naturalist, who is to have charge of the expedition, also was at the pier.

The former president seemed highly pleased when he observed the military guard drawn up. He replied to the guard's salute by doffing his hat and smiling broadly. The crowds on shore pressed eagerly forward to see the noted American. They were composed of Europeans, Indians and natives, and presented a picturesque appearance. While genuinely hearty in their welcome of the former president of the United States, the people were not in any way demonstrative.

It had been the intention of the party to remain in Mombasa for two days, but the floods have been heavy and it was deemed advisable to change this plan. The special train which will carry Mr. Roosevelt and his party to Sir Alfred Pease's ranch on the Athi river will leave here at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

ON FREE LIST

COTTONSEED OIL MAY BE PLACED

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Cotton seed oil was the subject of an exchange of opinion between protectionist republicans and tariff for revenue democrats in the senate yesterday. Taunting members of the minority by saying that the cotton seed oil industry of the south appealed to him for tariff protection, Sen. Aldrich suggested to Mr. Bacon that if the senator from Georgia and other southern senators could get together in favor of placing that product on the free list, as was the case when the bill passed the house of representatives, he thought an agreement to that end might be reported.

This suggestion was called forth by a statement by Mr. Bacon, who said if the 23 per cent. ad valorem levied on importations of cotton seed oil did not produce an income, he thought it should go on the free list.

Sen. Simmons of North Carolina coming into the chamber at that moment, protested against such action, declaring that he was free to say that he was not in favor of placing cotton seed oil on the free list.

Saying that the importation of cotton seed oil in 1898 was 202,340 gallons worth $81, and yielded revenue of $23, Mr. Aldrich said the tax on that article was for the protection pure and simple.

"Any pretence," declared Mr. Tillman, rising in his place and speaking vigorously, "that there is protection on cotton seed oil through such a duty, is a humbug. Cotton seed oil, gentlemen, do not want any protection at all."

Mr. Aldrich, said that he had been appealed to by such producers in the south, and Mr. Tillman retorted that he "did not represent such people."

Mr. Money joined in a declaration that the south did not want protection on cotton seed oil.

MRS. BOYLE

HAS FINALLY BEEN IDENTIFIED AS HELEN McDERMOTT

MERCER, Pa., April 22.—Mrs. Boyle, the alleged wife of James H. Boyle, abductor of William Miller, is a mystery no longer. Last night the Associated Press was given absolute information that the woman is Helen McDermott of Chicago. Stories to the effect that she is a member of a prominent and wealthy family it was said without any foundation whatever. Last night Attorney P. C. Cochran, representing the prosecution, said without qualification that Mrs. Boyle was Helen McDermott. Her family resides in Chicago.

Attorney J. P. Stranahan, Jr., counsel for the woman, confirmed the identification. Mr. Stranahan said last night that Mrs. Boyle's brother visited her once. This was some time ago, when he had a lengthy talk with her and returned to Chicago to prepare means for her defense. Since that time funds have come from Chicago regularly to Mrs. Boyle. During the latter part of the work a deposit of $1000 was made in Mrs. Boyle's favor here, and owing to various statements, the house was said to believe she was a member of a prominent family.

Attorney Cochran had had possession of the history of the woman for some time. Facts in regard to her alleged visits in Kansas City, St. Louis, Louisville, Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland, St. Joseph, Mo., and Brooklyn are to be made public by the prosecuting counsel.

NOMINATED FOR RECTORSHIP

WASHINGTON, Apr. 22.—The board of trustees of the Catholic University met yesterday to nominate candidates for rector of the university to succeed Bishop O'Donnell, resigned.

Three candidates were named, one of whom will probably be chosen after the names have been favorably passed on at Rome.

Dr. Thomas Shahan, who was designated as pro-rector when Bishop O'Donnell left the university for San Francisco, has been prominently mentioned for the rectorship.

DUBLIN, April 22.—The conference of Matthew Cummings, national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, and Fr. P. H. O'Donnell of Massachusetts, delegates from America with representatives of the two sections of the Order of Hibernians, was held privately yesterday but ended without result. The proceedings were protracted, the American delegates declining to make any statement on the conference. Joseph Devlin, M. P., in behalf of the board of directors, issued a statement in which he said:

"We believe that the center of an organization working for Ireland ought to be located in Ireland and not in America. Our national convention, meeting on Irish soil, continues to be the supreme authority to formulate a policy of organization."

It is said that the conference resolved itself into a conflict between the Sinn Feiners and parliamentarians, and that an agreement appeared hopeless.

ENTIRE STATE

PLUNGED IN GRIEF OVER GOV. EARNOR'S DEATH

HARTFORD, April 22.—The whole state of Connecticut is plunged in grief today over the death of Governor George L. Lilley, and messages of condolence with the family have poured into the executive mansion in Farmington avenue all night. The arrangements for the funeral awaited a conference between Executive Secretary Charles Goodwin representing the family, and the joint committee of senators and representatives appointed as soon as the general assembly convened. Acting Governor Weeks of Middletown was sworn into office as governor during the morning. Immediately afterwards he officially notified the general assembly of the death of Gov. Lilley and his own accession to office. It was expected that as soon as the day of the funeral was set that a proclamation making the day a holiday for the purpose of mourning the death of the chief executive, would be issued.

Gov. Lilley, it is believed, knew that he would not recover although he kept up bravely while consciousness lasted. Just before he sank into semi-consciousness which preceded the state of coma, Mr. Lilley remarked to his nurse that he did not expect to leave his bed again. He expressed a wish to be able to do so to complete work that he had set out to do but he said he felt that he would not be able to. Said he, "If I leave this house and live to live I should be glad to have accomplished what I have accomplished."

A few hours later Gov. Lilley had entered the vale over which hung the shadow of death.

CHANGING CONFERENCE

FALL RIVER, April 22.—The 56th annual Changing conference of Unitarian churches was held in the First Unitarian church here yesterday. Officers were elected as follows: President, Job C. Tripp, Fall River. Vice president, Samuel H. Tingley, Providence. Secretary, Rev. George Kent, Providence. Treasurer, Augustus R. Pierce, Providence.

A SQUARE DEAL

AND

A SQUARE MEAL

Here's a square deal for the people who can't eat a square meal without getting sick and distressed.

Go to Carter & Sherburne's today and get a box of Mi-o-na tablets; the great prescription for indigestion and stomach troubles.

Take one or if your suffering is intense, two tablets with or after meals and at the end of ten days if you can't eat a square meal without distress go to Carter & Sherburne's and get your money back.

That's where the square deal comes in. But Mi-o-na is really a stomach up-builder of great merit; every day the makers receive more than a dozen letters from grateful people which state that after they had lost all hope Mi-o-na cured.

The quick and positive action of Mi-o-na on the stomach in case of gas, waterbrash, sour stomach and heartburn is worth a lot of money to any sufferer.

Why not try Mi-o-na at Carter & Sherburne's risk? Fifty cents buys a large box.

E. D. Howe, Gardner, Mass., says: "I suffered from severe pains in my stomach. I tried different remedies without relief; after using two boxes of Mi-o-na I found myself completely cured."

Mi-o-na is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

POLICE OFFICER

Was Attacked by the "Whyo" Club

BOSTON, April 22.—Hundreds of people looked on while upwards of 20 of the famous "Whyo" gang of the Roxbury Crossing district assaulted a police officer with hands, feet and clubs at the corner of Longwood avenue and Phillips street, shortly after 7 o'clock last evening.

Reserve Officer George Johnson was the victim of the attack, and saved himself from serious injury only by drawing his revolver and firing at the gang. When he was taken to police station 10 Lieutenant Rufus Fessenden quickly summoned a physician to attend him.

The affair was the first intimation that the police had that the famous gang or any part of it still existed or had been reorganized. A man named Michael Quinn, known by the police as "Silver" Quinn and living on Longwood avenue, demanded the attention of Johnson.

Quinn is of powerful build and is considered a difficult man to place under arrest. He is credited by the police with having in the past assaulted Patrolman Hooper, Patrolman McCarthy and Sergeant Byrne, all of Station 10.

Quinn resisted Officer Johnson, and tore himself from the latter's grasp and at once began to put up a lively fight against arrest.

Disdaining to use his club on the man, Johnson called to a crowd of young men who were standing near by for assistance. Instead of giving aid, however, they set themselves upon the police officer with the cry of "Whyo! Whyo!"

The officer drew his short club to protect himself against the attack of the crowd, numbering fully 20, but the club was snatched from his hands and used by the crowd to beat the officer. He was kicked and beaten with fists, thrown on the ground and trampled upon, while the crowd continued to shout their favorite call.

The scene of the fight was in a thickly populated tenement district. The calls of the mob and those of the police officer caused windows to be raised in nearly every house, while people ran from all directions to the scene of the encounter.

Under the attack Johnson released his hold on Quinn and directed his efforts to protect himself. He was nearly unconscious from the beating when his assailants fled, but he raised himself on his elbow, with his revolver in his hand, and fired a shot after the retreating gang. They scattered and continued at full speed while the officer regained his feet and pluckily staggered after them as fast as he could in his dazed condition. He fired an occasional shot as he ran, but all of the bullets went wild.

Bruised and bleeding the officer called up his station and Lieutenant Fessenden sent men out to Johnson's assistance.

A watch was kept on the homes of some young men suspected, but no one was arrested.

MAINE METHODIST CONFERENCE

BERLIN, N. H., April 22.—The consideration of routine business and the disposal of questions which had arisen among the different churches of the conference during the year occupied the forenoon session today of the Maine Methodist conference which is in convention here this week. The conference embraces the churches of western Maine and those in Gorham and Berlin, N. H.

Rev. Robert Colpitts preached the conference missionary sermon, after which the domestic missionary society held anniversary exercises with Rev. I. L. Buag presiding.

MAN KILLED

BOSTON, April 22.—John Dermody, aged 50, of WILTON, N. H., was run over and killed by a heavy dray at the corner of Washington street, North, and Sullivan street late yesterday.

Walter A. Hanley, of 302 Main street, Charlestown, the driver of the dray, was held by the police pending an investigation.

POWERFUL PROOF

Sagwa a Vegetable Remedy

To prove that Sagwa contains no opium, morphine, cocaine, or other poisonous ingredients, we requested that an analysis of Sagwa be made by the Professor of Physiological Chemistry at Yale college, considered one of the highest authorities in this country. He reported as follows:

After a chemical analysis of Kickapoo Sagwa and examining the various substances entering into its composition, I find it to be an extract of roots, barks and herbs, without any mineral or other deleterious admixtures.

You will find the formulas of Sagwa and all the Kickapoo Remedies printed on every package. We believe you should know what you take into your stomach. Sagwa is a remarkable composition of roots, herbs and barks for the cure of all diseases of the stomach, liver and blood. If you feel run down, lack of appetite, don't sleep, have a bad taste in the mouth, pains in the side, shoulders, back and stomach, constipated, bilious, have no energy, half sick feeling, food don't digest, take Sagwa. It may save you a month's sickness. A month's loss of time, and a month's expense for a doctor.

Remember—Sagwa contains no mineral or other harmful ingredients. Sagwa is a remedy for all times and for all seasons. It restores the stomach and liver to a state of perfect health. If these organs are in good condition, you need not have such diseases as Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Nervous Wreck, Scrofula, Erysipelas and Blood Diseases.

Kickapoo Sagwa; Kickapoo Oil, a healing family liniment; Kickapoo Worm Killer, for ailing children; Kickapoo Pills, for constipation and biliousness; Kickapoo Cough Cure, for coughs and colds; Kickapoo Salve, for piles, burns, sores and wounds, are for sale at all drug stores. PROFESSIONAL ETHICS, BY FRODO BAGGINS.

I would say that kind of accusing dramatic critic of personal bias in his reviews of plays and players as of accusing a bank clerk of dishonesty since the second would be no more treacherous to his employers than the first. Personalities never can be entirely absent from dramatic criticism: so long as the public prefer to read about persons than about things, but personism, delving into an actor's character or disposition as a man apart from his work on the stage, is unfair and generally makes dull reading.

LILLEY IS DEAD

Governor of Connecticut Addressed the Local Passed Away

HARTFORD, Conn., April 22.—Governor George Leavens Lilley died at the executive mansion at 7:25 o'clock last evening after battling with disease for four weeks. The end came peacefully as the distinguished patient did not regain consciousness from the coma in which he had lain for many hours and which was the result of acute nephritis and its attendant complications. There were at the bedside Mrs. George L. Lilley, the three sons, Frederick, John and Theodore Lilley, Dr. Graves and Dr. Beach, who had been the attending physicians. Executive Secretary Charles A. Goodwin and the two nurses, Mr. Cook and Miss Lowe. The scene at the bedside was a pathetic one, although the family through all the long vigil and knowing that the battle was a losing one from the beginning bore up bravely.

As soon as the sad news was spread abroad the fire bells of Hartford sounded the age of the dead governor, forty-nine, and a detachment of the First company, governor's footguards, immediately was mustered to go on duty at the executive mansion in Farmington avenue.

According to Dr. Beach, the governor's illness began four weeks ago Monday and when he arrived home his case was almost hopeless. He was near death as any man could be and yet recover. His wonderful vitality enabled him to rally but it was not sufficient to pull him through and the forces of disease quickly undermined his strength and constitution and the end came through the development of specific causes.

Governor Lilley would have been fifty years old had he lived until August 2d. His parents came from Woodstock, this state, but he was born in Oxford, Mass., and as a boy worked on the farm, struggling to get an ordinary education. He entered public life after a long period of driving business life, in which he accumulated considerable means in the wholesale beef trade as the Waterbury partner of the Swift Co., the Chicago packers. He had also gone into real estate, investing heavily in communities which have had large industrial growth since then. As a business man he attacked governmental methods in use in his home state in the late nineties, and in 1900 brought about changes in the giving out of contracts for public work.

Governor Lilley's success in upholding old methods at Waterbury landed him in the lower branch of the general assembly the next year, although he had not been anxious to go. He was elected on the railroad committee, and during the session fought hard for New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in favor of the western Connecticut railroad, which was fighting for its existence. The legislative body became historic for it was one in which great sums of money were spent and in the end Mr. Lilley lost. In the general election a bill was passed to enable Connecticut to take advantage of the census report which entitled her to one additional representative in Congress. Instead of re-electing the old member was to be "at large" at the next election Mr. Lilley was chosen.

He received notice in Congress by an attack upon a bill which was aimed to give a corporation the right to dispose rights for supplying electricity in the Hawaiian Islands. Alone he objected to the committee's report and later the bill was amended. In other sessions he attacked, from a business standpoint, the free distribution of the Southern Pine department, headed by the agricultural department, and the print paper combine. When he became a member of the committee on naval affairs, he criticized the methods employed at navy yards and the locations of many of the yards. Then he attacked the submarine boat contracts. A little more than a year ago Congressmen Lilley brought about an inquiry into the submarine boat situation during which he bore the brunt of a fierce attack. This undermined his health and he came home last May. The committee of inquiry found against him. Mr. Lilley did not return again to Washington. He had desired to be governor of the state and the situation had slipped itself so that his friends had control in the state.

SAM WALTER FOSS CLUB
The Sam Walter Foss Literary club met yesterday afternoon with the secretary, Mrs. W. H. Dodge, at 100 Cornhill street, with Mrs. Dodge and Mrs. Harry F. Cady as hostesses. The president, Mrs. A. P. JAS. W. JANTZEN SUPT. SHERIDAN

Addressed Meeting in High School Hall

The regular educational meeting of the International Steam Engineers was held last night in Engineers' hall, 22 Middle street, about 60 engineers being present. The meeting was addressed by James W. Jantzen, engineer of Engine No. 1 of the local fire department. Mr. Jantzen gave an interesting description of the first steam engine in the country which was used at Cincinnati in 1852. This engine was of a very rude make-up and finally burst and killed its engineer.

Mr. Jantzen then went on to tell of the modern steam fire engines and the different good points of various up-to-date machines were gone into in detail.

JAMES W. JANTZEN

The water in the boiler of the fire steamer as compared to other boilers is very small, averaging from 20 to 30 gallons. He spoke of the grate service in a steamer, and the amount of coal burned per foot grate service, which is greater than in the ordinary boiler.

In speaking of the feed water heater used on the department in Lowell, which, by the way, is its own invention, he proved that they are as practical on a fire steamer as on a motor engine. This heater weighs but 120 pounds.

In discussion of the proposed new law to exempt fire engines from the regular boiler inspection, Mr. Jantzen said that there was no reason that they should be exempt, and thought that a law should be made that all such steamers have feed water heaters. Next Wednesday evening a lecture will be given by Mr. Trotter, of the Lowell Steam Engineering school, who will speak on steam engines.

"By George, I never saw anything like the effects of that new treatment, Protone, for the building up of weight and lost nerve force. It acted more like a miracle than a medicine. I had a well known gentleman yesterday in speaking of the revolution that had taken place in his condition. I began to think that there was nothing on earth that could make me fat. I tried tonics, digestively heavy eating, diets, milk, beer and almost everything else you could think of, but without result."

At a meeting of the board of charities, held at city hall last night (emphasis on city hall), a letter from Inspector Dow of the lands and buildings department, containing the very cheerful news that the price of coffins would be higher, was read.

Mr. Drapau objected to paying any higher price than the present for man's coffins. He suggested that the coffins might be made at the city farm where they can be made to measure and save any unnecessary waste of space.

It was a "grave" question, but Clerk Howe couldn't resist the temptation to spring a little joke, and in his own cute way he said to Mr. Drapau: "Your idea is to let them make their own coffins."

The board voted to discourage the practice of admitting boarders to the almshouse, the relatives of these boarders to pay their way.

Mr. Drapau moved that the letter be placed on file and the secretary reply that the board does not see why there should be any increase in the price of coffins. Voted.

Mr. Hindle, who had been appointed to act with Mrs. Tibbitts as a sub-committee in the matter of looking up boarders with insurance on their lives, as well as paupers reported to have money in the bank, made the following recommendation which was adopted by the board:

"Your committee recommends that hereafter all persons admitted to the almshouse be required to state whether or not they hold any insurance on persons responsible to them, their answers to be recorded on the admittance card."

THE CHARITY BOARD

Addressed Meeting in High School Hall

Bernard Sheridan, superintendent of schools of Lawrence, spoke on the model schools of the country and methods of education in various cities, at the high school last night. There was a good sized attendance of teachers and friends.

The lecture was illustrated with stereopticon views. In opening Mr. Sheridan spoke of Supt. Maxwell of the schools of New York city and to him he paid a tribute, notwithstanding the charge that has been made against him, that he is one of the greatest experimentalists in the country.

Views of some of the New York city schools were shown, one in particular which cost $700,000, exclusive of the land on which it is built. A large school in Hester street, the very heart of New York's Ghetto, was shown. In connection with a description of this school, Mr. Sheridan told of the almost fabulous price paid for land, that a playground might be constructed nearby. And yet, a few years ago, that same land could have been purchased at a relatively low figure. This he considered a great lesson to the cities which now looked upon the playground as unnecessary and an extravagance.

The speaker referred to James Creelman, the famous war correspondent and special writer and said that he had been much prejudiced against the so-called "Fads and Frills" of the educational system. Creelman, he said, after a careful examination into the motives of various methods of training, had written articles giving the highest praise to the schools which had such systems in operation.

Mr. Sheridan said that school systems are not perfect, nor can they ever be, but the advance toward perfection is on. He showed stereopticon views of the athletic games which are held in conjunction with school work, and of various methods employed to insure the development of the physical being of pupils. The largest baseball league in the world is formed by the grammar schools of New York city, there being 106 clubs fighting for the pennant each season. Of recent establishments are the gymnasia for girls, where various athletic movements and dancing are taught. Shower baths of the individual kinds was dilated upon at some length. These are established in the modern schools for boys.

"By George, I never saw anything like the effects of that new treatment, Protone, for the building up of weight and lost nerve force. It acted more like a miracle than a medicine. I had a well known gentleman yesterday in speaking of the revolution that had taken place in his condition. I began to think that there was nothing on earth that could make me fat. I tried tonics, digestively heavy eating, diets, milk, beer and almost everything else you could think of, but without result."

At a meeting of the board of charities, held at city hall last night (emphasis on city hall), a letter from Inspector Dow of the lands and buildings department, containing the very cheerful news that the price of coffins would be higher, was read.

Mr. Drapau objected to paying any higher price than the present for man's coffins. He suggested that the coffins might be made at the city farm where they can be made to measure and save any unnecessary waste of space.

It was a "grave" question, but Clerk Howe couldn't resist the temptation to spring a little joke, and in his own cute way he said to Mr. Drapau: "Your idea is to let them make their own coffins."

The board voted to discourage the practice of admitting boarders to the almshouse, the relatives of these boarders to pay their way.

Mr. Drapau moved that the letter be placed on file and the secretary reply that the board does not see why there should be any increase in the price of coffins. Voted.

Mr. Hindle, who had been appointed to act with Mrs. Tibbitts as a sub-committee in the matter of looking up boarders with insurance on their lives, as well as paupers reported to have money in the bank, made the following recommendation which was adopted by the board:

"Your committee recommends that hereafter all persons admitted to the almshouse be required to state whether or not they hold any insurance on persons responsible to them, their answers to be recorded on the admittance card."

THE ALLEN WILL
Was Allowed by Judge McIntire

BOSTON, April 22.—Judge Charles J. McIntire, in the Middlesex probate court at East Cambridge, yesterday afternoon allowed the will of Mrs. Fannie E. Allen of Malden, upon the evidence offered by the proponents, the contestants pressing no testimony. They have 30 days in which to appeal to the supreme court, where a jury trial will be accorded or refused, at the discretion of the presiding judge.

Mrs. Allen died, leaving $100,000, which had come to her upon the death of her husband. Her will disposed of the estate as follows: One-third to Alice C. Lathrop, who is a half sister; one-third to Anna M. Hernandez and one-sixth each to Alexander B. Lathrop and John A. Lathrop. These four are relatives.

The will provided that the legatees should take oath before a justice of the peace that they would not give, on account of their religious or religious or charitable institution. Mrs. Allen claimed, in putting that provisional clause in the will, that it was her husband's wish, expressed just before his death.

The will is being contested by Mrs. Lillian Nordica, her sister, Mrs. Anna M. Baldwin of Boston, Benjamin F. Foster of Malden, who is a half brother of the testatrix; Iona A. Walker of New York, and Imogene A. Costello of Los Angeles, Calif. The four women contestants are nieces of Mrs. Allen's husband.

Lawyers Elder, Richardson, Libby and Luce appeared for the will, and Lawyers Light, Montague and Keyes in opposition.

The first witness called at the morning session was George H. Fall of Malden, who drew up the will for Mrs. Allen. He testified that Alice C. Lathrop made an appointment for him to call upon Mrs. Allen on Dec. 19, 1908. He went and found Mrs. Allen lying on a couch in her room. She was very ill, but mentally she was competent. They talked on several articles of the will, and Mrs. Allen said that she wanted to leave out her husband's nieces because they "were well fixed and didn't need any money."

They also talked about the oath which the legatees would be obliged to take regarding the restrictions from giving any of their legacies to religious and charitable institutions. Mrs. Allen told the lawyer that that was her husband's wish.

Mrs. Anna C. Fall, also a lawyer, and wife of the preceding witness, was called to the witness stand at the afternoon session. She testified to a visit paid to Mrs. Allen at her home in Malden. Mrs. Allen told her she wished to consult her in relation to some minor changes in her will, specifically in relation to a gift to Mr. McGregor, so that he might have an option in regard to paintings or portraits. Something also was said about a desk and a library table.

At the close of Mrs. Fall's testimony Judge McIntire allowed the will, the understanding being that the contestants will carry the case to the supreme court.

BRILLIANT EVENT

Beautiful Decorations and Exquisite Gowns Made Striking Scene at Associate Hall Last Evening

The inclement weather failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the members of Lowell Council, Knights of Columbus, and their friends, and the annual ball of the council held in Associate hall was one of the brilliant social affairs of the season and was attended by a large and merry gathering.

The interior of Associate hall never looked more inviting, for the decorations were elaborate and most artistic. The prevailing colors were white and gold. The back wall of the stage was hidden behind a wall of bunting relieved by graceful clusters of greenery. The front was bedecked with tropical plants in pleasing variety, while overhead was suspended an illuminated emblem of the order bordered with greenery. Streamers of the prevailing colors extended from the chandelier in the center to all corners of the hall, while for the center piece was a large floral bell. The gallery front was decorated with white bunting and greenery while the windows were hung with beautiful draperies.

The floral decorations were done by Collins, the Gorham street florist, and were very artistically arranged. The Knights of Columbus orchestra of 15 pieces, composed of members of the council under the leadership of

WHAT IS HEM-ROID?

A TABLET, TAKEN INTERNALLY, THAT CURES PILES.

Piles (hemorrhoids) are getting more common every day, because we live unnaturally, overeating, overworking, taking little exercise, gradually causing a deadening of veins and tissues in the lower bowel. Blood stagnation is the cause of piles, and a condition that can't be permanently cured with ointments.

Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid is the only internal tablet remedy that cures piles by freeing the circulation. Sold under guarantee at Carter & Shoenberger, Price $1.00. Dr. Leonard Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y.

Kaysers—the Gloves You Want

All women want the Kayser silk gloves—the standard for 25 years.

Without the Kayser patent tip—the Kayser fit and finish—what would a silk glove be?

None knowingly take anything else. But some women get inferior gloves, in the belief they are Kaysers, because they don't look in the hem.

"The Kayser" Patent Finger-Tipped Silk Gloves

The poorest silk gloves on the market cost just as much as the Kayser. That is the pity of it.

Gloves that don't fit and don't wear—that lack our finish and fabric—cost the Kayser price.

Get the gloves you have always worn—the gloves that we make from the raw silk up—the gloves that go through fifty operations.

OUT ON STRIKE A BIG WASHOUT

Shoemakers Quit at Spaulding's Shop On Rutland, Vt., Railroad Today

Some 15 employees of the making room of the Spaulding shoe factory, at the corner of Rock and Willie streets, are on strike over a disagreement relative to changing the operatives for damaged goods. According to the strikers, the idea of changing the help for shoes that are damaged in manufacturing is new and they claim that owing to the nature of the material they are obliged to damage some of the pairs while their pay for making them is about half what they get in other cities. They made a request to the management without success, and hence quit work.

GREAT RECEPTION

Priests Arranging for Welcome to Archbishop O'Connell

Boston, April 22.—Catholic clergy from all parts of the archdiocese held a meeting yesterday in the cathedral and considered plans for a great reception to Archbishop O'Connell when he returns to Boston from his present trip to Europe. This is the 25th anniversary year of the archbishop's ordination.

There will be a great gathering in the cathedral when the archbishop returns, for the first exercises of the reception will be held there. In the evening of the same day a public meeting will be held in the large hall of the cathedral, attended by leading members of the priesthood, as well as by public officials.

It was in answer to a summons by Bishop-elect Anderson that the clergy met yesterday. Over 200 priests, representing practically every parish of the diocese, were present. Mass. A. J. Teeling of Lynn presided. Bishop-elect Anderson opened the meeting, and Mr. Patterson, vicar-general and rector of the cathedral, proposed that the reception take the form of a service in the cathedral in the morning and a public meeting at night in a hall. This plan was adopted. Mr. Dennis O'Connell, rector of St. Francis de Sales church, Roxbury, addressed the priests.

It was decided also, that a committee of 100 priests should be appointed to have charge of the arrangements for the reception. Bishop-elect Anderson will have the appointment of the committee of 100, and the plans will be carried out under his direction.

The archbishop will come back about the end of June. An address of welcome will be delivered during the ceremonies in the cathedral, and the archbishop will reply. A special musical program will be given.

Many thousands are expected to attend the public reception to be given in the evening. A program of speeches and of music will be arranged. The archbishop will speak.

GIRL STABBED
AND BOSTON MAN WAS PLACED UNDER ARREST
BOSTON, April 22.—Lillian Macrae, 22 years old, of 30 Hanson street, South End, was stabbed with a small bladed knife, which the police claim was wielded by Andrew Russell, 22, while the couple were on Commercial street last night.

Patrolman Rattis, who arrested Russell, had to use some diplomacy to keep the young man from injury at the hands of a large throng that was drawn to the scene by the girl's cries.

The young woman was taken to the Belief hospital, where it was found that the blade of the knife had entered her left side, causing a slight wound. Russell refused to give the police his address. He was locked up on the charge of assault and battery.

C. F. KEYES, Auctioneer
Office, Old Boston & Maine Depot. Storehouse and Commission Rooms, Green Street. Tel. 1485.

Saturday, April 24, 1909, at 3 P. M.
SALE OF THE KNOWLES PROPERTY IN TWO SEPARATE PARCELS AT NOS. 41 AND 43 FRANKLIN STREET. A COTTAGE HOUSE, BARN AND ABOUT 5000 SQUARE FEET OF LAND WITH EACH PARCEL.

I have made up my mind to move into the country and for this reason I have instructed the auctioneer to dispose of the above two parcels which I have owned for a number of years, occupying one and renting the other.

Now the FIRST PARCEL, at No. 41 Franklin street, consists of a nice eight-room cottage with bath, pantry, furnace, heat and concrete cellar, has all city conveniences and is in excellent shape inside and out. The barn, which is located in the rear of the lot, has stable room for two horses, with ample room to make it for four, if so desired, and plenty of carriage room. The yard is all concrete, has pear, cherry and plum trees with a large grape vine, and the lot has a frontage of 50 feet on Franklin street and contains about 5000 square feet and is all fenced in.

IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE SALE OF THE ABOVE I shall offer for sale the house numbering 43 Franklin street, which adjoins the first parcel. This house I occupy myself and it contains eight rooms, bath, pantry, with furnace heat and cemented cellar, and is in excellent shape inside and out. The barn is located in the extreme end of the lot, has two single stalls and a box stall with plenty of carriage room and has a concrete driveway. The lot has a frontage of about 50 feet on Franklin street and contains about 5000 square feet, and is all fenced in. There are pear, cherry and plum trees in the yard.

Now, then, the above two parcels, which are located on Franklin street about half way between Fletcher and Willie streets, you might say right in the heart of the city, and any business man who keeps a few horses and would like a nice little home centrally located would do well to examine these places. I have within one month had a chance to lease both places at a month each and to first class parties, but as I have made up my mind to move into the country and much as I regret to dispose of them, I think it the best thing to do. These parcels can be inspected every afternoon from 2 till 4 from now till day of sale.

Terms: $200 to be paid to the auctioneer on each parcel as soon as struck off.

By order of MARTHA M. KNOWLES.

SEVERAL CLASHES

At the Police Board Hearing
This Morning

The police board hearing was resumed at 10:25.

Counsel for complainant read a protest from James McLaughlin to Judge Hadley against the common victualer's license granted Edward F. Shea in East Merrimack street last year.

It was shown by the records that the license was granted April 28, and was surrendered May 2. The records also showed that another license was granted Edward F. Shea May 15, 1908. The new license showed a change in numbers.

Mr. E. D. Shattuck was sworn to tell of the petition circulated in Middlesex street for a reduction in the number of licenses there.

Counsel for prosecution said he would show that the petition was gotten up by suggestion of Commissioner Hanson. That, however, was not mentioned in the charges or specifications and Mr. Bent objected to it being admitted. The evidence was admitted and counsel for prosecution proceeded to examine Mr. Shattuck.

He said that in March, 1908, he had a conversation with Commissioner Hanson relative to liquor saloons in Middlesex street.

"I went to see Mr. Hanson," he said, "to ask him to relieve us of so many saloons in Middlesex street."

"Mr. Hanson, upon seeing me, said: 'You know what you're coming for.'"

"I said: 'What do you want me to do?'"

"He said: 'That is just what we want to do.'"

"He told me to get up a good strong petition. I told him there were persons in Middlesex street who would not sign the petition."

"He said: 'I would speak to some of the other business men on the street and hear what they would say about getting up a petition.'"

"I talked with him again over the telephone. I told him we had decided to get up a petition as he suggested and he said: 'All right.'"

Mr. Shattuck then told of those who assisted in getting up the petition. The names of the signers of this petition have already been published.

Witness said he spoke to the other commissioners relative to the petition. "You know what you're coming for," he said, "before I saw Mr. Hanson."

"What did he say?"

"To the best of my knowledge he said he thought a petition ought to be gotten up."

"What did Mr. Stearns say?"

"He told me to come before the board."

Cross-examined by Mr. Burke, counsel for Mr. Hanson, Mr. Shattuck reiterated the statement to the effect that Mr. Hanson suggested the petition.

"In some form of words he suggested to you that the proper form would be for you to present a petition to the board," said Mr. Burke.

"Yes," replied witness.

"Did you know before the hearing that the hearing was to be given?"

"Yes sir."

"Were you at the hearing?"

"I was."

"How many persons were there who were interested in the petition?"

"I couldn't say."

Witness was given petition to refer to his memory on names and numbered five or six. He said he could not remember the names of others.

He said he didn't know how many business people there were in Middlesex street named in the petition.

"Did you object to any particular saloon in Middlesex street?" asked Mr. Johnson.

"No," replied witness.

"You heard the request made at the hearing to indicate what saloon was objectionable?"

"I did not."

"Have you sufficient memory about your interview with Mr. Boulger to give us his exact words or the substance of any particular statement he made to you?"

"Nothing more than I have testified to."

"Do you understand my question?"

"I think I do."

"Then answer it. I am not asking for anything extra."

Mr. Johnson again asked for exact words or substance of any particular statement.

"I can't answer any better than I have," said Mr. Shattuck.

Mr. Bent then took Mr. Shattuck in hand.

"Does your petition ask for any hearing?" said Mr. Bent.

"No, sir," replied witness.

"When you drew this, you didn't intend to have any hearing before the board?"

"A hearing was not thought of at that time."

"How long after the petition was made were you notified of a hearing?"

"A week or ten days."

"The board voluntarily offered you a hearing?"

"Yes."

"Then the board gave you more than you asked?"

"No, sir."

"All you did was to make a protest— you didn't ask for a hearing?"

"No."

"But you got a hearing?"

"Yes."

"Isn't that more than you asked for?"

"Yes."

"How many saloons were there that would be covered by the petition?"

"Witness had to stop to count. He counted eight."

"Are you accustomed to visit places where liquor is sold?"

"What do you mean by accustomed?"

"Don't you know what accustomed means?"

"No, sir."

"How often do you visit places where liquor is sold?"

"Perhaps four or five times a month."

"Asked if he had visited hotels on Sundays, witness said he did for the purpose of looking at samples.

"What kind of samples?" asked Mr. Bent.

"Samples of goods."

"Did you ever sample the Sunday sandwich?"

"This question was too much for the gallery and there was an uproar."

"Why did you draw the line on the Richardson house in your petition?" asked Mr. Bent.

"No particular reason," said witness.

Witness enumerated the saloons that have been added in Middlesex street since he has been in business there. He said that four had been added.

"What do you mean in this petition when you say the saloons have injured the value of property in Middlesex street?"

"We think if there weren't so many saloons there would be more business."

In reply to question by Mayor Brown, witness said the petition was gotten up on account of what Mr. Hanson said:

Asked as to conditions in Middlesex street, witness said he thought conditions had improved there within the last few months.

Asked by counsel for prosecution if he was familiar with conditions between Tower's corner and Thorndike street, witness said he was.

"It is known as the bowery of Lowell, is it not?" asked counsel for prosecution.

"It is."

Mr. Burke questioned witness more fully as to the character of the street. Witness said the liquor business was the largest line of business.

Witness had counted eight saloons in what he termed the "bowery district," but he reduced that number by one.

Mr. Burke asked witness what saloons he would cut out in Middlesex street and where he would send them. The question was objected to. At 11:55 a recess of five minutes was declared.

The hearing was resumed at 12:15 and counsel for prosecution announced that the distance included in the petition had been agreed upon as being 277 feet.

Supt. William E. Moriarty was called by counsel for prosecution who asked the superintendent to read from "The Sun of Jan. 2. This was taken up under charge number 37. He said number 37 was not a charge but a conclusion."

Counsel for prosecution delayed reading of the article in question and said he would lay the foundation to it. He purposed to show the condition of the department before the respondents went into office; that the department was in excellent condition. This was strenuously objected to by Mr. Johnson and Mr. Bent. The mayor wanted to allow his counsel to proceed. He said it was the only opportunity he had to learn as to the condition of the department.

"This is not a hearing for you to be informed as to the condition of the department," said Mr. Johnson. "It's a hearing on serious charges, charges of malfeasance, incapacity and neglect of duty, and no counsel has any right to introduce or attempt to introduce evidence that is not pertinent. Sitting here as counsel for one of these three gentlemen, I object and protest against evidence for the purpose of a broad investigation. We will meet any pertinent evidence, and to allow the evidence that counsel for the prosecution has offered would be utterly wrong, unfair and unjust."

Mr. Burke's protest was as vigorous as was that of Mr. Johnson. He protested, he said, with all power of voice and sentiment and called it a star chamber session.

Counsel for prosecution was told to proceed and exceptions were saved.

Supt. Moriarty read from his annual report of 1907 and from the report of the board for 1908.

He was then given to read the newspaper article in question. He did not read aloud. Counsel for prosecution then announced that he would read the article aloud.

"I guess you won't," said Mr. Johnson, jumping to his feet, "not unless your Honor rules more arbitrarily than you have even thus far in the hearing."

Mr. Johnson said that the idea of introducing a newspaper article in evidence against respondents in such a case as this was absurd and unheard of in the annals of such hearings.

Mr. Bent and Mr. Burke, too, objected, and Mr. Bent argued very vigorously as against the way that counsel for prosecution was proceeding in the matter. Mr. Bent, after having presented some new phase of the question, asked for a ruling.

Non adjournment was made at 1 o'clock, and the mayor said he would give his ruling when the hearing resumed at 2:15.

Afternoon Session

When the hearing was resumed at 2:20 o'clock the mayor ruled in favor of Mr. Bent's objection.

In reply to question by counsel for prosecution, Mr. Moriarty said that discipline in the department had improved since 1907.

"Whether or not you said, sometime

BILL KILLED

REP. JOHN P. MEEHAN

SEN. JOSEPH H. HIBBARD

REP. MARTIN H. CONLEY

Meehan-Conley Police Board
Bill Defeated by Hibbard

In the senate today on motion of Senator Joseph Hibbard of this city the Meehan-Conley bill so-called, providing for a separate police and license board, was referred to the next general court.

This action practically kills the bill and is said to have been prearranged with the understanding that the board of trade charter bill will go through the senate.

about Jan. 2, 1909, that the discipline of the department was not good and had been a great deal better," asked counsel for prosecution.

Mr. Moriarty allowed that he had said something to that effect.

"What is the condition of the department at present time?" asked counsel for prosecution.

"Fair," replied witness.

"Have you thought this matter over during recess?"

"No."

"Whether or not you would say that your remarks were not taken down by the official stenographer when you made them to the board?"

"I could not say."

To prove this it was decided to send for Miss Ober, the official stenographer, or of the police department. The remarks or address in question were supposed to have been made by Supt. Moriarty to superior officers sometime in January, 1909.

"Whether or not Mr. Superintendent you have visited the premises of C. H. Joyce & Co., within the last month?" asked the counsel for prosecution.

"I have not," was the reply.

Another recess was taken and when the hearing resumed Miss Ober was called. She had with her the stenographic report of the address made to the superior officers by Supt. Moriarty, the address in question.

Mr. Johnson objected to her reading the report, but the mayor did not sustain his objection. Exceptions saved by Mr. Johnson.

Miss Ober read her stenographic notes. The address was one intended to improve the work and discipline of the department. It went to show that the superintendent was trying to raise the efficiency of the department.

When Miss Ober had finished, Clerk Flaherty of the police board was called.

He was asked if there was anything on the records of the police board discrediting the remarks of Mr. Moriarty.

Counsel for respondents objected to the question. His Honor admitted it, but after further conference it was withdrawn.

Clerk Flaherty was then asked relative to the number of druggists' licenses granted May 1, 1908. He said there were 18.

He was asked to turn to records of meeting of board Oct. 12, 1908, and read what had been said about those licenses.

In consequence of a vote of 3 that meeting now licenses were exchanged for old ones. There was no record of any re-advertisement. The old licenses were recalled because the board wanted to make additions to them.

To eliminate extended controversy as to the difference between the old and new licenses, Mr. Johnson suggested that copies of both be put in as exhibits.

There was an error in the old license, the same license that had been in use for years. The error was discovered by Commissioner Boulger, but had existed during the administration of previous boards.

Clerk Flaherty was asked when a common victualer's license, and set and fourth class licenses were granted Daniel J. Keefe and William C. Keefe.

The common victualer's license was granted April 15. They were all granted on that date.

Gen. Woodbury was recalled. He gave as the position that of clerk and keeper for Shurtz's store.

Asked if he had served as keeper at Keefe's place in January of the present year, he said he had.

He was there 21 days with the doors locked. He said he was visited by officers and board of police during his stay there. No business was done on the premises while he was there.

because he was a warrior but in honor of the Gen. Banks started off in Dracut, making war on a barbed wire fence, as a result of which he lost one of his spurs and henceforth was considered harmless.

This morning, however, Mr. Westcott was awakened by a strange sound in his hen coops and going out found Gen. Banks in the act of putting the finishing touches on his favorite bird "Krugger."

Mr. Westcott went to the assistance of "Krugger" but was too late and was as dead as the proverbial door nail while the general strutted around as proud as a peacock over his accomplishment. In less than a minute the purplish general was made the hero of a lynching bee and died an ignominious death, by the neck. The funeral took place this noon and both birds were laid side by side in the same grave.

MATRIMONIAL

William O'Brien of Cambridge and Winifred M. Gilligan, a popular young resident of this city, were united in marriage yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the Immaculate Conception church. Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., performed the ceremony. The bride looked charming in an empire gown of embroidered silk and carried bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Gilligan, of Cambridge, who wore a blue princess trimmed with white lace. She carried a bunch of white lilies. Mr. John O'Brien, brother of the bride, was best man. After the marriage they tendered a reception to their relatives and friends at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. George Keefe, 140 Stockpole street, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. The happy couple departed in an automobile for an extended wedding tour and on their return will reside at 217 Columbia street, Cambridge, Mass. They were the recipients of many beautiful and useful presents.

A SETTLEMENT

OF THE MINERS' TROUBLES IS EXPECTED

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The conference between National President Lewis and the three district presidents and the coal operators which began yesterday ended at noon today with a better feeling all round. The prospects for an early settlement of the labor troubles are brighter and it is expected that next week will see the end of the controversy.

She Was Robbed of a Handbag
Containing Sum of $7

A woman residing in Paige street, whose name is withheld by the police, was robbed of a bag containing $7 in money in Kirk street, near the corner of French street, last night by three boys.

The woman was holding an umbrella and had the bag under her arm and upon reaching a dark spot in the street was robbed by the boys, one of the youngsters snatching the bag after which all three ran through Lee street and into an alleyway leading from that street.

The woman immediately reported the matter at the police station, stating that the boys were between the ages of 14 and 18 years.

YOUNG ROBBERS ESCAPED

Sunday night while a young woman was passing through South Wimpole street a couple of boys snatched a valuable chatelaine bag, which she was carrying. The young woman gave chase but the youngsters made good their escape by slipping into an alleyway.

MELVIN MASTER BREAK IN PRICES

Car Conductor for Inspector of Milk

Wheat Took a Tumble Today

Mayor Brown has announced that he will appoint Melvin Master, the well-known street car conductor and former High school athlete, to be inspector of milk and vinegar, to succeed Leroy Turner, who has resigned.

His Honor, it is claimed, promised the position to Mr. Master early in the year and then appointed Mr. Turner.

Mr. Master, his friends claim, after leaving High school went to the University of Vermont where he made a study of chemistry. During his terms at the University he worked on the street cars during the vacation periods. He has not had any practical experience as a chemist.

There were many candidates for the position, including several practical chemists and registered pharmacists. The appointment must be confirmed by the board of aldermen in order to hold.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Just a week ago May wheat here sold at 1.29 1/2 and July at 1.18 1/2. Mr. Patten then denied that he had a corner in the two deliveries but today the market was extremely weak. May sold at 1.21 1/2, 3 1/2 cents under yesterday's close and 3 1/2 cents below the high price of last week. July declined to 1.10 1/2, 3 1/2 cents below yesterday's close and 3 1/2 cents under the record price of last Friday.

At these prices the market steadied but showed no evidence of recuperative power. Bears jubilantly pressed their advantage. Stop loss sales were numerous.

Armour, who in a recent interview upheld Mr. Patten's bullish survey of conditions and whose house was credited to be selling on the Liverpool market. The break in prices was characteristic as a hurry. The eight cent decline has made a big hole in paper profits although to what extent no one can say as no one knows the extent of the long lines held or at what price purchased. Also there have been heavy actual losses among traders whose resources have given out and these trades closed.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—A further consideration of the amendment under which the senate is considering the tariff bill, today resulted in an agreement by Mr. Aldrich that at any time while the measure is being converted to and be subject to amendment in the bill under consideration may be referred to and be subject to amendment without the necessity of resorting to any formal parliamentary procedure.

The bill was again taken up soon after the senate convened and the reading of the measure by paragraph was continued.

FUNERALS

McGLONE—The funeral of the late Mary McGlone took place this morning from her brother's home, 123 East Merrimack street and was largely attended. The remains were taken to the Immaculate Conception church where Father McGlone officiated. The service was held at 10 o'clock. The choir sang "The Mass." The casket was borne by Messrs. Martin Conway, Martha H. Reidy, Thomas F. Reidy, of Somerville and John F. Donnelly. Among the many floral tributes were the following: Willow inscribed "Mary" from Michael McGlone, wreath of roses, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Walker, wreath of ivy and palms, Charles P. Smith and sisters, standing cross, Mr. and Mrs. J. Reidy. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery, Rev. Fr. Foley officiating at the grave. Interment was in charge of Undertaker T. J. McDermott.

6 O'CLOCK CHARGE IS CHANGED

Clinton Man Now Accused of Murdering His Wife

CLINTON, April 22.—The charge of manslaughter brought against Patrick Gannon of this town as a result of the killing of his wife, Mary, on April 14, was today changed to murder by Judge Jonathan Smith in the district court. It is understood that the charge was changed because of the findings of the jury at an inquest yesterday into the woman's death. Gannon will be brought in from the Fitchburg jail, where he was committed in default of $5000 had on Saturday to place to the new charge. It is alleged that Gannon killed his wife with a baseball bat following a quarrel in which he found fault with her for her drinking habits. According to the medical examiner, the woman's body was a mass of bruises, her nose and eight ribs were broken and fragments of the broken ribs pierced the woman's lungs causing internal hemorrhages.

AUTO OPERATOR

May be Charged With Murder in First Degree

NEW YORK, April 22.—A jury in the case of George F. Shady's court yesterday returned the verdict that Ingvald Trimble, the thirteen-year-old son of Robert J. Trimble, a lawyer of Covington, Ky., met his death through the criminal carelessness of William Darrah in the operation of an automobile at 115th street and Morningside avenue on March 27. Assistant District Attorney Nott said he would take up the case with the grand jury at once and ask for Darrah's indictment under section 1044, article 91, of the penal law, in which murder in the first degree is defined as follows:

"The killing of a human being unless excusable or justifiable is murder in the first degree when committed by an act immediately dangerous to others and evincing a depraved mind, regardless of human life, although without a premeditated design to effect the death of any individual, or without design to effect death by a person engaged in the commission of or in an attempt to commit a felony either upon or affecting the person killed or otherwise."

Assistant District Attorney Dana also attended the inquest. Darrah's lawyer was Edward F. Flannery. The family of the boy was represented by Shaw & Meyers. Mr. and Mrs. Trimble heard much of the testimony. The mother sat in the rear of the court room crying as the witnesses told of the killing.

D. C. McClain, a teacher in the public schools, said he saw the accident. He could not qualify as a speed expert, but said he never before had seen an automobile going as fast as Darrah's car when it struck the boy. He heard no horn sounded. William R. Downing, a student of the college of the city of New York, testified that the automobile was going very fast and that he heard no horn.

JAIL WATCHED

AN ATTEMPT TO LIBERATE JAMES H. BOYLE

MERCER, Pa., April 22.—An attempt to liberate James H. Boyle, charged with the White kidnapping from the Mercer county jail was made last night, according to officials of the jail. Night Watchman Fruit discovered a ladder resting against the jail wall directly under the window of Boyle's cell. It was apparently the intention to saw the bars from the outside and release the prisoner. Fruit called the guards and the jail was watched closely the rest of the night.

It is expected that the attorney general will make a public statement today as to the matters under discussion.

NEW YORK WHEAT MARKET.
NEW YORK, April 22.—The New York wheat market dropped rapidly today, prices at noon being 1 to 1 1/2 cents lower than yesterday's close. The decline came on heavy selling, some of it attributed to Chicago shorts. A number of short sales orders were uncovered at the lower quotations.

Fearful Slaughter in Armenia by the Turks

American Women in Danger at Beirut — 5000 Left Homeless by Open Rapine — Atrocities of the Worst Kind Perpetrated by the Fanatical Moslems — Constitutionalists Invested by the Constitutionalists

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22. According to advices received here today from Asiatic Turkey, ten thousand Armenians have been massacred at Adana and in the vicinity of that city.

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE IN DANGER

BEIRUT, April 22.—Five American women missionaries are in danger at Hadjin in the vilayet of Adana, Asiatic Turkey. One of them, Miss Lambert, has sent a message down to the coast asking for immediate help. The women are entirely alone and defenseless. The villages surrounding Hadjin are in flames and Hadjin itself is infested by nomad tribesmen. Messages from the interior are being suppressed by the authorities.

Hadjin is in the northern part of the vilayet of Adana. The records of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions show that Miss Virginia Billings, Miss Olive M. Vaughan, Miss Emily Richter and Mrs. Mary Rogers, wife of the Rev. D. M. Rogers, who lost his life at Adana, are stationed at Hadjin.

5000 Are Homeless

The situation in the country north and west of Alexandria is very serious. There has been massacre and pillage at Antioch and Hama, at Hama Aleppo is in a state of panic. Only 100 Turkish soldiers are in the city. Business is at a standstill and there is every reason to fear a serious outbreak. The city is full of Bedouin Arabs, Kurds and Circassians. The Armenians, a short distance east of Beirut and southeast of Aleppo, are being killed and driven from their homes. At Tarsus 100 persons have been killed, 800 houses have been burned and there are today 5000 persons without homes.

THE SITUATION IS IMPROVING

BOSTON, April 22.—Up to 10,000 men today the American board of commissioners for foreign missions had received no notices concerning the situation at Hadjin and other points in Asiatic Turkey. Later today the board received a notice from the American board at Constantinople, which arrived last night, that the situation at Hadjin was improving and that the missionaries at Hadjin and at other points in the vilayet of Adana were safe. It was stated at the headquarters of the American board today that the board is in communication with the board at Constantinople, which is in communication with the board at Hadjin. The only American board member, definitely known to be at Hadjin at present are Miss Virginia Billings and Miss Emily Richter. Mrs. Mary Rogers, wife of the Rev. D. M. Rogers who was killed at Adana, is now at Tarsus. Miss Olive M. Vaughan, who has been stationed at Hadjin at Clinton Springs, New York, after reading the Associated Press dispatch from Beirut to the effect that five American women missionaries are in danger at Hadjin and that support-

PROPERTY LOSS Caused by Storm Will Exceed $1,000,000

CLEVELAND, April 22.—A careful survey today of the result of Wednesday's thunderstorm shows that the early reports under-estimate the extent of the damage wrought. The revised list of dead places the number of fatalities at seven, of which five were in Cleveland and one at Ashtabula. In addition scores of persons were injured, several of whom doubtless will die. The property damage will aggregate over $1,000,000.

The storm which started early Wednesday morning southwest of Cleveland gained in force until this city was struck and here the greatest damage was done. After leaving Cleveland the force of the wind spun itself and passed over the city. The damage at Ashtabula. While the weather bureau recorded the velocity of 60 miles an hour for the wind the instruments were not in the path of the worst of the storm. It is estimated that the wind blew at the rate of at least 75 miles an hour and in the path of the storm.

FUNERALS

PAYTON.—The funeral of John J. Payton, a well known and highly respected member of St. Peter's parish, took place this morning at 8:30 o'clock from his late home, 116 College street, and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where at 9 o'clock a funeral high mass was sung. The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Fr. Burns. The choir, under the direction of Prof. P. E. Haggerty, sang the Gregorian mass. At the offertory Prof. Haggerty sang "Domine Jesu Christe" and after the elevation "Pie Jesu" was rendered by Mrs. James E. Donnelly. As the remains were being borne from the church, Mr. James E. Donnelly sang "De Profundis" assisted by the choir. Mrs. J. W. McKennedy presided at the organ.

The bearers were Mr. Michael O'Connor, Patrick Galvin, John Gertling and James Duggan. After leaving the church the funeral cortege proceeded to the Catholic cemetery where the remains were committed to their final resting place in the family lot. The funeral prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Burns.

The casket at the home was draped with the American flag as a mark of esteem to the departed veteran of the Civil War. The floral offerings were as follows:

Large wreath with purple ribbon inscribed "Good-Bye, Father" from the family of deceased; large spray inscribed "Grandpa" Miss Mary McKenna; spray inscribed "Grandpa" the Misses Anna, Margaret and Mary Payton; sprays, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Galvin; Mr. Thomas Kilgus and family; Miss O'Connor and sisters; and a large spray inscribed "Memories" from the Daughters of Veterans, Post 1923.

The funeral arrangements and burial were in charge of Undertaker John A. Flanagan.

TWO VICTIMS OF FIRE STARTED FROM USE OF KEROSENE

RITLAND, N. H., April 22.—The bodies of a woman and her child lying on the kitchen floor and a kerosene can near the stove in the home of Arthur Hawley, a Rutland milk peddler, today revealed to the neighbors another tragedy resulting in the use of oil in killing a fire. The victims were Mrs. Hawley, who was 24 years of age, and her one-year-old baby, Roy, five. The husband was on his wife's side. The woman evidently poured kerosene into the kitchen stove and before she could arrive she and the baby had been burned to death. Neighbors saw smoke coming from the house and rushed to the scene. They saw the building on fire and tried to save the lives of the woman and child.

MR. ROOSEVELT

Starts for Sir Alfred Pease's Ranch

MONROVIA, British East Africa, April 22.—Theodore Roosevelt and the members of his party are to leave Monrovia at 2:30 p. m. today on a special train for Kapiti Plains station where they will be conveyed to the ranch of Sir Alfred Pease on the Athi river. Sir Alfred is there awaiting the coming of his guests. The party probably will remain at the ranch for one week, using it as a base for shooting expeditions and then move on to Nairobi.

Mr. Roosevelt, his son Kermit, Edmund Heller, F. C. Selous, the English author and hunter who has joined the party and R. E. Cunningham the general manager of the expedition were entertained at dinner last night by the members of the Monrovia club. The acting governor of the protectorate, E. J. Jackson in passing the health of the former president to the United States read the following telegram from King Edward.

"I bid you a hearty welcome to British East Africa and I trust that you will have a pleasant time and meet with every success."

Continuing, Mr. Jackson said Mr. Roosevelt has left the big stick at home and after seven strenuous years as president of the United States had come to Africa to make use of the rifle. In conclusion he promised the distinguished visitor an immense variety of game and good sport.

When Mr. Roosevelt arose to reply to these words of welcome he was enthusiastically received with a full Highland musical honors. He began by paying a tribute to the British people, praising their energy and genius in civilizing the uncivilized places of the earth. He said he was surprised at what he had heard of the progress of British East Africa, but he warned his hosts that they could not expect to achieve in this land what it had taken America twenty generations to accomplish. He then emphasized the necessity of leaving local questions to be solved by the authorities on the spot and commenced upon the fact that the people at home knew little of Africa. In this connection he instilled the United States and the Philippine Islands.

Continuing, Mr. Roosevelt expressed his great pleasure at the welcome given him yesterday by the British rulers, or Pandora whose rails and masts were manned by cheering sailors when the Admiral came into the harbor. He said that although he believed in peace and he hoped that all the nations would provide themselves with this means to the end.

In conclusion, Mr. Roosevelt referred briefly to his future plans and gave some of his first impressions of the country.

Mr. Roosevelt was followed by Mr. Selous who expressed the hope that Mr. Roosevelt would in the future use the power of his position to bring about an entente between Great Britain and Germany.

Mr. Aiden Loring and Major Mearns did not come ashore from the Admiral yesterday because of the heavy rains. They disembarked when the morning came. Before leaving, Mr. Roosevelt telegraphed to King Edward, thanking him for the message read by Mr. Jackson at the dinner given to Mr. Roosevelt by the Monrovia club last night.

A guard of honor, composed from the ranks of the British army, was at the railway station when Mr. Roosevelt party arrived and was inspected by Mr. Roosevelt. A number of officials and civilians also were present and the station building was decorated with flags. Mr. Roosevelt spent the morning at the Government house, where he was the guest of last night, Mr. Jackson, Kermit Roosevelt, Mr. Aiden Loring, Edmund Heller and Major Mearns spent their time up to the leaving the train sight-seeing. From Monrovia Mr. Roosevelt despatched a cablegram to the Emperor of Germany, saying:

"I desire to express my desire of my treatment on board the German steamer, Admiral under Captain Mearns and my admiration of the abundance, energy and growth of the mercantile and cultural interests of Germany in East Africa."

A SETTLEMENT

Of Miners and Operators Troubles Expected

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The unexpected conference here yesterday between the officers of the miners' union and representatives of the operators leads to the belief that a settlement of the differences between the miners and their employers may be close at hand. A significant move was made last night when the officials of the three anthracite districts issued a call for another convention at Scranton next Tuesday, the same day the general committee of the operators meets in New York.

National President Lewis of the Miners' union with District Presidents Ryscey, Waters and Pease again met the representatives of the operators today at the Reading terminal and continued the conference began yesterday. Those who appeared for the operators were members of the operators' policy committee. Mr. Lewis said today that the chief object of the present meeting was to fix some plan for the holding of another conference and he hoped to arrange matters today.

BIG ESTATE
WAS PUT UP AS BAIL FOR CHAUF
FEUR

NEW YORK, April 22.—William F. Vanderbilt, Jr., gave his $100,000, once known as Deep Duff, at a Grand National horse race, his chauffeur, John S. Richardson, who was arrested for exceeding the speed limit while on his way through Flushing yesterday, driving a 30 horse-power automobile.

Mr. Vanderbilt was the only other occupant of the machine as Elicy, Policeman, Huey McAvoy held up the count on Broadway and took the crowd to the Flushing police court. He had returned from Europe but a short time ago and was on his way to Manhattan on business when his machine fell into the hands of Policeman McAvoy. He was in a hurry to come home to his family and a compromise was dispensed with the charged, waiving examination and being held $100 bonds. When the bail bond was made out Mr. Vanderbilt offered his country estate as security.

"Is it worth $100?" inquired Clerk McAvoy.

Were Handed Back to the State Today

POSTON, April 22.—The shreds of two old battleflags which were carried by the soldiers of the tenth regiment of Massachusetts into the seven bloody battles in the Civil war were today hauled back to the state and took their places in that distinguished company of colors which makes Memorial hall at the state house one of the most inspiring places in Massachusetts.

For forty years the two flags, a national one and state, have rested in the public library at Northampton, the place which institution they represented by Col. Parsons at a parade of the regiment in that city in 1868. The regiment was one of the first to take the field and the flags carried during the first years of the war were returned at the time of the great reception of the colors at the state house in the fall of 1865.

Subsequently the regiment again went to the front with new colors and it was these flags which Col. Parsons retained and gave to the library of his native town. The flags were brought down to the state house today by the old color bearers of the regiment and handed to Gov. Draper with brief ceremonies in which it was stated that they were in the battles of Rappahannock, Bull Run, Wilderness, Spottsylvania, Cold Harbor, North Anna and Petersburg. The flags were placed beside the other colors of the regiment in one of the niches in Memorial hall.

Were Handed Back to Girl Made Attempt to — the State Today End Her Life —

NEW YORK, April 22.—Bertha Katrice Hubbard, of Bridgeport, Conn., tried to kill herself by cutting her throat and wrists on a New Haven train early last evening. When the train pulled into the Grand Central station, Conductor J. J. O'Donnell found her ludding in a corner of one of the day coaches. On the floor was a small penknife, which she had used in her attempt to end her life.

The girl was weak and helpless from loss of blood, but still conscious. A policeman sent a hurry call for an ambulance. Dr. Power, of Flower hospital, responded and hurried the young woman to that institution.

There it was found necessary to take out her stitches in each of the cuts in her wrists and seven stitches in the throat. The keen blade of the penknife had gone dangerously near the jugular vein, but she will recover.

A note found on the floor beside the girl read as follows:

April 21.—I am going to take my own life. Mother has done this. Sister has burned all my clothes; kept nothing. Please do not take me to No. 30 Congress street when I am dead. Let people talk when I am dead."

There were errors in the spelling of the note, and it was badly written on small pieces of paper. On the other

Were Handed Back to the State Today Girl Made Attempt to End Her Life Were Sealed by Black Hand Gang

NEW YORK, April 22.—After identifying the picture of Leonardo Bartoloni in the rogues' gallery as one of a lot of Black Handers to whom he paid $100 six months ago for the return of his kidnapped boy, Salvatore Randazzo, his father, when called upon yesterday to identify the Italian who had been caught after a half year hunt, became suddenly numb.

The moment the old man was brought into the same room with Bartoloni, the prisoner gave him a mysterious sign. The father's face blanched. "I do not know him," he repeated with uttering words.

Leonardo Bartoloni was later arraigned before the Criminal police court before Magistrate Cornelli. He was discharged for lack of sufficient evidence. Lieut. Glick, of the Italian detective bureau, claims that Bartoloni has been arrested several times in connection with kidnappings, bomb throwings and attempted murders.

The Randazzo family, living on the east side of Livingston street, was notified last night of the arrest of the boy. When the father returned from the police headquarters, where he had refused to identify Bartoloni, he was in a state of collapse.

For the past week the father has guarded little Salvatore, his six-year-old son, to and from public school No. 10, on Chrystie street, for fear he would again be kidnapped, and the neighbors have been constantly on the lookout for him, demanding him to be kept shut in.

Two Assault Cases Were Disposed of Today

Liquor Forfeited

There were three defendants, Simon Buc, William Stonis and John Smith alias John Blazonis, and they were charged with assault and battery.

Assault on Ball Player

The sequel to a baseball game played last Saturday was aired before Judge Hester in police court this morning when two young men were arraigned on complaints charging them with assault and battery on Paul Carver, aged 13 years.

Seven witnesses were sworn for the government and Ignatius Diskewicz, the complainant, was the first to be examined. He stated that he is a fireman at the Bigelow Cigar Company and resides in a court off Payette street with a James Alexis, the latter's wife being his wife's sister. He knew all three defendants and met them on the morning of April 11th in the hallway of the building in which he lives. In the afternoon he went to a house in Payette street to collect some money from a woman who owed him the third floor. After transacting his business with the woman he started leave the house and was descending the second flight of stairs when Plazonis grabbed him and threw him to the door. Buc and Stonis were with Plazonis at the time that he was playing first base on the District Centre grammar school team, which was playing with Taylor's team in a field at the corner of Hildreth street and Aiken avenue. At one point in the game the batter struck the ball to the pitcher and the latter threw it to Carver. While Carver was attempting to field the ball, one of the young men who stood behind the pitcher, threw a ball striking Carver in the abdomen. The blow was of such force as to cause Carver to drop to the ground. Just as he was about to rise, another alleged young man hit him in the mouth. Carver died profusely from the mouth wound and later suffered pains about the abdomen.

One of the defendants had

Witness said that he was so frightened that he did not know whether or not he had been kicked, but that his face was marked and body was sore all over as a result of the assault. Later, Officer Kewicz said that he had been kicked, but was not sure which one of his assailants kicked him.

A few days after the assault Blazonis went to his house and said he would pay Diskewicz if the matter were not brought into court. Blazonis said he would give the complainant $30 or $35

JORDAN'S MOTIVE

For Murder of Wife Alleged to Have Been Love of Another

Sergeant Crowley and Captain Joseph Dugan of Boston Testified at Today's Trial—Jordan Had Said His Wife's Jealousy Had Caused the Fatal Quarrel

CAMBRIDGE, Apr. 22.—That his infatuation for a woman whose identity has not been yet disclosed may have furnished a motive for the murder of his wife, was hinted at today when the trial of Chester S. Jordan, for the murder of his wife, Honora Jordan, was resumed in the Middlesex county superior criminal court at East Cambridge. On re-direct examination, Sergeant Michael J. Crowley of the Boston police in telling of a conversation with Jordan on the night of the latter's arrest said that Jordan told him that he was going away to meet a woman. When Crowley asked Jordan the name of the woman the defendant said:

"Have I got to tell that?" Crowley testified that he told Jordan that he was not compelled to tell anything. General Charles Bartlett, of counsel for the defense asked to have the reference to the unknown woman stricken out, but Assistant District Attorney Wier objected to such a course, stating that the prosecution intended to establish a motive for the murder through the introduction of the testimony. The court over-ruled Gen. Bartlett's contention and the latter took his second exception during the trial.

Sergeant Crowley was not cross-examined further by General Bartlett today. Capt. Joseph Dugan of the bureau of criminal investigation of the Boston police department was the next witness. He testified regarding Jordan's statements regarding the murder. The witness said that Jordan was in the station when he was examined at the police station he asked to have the stenographer's record read over to him. After hearing it read Jordan, according to the witness, made one or two unimportant corrections. Jordan was very prompt in his replies and appeared excited when he was examined. Jordan at that time stated, testified Capt. Dugan, that the trouble between his wife and himself began in a quarrel caused by jealousy on the woman's part. Jordan said that Mrs. Jordan had used violent and vulgar language towards him and that he had replied in a similar vein. Finally, she rushed at him with a knife in her hand. He told the police that he struck her and knocked her down stairs. He then went downstairs to see what he had done. After this, he said, his mind was a blank until the next morning when he found himself in bed. Later he discovered his wife's body in the bed.

Capt. Dugan was subjected to a searching cross-examination by Attorney Harvey Pratt of Jordan's counsel. A short recess was taken after Capt. Dugan had been dismissed.

When the session was resumed, Elvin Hauer, the official police stenographer, was called to the stand. His reading of Jordan's statement made by Capt. Dugan's office shortly after his arrest, including all Capt. Dugan's questions and Jordan's answers, occupied over an hour. In this statement Jordan confessed that he had struck and killed his wife and later had cut up her body. He went most minutely into the grisly and revolting details. He said that he and his wife had made an oral agreement to separate, and his wife suspected that he was infatuated with another woman, although she did not know who the woman was. Jordan said in his statement that after being forced to abandon his first intention of throwing the trunk containing portions of the body overboard from the New York steamer because of the non-parting of the steamer that night he decided to throw the parts of the body into the Charles river. He bought some lead sinkers, wrapping paper and twine at a hardware store in Boston for this purpose. Jordan said that regarding what happened after he went to the house on Hancock street, Boston, his mind was a blank.

Mr. Hauer testified that during the time he was making this statement Jordan was very calm and cool, and made his replies to Capt. Dugan's questions promptly. Attorney Jeremiah Sullivan cross-examined Hauer. The witness said in reply to his questions that Jordan acted and talked with apparent frankness, and was cool and collected. During the time the stenographer was reading Jordan's statement the insanity experts retained by the government watched Jordan very closely. Jordan sat with his hands calmly folded and when he perceived that the alienists were observing him he coolly returned their gaze.

An interested spectator this forenoon was James H. Vahey, senior counsel for Charles L. Tucker in his trial for the murder of Mabel Page. That Mrs. Jordan announced the day before the murder a place that she intended to go to Europe the following week and that Jordan and his wife were apparently on good terms at the time of the announcement was the substance of the testimony of the next witness, Mrs. Frances Lafty of Somerville upon whom the Jordan case was called on August 31. Jordan seemed willing to have his wife go and said that he would take care of himself.

Just before the noon adjournment, Officer Dempsey of the Somerville police who took Jordan from Boston to the Somerville police station stated that Jordan talked freely regarding the murder while on the way and said he would not be able to go yachting the next day with his brother-in-law, Jesse Livermore of New York, who, he said, was the man who made so much money in cotton. The government during Dempsey's testimony produced a large number of exhibits including portions of clothing said to have been worn by Mrs. Jordan.

PRES. TUTTLE

Favors Plan for a "Holding Company"

BOSTON, April 22.—President Lucius Tuttle of the Boston & Maine announced his approval today of the general proposition for the formation of a holding company to take over certain shares of the Boston & Maine stock as a solution of the railroad controversy in Massachusetts. President Tuttle said: "The government's message of yesterday seems to me to be a step in the right direction and suggests a means of solving a troublesome situation which has come about from various causes with which the people are already familiar. The outcome of the government's suggestion must depend upon the wisdom of the legislature and until now, as is known of the trend of the thought upon which this legislation is based, I have no further comment upon the situation seems to me to be unprofitable at the present moment."

REV. MR. PARDEE

To be Witness at the Hains Trial

FLUSHING, L. I., April 22.—Five jurors for the trial of Capt. Peter Hains, Jr., charged with the murder of Wm. E. Annis, had been selected when the court opened its fourth day of the hearing today. The first panel of 100 taxmen having been exhausted, a new panel of a similar number was in court today.

John F. McInyre, chief counsel for the defense, said today that while he hoped the necessity for calling alienist witnesses would not arise, several experts for the defense had examined the prisoner and reported him insane.

Rev. Charles Pardee, a Presbyterian minister of Naugatuck, Conn., who, according to the lawyers for the defense, was attacked by Capt. Hains in one of his outbreaks during a visit of the latter to the Queens county jail, will be one of the lay witnesses called by the defense in its effort to establish the defendant's insanity.

The impression still prevails that the question of appointing a commission to determine the defendant's mental condition will arise as soon as the state case is in, and the first evidence of insanity is introduced by the defense. Justice Garrison has the authority to stop the trial at that point and order a continuance, it is said.

Dr. Manson, the alienist who has been constantly in court with the witness, stated that Captain Hains suffered from emotional insanity when he killed Annis is not now insane. The alienist declared that Captain Hains' mind became a blank after the killing but by December he was practically sane.

Mr. McInyre said that the defense contends that Captain Hains is not now insane, although suffering from deep melancholia.

District Attorney Dewitt declared he did not believe that Captain Hains was insane, but was suffering only from nervousness. There would be no move by the prosecution for the appointment of a committee, he said.

William Craft, 31 years of age, a contractor of Jamaica, Long Island, was accepted as the sixth juror.

CENSUS REPORT

Discussed in the House Again Today

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The house today returned to the consideration of the conference report of the census, but owing to the absence of a quorum made little progress. The report was brought before the house by a motion of Mr. Crumpacker, Ind., chairman of the committee on census, who moved that the house insist upon disagreeing to the senate amendments. Declaring that he merely desired to learn the opinion of the house with regard to them Mr. Sims, Tenn., moved that the house concur in the senate additions which require application for civil service positions to take their examinations in the state in which they claim residence and that the applicant must have been actually domiciled in the state for one year prior to the time of the examination.

During the debate on the Sims motion Mr. Wallace, Arkansas, raised the point that no quorum was present. Speaker Cannon counted 141 members, not sufficient for a quorum and Mr. Payne, N. Y., immediately moved that the house adjourn until 12:40 p. m. until Monday.

SMITH—Mrs. Eliza Smith, widow of Almon H., died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. James N. Greig, 76 Bellevue street, aged 70 years. She leaves besides Mrs. Greig, another daughter, Mrs. Fred Paige.

CLEVELAND—Eliza D. Cleveland, aged 76 years and 1 month, died last night at her home, 19 Burt street. She leaves to her mother, Mrs. John Cleveland, and her two daughters, Mrs. M. T. Green and Mrs. W. Green of New York and Miss Reba Cleveland of this city.

RILEY—Ann Riley, aged 51 years, died yesterday at the city hospital. The remains were removed to the undertaking establishment of T. J. McDermott.

BUNTING CRICKET CLUB

The board of management of the United States Bunting Cricket club held its regular weekly meeting in the club house last night, with President Robertson in the chair. Four new members were admitted and 21 renewals noted.

The attraction on the Bunting grounds Saturday afternoon will be a cricket game between teams captained by Messrs. Dean and Rudden. In the evening there will be a potato pie banquet for all the participants and friends who desire to pay the small cost of 25 cents. The game will commence promptly at 7 p. m. and the following will be the teams:

Dean's team—Sam Dean, captain; R. Southern, W. Bingley, Eli Robinson, J. Halsey, J. Apple, W. Woffenden, R. Cudworth, Joseph Hovis, John Ogden and R. Menck reserves, W. Wilkinson, A. Hanson, S. Cowgill, umpire, J. H. Miller, scorer, T. Robinson.

Rudden's team—Hugh Rudden, captain; H. Rowley, James Barrett, James Patrick, Squire Backhouse, J. R. Hoyle, William Scholes, James West, George Bailey, W. Gith and Sam Burt; reserves, James McFarlane, J. W. H. Walton, J. G. Gith and William Woodcock; umpire, Joseph Sander, scorer, John Moss.

A committee of two, consisting of President Robertson and Vice President Crawford, has been appointed to see what arrangements can be made to get city water installed in the club house.

Clear Waterman, the last bowler, who has won from Russia after an absence of 12 years, will play with the Hampshire with next Saturday afternoon on the Bunting grounds. This will be Clear's first appearance in official circles since he left this vicinity 12 years ago. He was remembered by all as the fastest bowler in New England. Clear will be pleased to meet all his old friends and talk over old times at the conclusion of the game, with sidebells on darkest Russia.

Young Liverpool of Heston, French bantam champion, vs. Harry Kelly of Portland, at the Gladstone club, Saturday evening.

OLD RESIDENT

Charles E. Whidden of Westford Passed Away

Mr. Charles E. Whidden, an old and highly respected resident of Westford, passed away suddenly at his home, last night with heart failure. He had been in declining health since the death of his estimable wife, in September, 1907, but was able to attend to his duties as station agent at the Westford depot up to the day of his death. He was born in Westford in May, 1838, and after receiving his education in the town schools went to Danvers and Lynn where he learned the shoemaking trade in the old days when the shoemaker personally transformed the raw material into the finished product. In 1872 he succeeded David Falls as station agent at his native town of Westford, having returned to his old home to recuperate his failing health and in that position he labored faithfully and continuously to the day of his death. An interesting fact connected with his life is that in 50 or more years that the Stony Brook railroad has been in existence there have been but two station agents at the historic town of Westford, Mr. Falls and Mr. Whidden. Although the deceased had been a member of a Lynn lodge of Odd Fellows for 10 years he belonged to no other organizations, being devoted to his family and the pleasures of the family life.

He is survived by five sons, Arthur C. of Boston; Clarence W., of the Central Savings bank, this city; Ralph C., of Concord, Mass.; Chester G., of New York; and Graham R., the well known insurance man of this city; and one daughter, Mrs. J. Willard Fletcher, of Westford, who was with her father at the time of his death. The funeral will take place on Saturday at 11 a. m., and the interment will be in Danvers.

PERSEVERANCE CO. ADDITION

WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 22.—The Perseverance Worsted Co. is to erect a modern addition to its plant on River street. Plans have been made for the building of a basement and two-story addition, 60x170 feet. Work will be started as soon as possible. Fountain & Kinnicut are the architects. The building will be of brick and the basement of concrete. The new part will be connected with the present mill by a pathway. The addition is to be erected on the southeast side of the present mill and will be used for the finishing department, which will be changed over. More space will be given by the change for the installation of looms, if desired.

STATE FUNERAL

FOR THE LATE GOVERNOR LILLEY OF CONNECTICUT

HARTFORD, April 22.—A state funeral with the use of all the military and naval forces of Connecticut will be the honor accorded on Saturday to the late Gov. George L. Lilley whose death occurred at his residence here last night. The body will be taken from the executive mansion tomorrow morning and escorted by the First Company of the governors footguards placed in state in the rotunda of the state capital.

The funeral will be one of the greatest displays the state has ever witnessed as it is the belief that full honors should be accorded to the late chief executive. The rotunda of the capitol will be entirely draped in black and the catafalque will be placed directly under the dome. From the time the body is placed in state until it is taken up to be carried to the East front of the capitol for the services it will be guarded by soldiers and sailors.

DEATHS

SMITH—Mrs. Eliza Smith, widow of Almon H., died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. James N. Greig, 76 Bellevue street, aged 70 years. She leaves besides Mrs. Greig, another daughter, Mrs. Fred Paige.

CLEVELAND—Eliza D. Cleveland, aged 76 years and 1 month, died last night at her home, 19 Burt street. She leaves to her mother, Mrs. John Cleveland, and her two daughters, Mrs. M. T. Green and Mrs. W. Green of New York and Miss Reba Cleveland of this city.

RILEY—Ann Riley, aged 51 years, died yesterday at the city hospital. The remains were removed to the undertaking establishment of T. J. McDermott.

Interesting Items From Mill Centres

UTICA, N. Y., APRIL 22.—Chiefly to avoid paying its personal tax in the city, the Utica Knitting Co. will transfer its executive offices to Oriskany Falls, where the company has a plant. The company considers the assessment on its real and personal property too high. The law decrees that the real estate of a company be assessed in which it is located, but that the personal property be assessed in the town where its principal office is located. In 1907, the company was assessed at $150,700 on its real estate and $301,600 on its personal property. In 1908 the company was assessed on its real estate at $201,500, and on its personal property at $455,000. The company decried its assessments, and was given a hearing and the board of assessors claimed that the assessment was fair and just on the report made by the company and that the assessment compared with those on other manufacturing properties in the city. The total assessment was $657,500. The company's action was taken at the meeting of the stockholders held at its local office on Erie street. The vote was unanimous in favor of the proposition to remove the principal offices to Oriskany Falls. As soon as the necessary papers certifying the action are filed, the removal will be de facto and the city of Utica will lose the personal tax of the company.

PLAN NEW KNITTING MILL

NORRISTOWN, Pa., April 22.—Plans have been drawn and proposals invited for a knitting plant that will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 and will be one of the largest industrial plants in the Schuylkill valley. The builder will be the Ballard Knitting Co., the factory will be on Astor street, adjacent to the Wildman Manufacturing Co. The plans call for a building 154 feet long and 40 feet wide and five stories in height and a basement. The product of the plant will be hosiery, underwear and all kinds of knit goods, and it will furnish employment to upward of 400 hands, if not more.

BLACKINGTON MILL BUSY

BLACKINGTON, Mass., April 22.—All of the looms that it is possible to operate in the Blackington mill are now being run by Waterhouse & Howard, who are also operating their mill on Eagle street full time. The building of the new weave shed at Blackington, which necessitates so many changes at the mill, makes it impossible to operate all of the looms on and every loom that can be used during the necessary changes will be operated all of the time.

SILK MILL FOR LEBANON

LEBANON, Pa., April 22.—That Lebanon will get the proposed new silk mill, three times as large as the silk mill operating here now, was as good as guaranteed at the meeting of the citizens in the Mann building. The $33,000 already subscribed for in amounts from $10,000 to $100,000, was increased by pledges of $12,800 to over $66,000. Further pledges were in sight when the meeting ended, and the balance of the $100,000 needed for the bond with which the mill will be built is said to be assured.

JAMES A. PATTEN

The King of the Wheat Pit

CHICAGO, April 22.—Many times since the Patten wheat corner developed the wheat king's brokers have had to engage in frantic buying campaigns to ward off a slump. On several occasions when the market threatened to break violently Patten's stubborn buying brought a rally and turned the tide against the bears. The Patten corner has attracted the attention of the European capitals and caused a bill to be introduced in congress against option trading. It also has resulted in many threats against Patten, who goes about accompanied by a body guard.

ASSOCIATED PRESS OFFICERS

NEW YORK, April 22.—Following the annual meeting of the Associated Press, held here Tuesday, the board of directors met yesterday and organized by the election of the following officers: President, Frank B. Noyes, Chicago Record-Herald; first vice president, C. Hemphill, Charleston, S. C., News and Courier; second vice president, John H. Fahey, Boston Traveller; secretary and general manager, Melville E. Stone, assistant secretary and assistant general manager, Charles S. Diehl, and J. R. Youatt of New York, treasurer.

DIAMOND NOTES.

The New England league season will open tomorrow, but there will be nothing doing in Lowell for the Tigers will open at New Bedford and will not get back home until Wednesday next when the opening game at Washington park promises to be a swell event. Mavor Brown will throw the first ball over the plate.

The University of Vermont team, on which Haynes of Lowell is a valued member plays here tomorrow.

Washington park will be well rolled with a steamer roller before the opening game as the outfield is a trifle soft.

Since Edward F. Brady offered a home run bat to the Lowell player who will make the first home run within the grounds, the fans are figuring out just where to hit the ball to make a home run possible. Jimmie Gardner, the boxer, who is also a fan and a fair ball player, appears to have it doped out right, for Jimmie says that in his opinion the only way to get a home run within the grounds is by hitting along the third base line clear to the left field fence. The ball when reaching the fence will come off and clear between the fence and the row of trees and by the time a nelder can get to it a fast runner could get home. The right field fence is so short that a ball hit to it bounds back into the open field where the fielder can get to it easily, but a long hit to the left field fence always leaves the ball close to the fence.

Nichols, the Villanova college shortstop during the past three years, is being tried out at third. His throwing was not perfect, due probably to the change of position, but otherwise he looks good. On the bases he particularly shines and has that snap which the crowd is always seeking in ball players.—Fall River Globe.

A large number of Lowell fans went to Boston yesterday to see Fred Lake and his Red Sox, and the Red Sox won.

AMATEUR BASEBALL.

The Crescents will play the Sagamos on Saturday, April 24, for a purse of $10. Game called at 5 o'clock. Take Chelmsford street car and get off at Parker street.

A game scheduled for Monday afternoon at the Highland school grounds between the Young Champions and Y. M. C. A. Juniors was not played on account of the non-appearance of the Y. M. C. A.'s.

The Young Champions have reorganized and challenge any 14 or 15 year old team in or around Lowell. Send challenges to Manager S. E. Restler, 540 Middlesex street.

The "Centrals" baseball team will challenge any baseball team in the city under 13 years of age. This is a fine team and would like to challenge the best. The Centrals beat the "Chelmsfords" Thursday by a score of 20 to 7. The lineup is as follows:

J. Kane, c; W. Kelley, p; G. Willard, 1st b; H. McGuire, ss; T. O'Loughlin, 2d b; R. Cluff, 3d b; J. Daley, lf; F. Payne, lf; T. Cassidy, rf.

Send all challenges to Joe Shea, Central street, corner of Walnut.

The Fairmonts, a strong team of the Oaklanders, would like to arrange games for Saturday with any 14-year-old teams in the city. Line-up: Drummer, Morse p; Shorty Tyrell c; Canoe Signor lf; Insurance Trust Green 2b; Speiler Martin ss; Audsow Moriarty 3d; Bible Back, Wilson lf; Farmer Burns of; Chirren Barry rf. Send all challenges to Barry & Owen's poultry yard.

The Tyngsboro baseball team would like games with the following clubs: Wanderers, T. R. & T's, Lowell Eight, Y. M. C. A., Chelmsford Centre and any other strong amateur team in or near Lowell. If any of these clubs desire dates, write to W. P. Proctor, North Chelmsford.

The Westford Academy team lost its first game of the season to Forge Village by a score of 13 to 6.

GREAT RUNNING

Red Sox Showed Great Speed and Won

BOSTON, April 22.—The local American league season opened yesterday, Boston scoring a victory over Philadelphia, 6 to 2. The visitors played a ragged game in the field and could not hit Chech when there were men on bases. Boston showed great speed. There was a sensational triple steal by Lord, Speaker and Gessler, Lord scoring. The all-round playing of Speaker was a feature.

The hundreds of invited guests, including state and city officials, and thousands of enthusiastic followers of baseball prepared for the opening of the American league season yesterday by overhauling their winter wraps, getting out their fur overcoats and taking other precautions against a searching northeast gale.

It was hardly baseball weather, and during the forenoon there was considerable discussion regarding a postponement of the athletic festivities. Still, many thousands were eager to see the Red Sox in the first home game against the Athletics and the management waited until the last hour before deciding the question. A couple of hours before the time of the game the sun came out and warmed up the cold breeze from the ocean and it was decided to start the game.

Both teams reached the grounds by 2 p. m. and an hour later the customary ceremonies of marching across the field headed by a band and hoisting the flag were performed before a crowd that nearly filled the grounds.

Besides Lieut. Gov. Frothingham, who threw out the first ball, Gov. Eben S. Draper and former Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., were present. It was Boston's base running that won the game for them yesterday. Eddie Plank was as effective as usual, but one fatal slipup, an error by Baker, in the third inning, after two were gone, sent the clever left-hander up in the air, got McConnell, Lord and Speaker running the bases in a way that made Catcher Lapp gasp and finally, so enthused big Jack Stahl that the giant slammed the ball to left field for a terrific three bagger and drove in two more runs just to make the sum total a quintet. The 12,000 odd fans saw, many of them for the first time in baseball, a triple steal pulled off. This triple steal, made of course with the bases full, was effected only through the wonderful speed and headwork of Harry Lord, who has already proved a thorn in the sides of Plank and Lapp, when he got on the bases, stole home in the seventh inning, while his side partners each moved up a base. An idea of the way that Boston stole bases may be gleaned from the fact that McConnell paraded one, Lord and Gessler each two, while Speaker had no less than three steals to his credit. The base running tells the story of the game, this together with a few errors by the Athletics and a timely hit or two by the Red Sox. Both Plank and Schiltzer were quite effective, but the men behind them did not have the speed that Lake's crowd showed. Lord and Stahl made beautiful plays. Speaker, Gessler and Thomey a series of grand catches and the all-around work of the Boston team was so far ahead of that of the other aggregation that they made Connie Mack's team look foolish.

FRED LAKE
Manager of Boston Americans

Collins played well at second for the Athletics and Young Melins, a substitute and a Gloucester boy, came to bat in the ninth for Schiltzer and made the timely hit that made possible the visitors' two runs. Outside of this the work of the Athletics was featureless.

Whitredge and Costello With Lowell Team

The Lowell team practised for a couple of hours yesterday in the cold and were put through all sorts of stunts by Manager Fleming. Two new men, not previously seen, were on hand, Costello, an infielder who said that Hugh Duffy had sent him up from Providence for a try-out, and Whitredge, the St. Paul pitcher. The last practice will take place today when Manager Fleming will select the team that he will take to New Bedford for the opening game tomorrow. The team will play New Bedford Friday and Saturday and Fall River Monday and Tuesday, returning for the opening game in Lowell on Wednesday.

A SLIDING SCALE

For Automobile Fees Has Been Planned

BOSTON, April 22.—A sliding scale of registration for automobiles, based on horsepower will be one of the features of the codification reported by the sub-committee which has the matter in charge. This body is composed of Senator Hibbard of Lowell, senate chairman of the committee on roads and bridges; Representative Nason of Haverhill, house chairman of the committee; Representative Malley of ward 25, Boston; Representative Tytus of Tyngsboro and Representative Holt of Methuen. These legislators have been at work on the proposition for several weeks, but the matter of a sliding scale and the maximum penalty for reckless driving have been sources of disagreement which have been overcome only recently. While the bill, as agreed upon, is tentative, and must be reported to the

STOMACH-RITE

Does not promise you imaginary things, but it gives you new proof every day of just what it has done.

Dear Doctor's Daughter: I suffered greatly with stomach trouble and constipation. I dieted and used many remedies, but got no help until I used your Stomach-Rite tablets. They gave me a good appetite and my friends have remarked how much better my complexion is and what good color your tablets have given me. I thank you, O so much, Doctor's Daughter, and wish others would try Stomach-Rite.

MISS MARY WARNOCK, 217 Bennington St., East Boston, Mass.

Dear Doctor's Daughter: I hadn't taken your Stomach-Rite tablets two weeks before I saw great results and I wouldn't be without them each nearly all the time. Heart trouble, acute indigestion and constipation in a bad form before I used your remedy. Respectfully, J. M. WILSON, No. 6 Foster St., Lynn.

Dear Doctor's Daughter: I was sick for years with indigestion, but after taking 3 boxes of your Stomach-Rite I feel like a new man and think life worth living. I recommend Doctor's Daughter Stomach-Rite tablets to all. MR. EDWARD HAMMOND, 138 Vernon St., Rockland, Mass.

Dear Doctor's Daughter: I was troubled with gastric indigestion for a long time. In fact, many years, have tried so many remedies, but they did not help me, but your Stomach-Rite has not only done wonders for me, but my daughter has also used them for nervous indigestion, and we both wish to thank you for such a remarkable remedy as Stomach-Rite and wish you all the success you so richly deserve. I am truly yours, MRS. E. T. HODGSON, 120 Berkshire St., Cambridge, Mass.

Dear Doctor's Daughter: Having taken your Stomach-Rite, it gives me great pleasure to recommend them to all who have stomach or liver troubles. Very truly yours, JOHN J. KELLY, 24 Plain St., Stoughton, Mass.

Dear Doctor's Daughter: I have used just one box of your Stomach-Rite tablets for dyspepsia and I want to recommend them to all sufferers. MRS. E. E. BAILEY, 530 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

Dear Doctor's Daughter: Your Stomach-Rite is all you claim for it, for I have proved it. It is the very best remedy, I believe, in the world for indigestion and all stomach and liver troubles. H. V. PATTEN, 67 Howard St., Lynn, Mass.

Dear Doctor's Daughter: I have used your Stomach-Rite tablets this spring and am very glad to say it has given me the best satisfaction and results. I have a good appetite, sleep well and my foot now does not disagree with me as formerly. In fact, Stomach-Rite is gradually building me up and I unhesitatingly recommend them. WALTER MORGAN, 22 Ashburton Pl., Boston, Mass.

Dear Doctor's Daughter: I had a bad case of indigestion, my food fermented in my stomach, and I came up most of the time for weeks. In fact, I was in very poor health for months. Since taking two boxes of your Stomach-Rite I have gained wonderfully and can truly say that I am well. I can now eat anything I want, and I thank you, dear Doctor's Daughter, for your remedy. MARY E. DONAHUE, 6 Common St., Quincy, Mass.

Dear Doctor's Daughter: I feel like a new man and think life worth living. I recommend Doctor's Daughter Stomach-Rite tablets to all. MRS. JAMES PAUL, 331 Fourth St., South Boston.

When you need a stomach or liver medicine why not get the best, a tried and true remedy, a medicine that gives results like the above.

Very truly yours, "DOCTOR'S DAUGHTER" committee on roads and bridges for acceptance before it is reported to the legislature. It is said that there is little likelihood of any material changes being made in the measures agreed upon by the five men who are drafting the codification.

For Farmers' Rights Of these, Representative Nason is a staunch defender of the farmers' rights as opposed to the privileges of the autoists, while Representative Malley of ward 25 is spokesman for the drivers of cars. Senator Hibbard is especially interested in the legal aspect of the measure to be reported, while Representatives Tytus and Holt are among the interests of both at heart.

The matter of a sliding scale in registering motor vehicles with the highway commissioners has been a mooted question ever since the committee was charged with codifying the automobile laws. It had its defenders in the committee and out of it, and was based on the recommendation of the highway commission in its annual report. That body suggested that a fee be charged based on the amount of damage done by various vehicles. In other words the members of the highway board have gone on record as declaring that the larger and more powerful the machine the more damage it causes to macadam roads.

As a result the committee, as its first recommendation, decided to adopt that method of registration, and the codification will establish a flat rate of $5 for every machine of 20-horsepower and under. For every additional horsepower above 20 a fee of 50 cents will be charged. It is estimated by the sub-committee that this will establish a $5 fee for about one-half of all the machines in Massachusetts. The number of these is placed at 20,000, and it is expected that the $5 fee will bring in a revenue of $100,000 a year, while from machines of greater than 20-horsepower it is expected that from $70,000 to $100,000 more will be gained. Most of this sum will go toward repairing the state highways, which the commission declares are damaged by autoists.

Penalty for Recklessness The maximum penalty for reckless driving will be doubled under the proposed revision, it being placed at one year's imprisonment and a $200 fine. At present the law provides for imprisonment of one year and a $100 fine.

The dealers' license is reduced one-half, the present law placing it at $50, while the revision makes it $25. In the matter of speeding over country roads the law places the maximum pace at 20 miles per hour, while this must be reduced within the limits of cities and towns to 15 miles. The new law stipulates that a car may not be driven over a crossing or past intersecting ways at a greater speed than eight miles per hour. This is to be the legal limit in cities, where crossings and intersecting ways abound.

In addition to these speed stipulations the new law will force autoists, whether in city or country, to approach a trolley that is standing still with all power off.

Refuse to Reconsider Bill Representative Montague of ward 13 at yesterday's session of the house moved to reconsider the rejection of the smoke nuisance bill, stating that in case the motion prevailed he would offer an amendment providing that engineers and firemen of locomotives shall not be liable to the fines imposed under the bill. Representatives Pierce and Good of Boston favored the motion, and it was opposed by Representatives Walsh of Springfield, Avenue of Somerset and Oliver of Athol. On a roll call the motion to substitute was lost, 79 to 118.

FUNERALS

WILLEY—The funeral of Professor George Freeman Willey took place yesterday afternoon from his home, 121 Appleton street. Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, pastor of the Eliot Congregational church, officiated, and he was assisted by Rev. Smith Baker, D. D. The bearers were James Sykes, Louis A. Olney, Edw. Sargent and Harvey Greene. A. C. Russell had charge of the arrangements, and burial was in the family lot in the Lowell cemetery, under direction of the J. B. Currier Co.

COLLINS—The funeral of John Collins took place yesterday afternoon from his home, 104 Salem street. The bearers were Messrs. Welch, Faulkner, Corliss and Flood. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery where Rev. Fr. McHugh read the committal prayers. Burial was under the direction of C. H. Molloy & Sons.

STEWART—The funeral of Robert Stewart took place yesterday afternoon from the North station, in this city. Burial was in the Edson cemetery, under direction of the J. B. Currier Co.

McCABE—John McCabe died yesterday afternoon at the state hospital in Tewksbury. The body was removed to the rooms of M. H. McDonough & Sons. His age was unknown but it is said that he has relatives in this city.

DAROU—The funeral of Mary Darou took place this morning from the parlors of C. H. Molloy and Sons. Services were held at the Greek Orthodox church and interment was in the Edson cemetery.

THE CHARTER AMENDMENT BILLS.

The board of trade committee has filed in the legislature the amended charter bill, and it is to be hoped that the Lowell delegation will use their influence to have the bill become law.

The committee on cities insisted that the party designation should not be dropped, and Lowell influences, principally republican, opposed any change in the election of the school board. The other features of the bill remain practically unchanged with the exception that the "Recall" has been eliminated. The common council will go if the amended charter bill be adopted in its present form. The bill provides for nine aldermen elected at large for two years, so that the city will thus get the best men and be able to keep them long enough to derive some benefit from their experience in transacting the city's business.

If an alderman renders good service the voters can elect him, thus giving him four years in office, a period which should make him a very valuable public servant if he is the right kind of a man.

The salary of the mayor is to be not less than $3600 and not more than $5000, the amount to be fixed by the board of aldermen. The mayor's power of appointment and removal without confirmation is limited to the superintendent of streets and the inspector of buildings.

Should this bill be enacted and adopted by the people, it will accomplish a few very important improvements. Should the Meehan-Conley bill providing for the separation of the police and licensing powers be also adopted the whole will result in a very considerable change in our municipal government, and we believe a change for the better. The Meehan-Conley bill is right in principle so far as a separation of the police and licensing powers go. It might be well to make the experiment of having the business done as proposed by this bill. If it effects the desired improvement then there will be reason to rejoice, but if not the only alternative is to place the license granting power in the hands of the governor of Massachusetts and take it completely out of local politics.

So far as the local police commission is concerned it must be apparent to all that the very best men who can possibly be selected may be made the scapegoats of scheming politicians, may be investigated and possibly removed on technical charges. Such a system cannot last because under such conditions the time is at hand when no honest or capable man will accept a position on our police board for the reason that however well he performs his duties he may be made the butt of some designing politician who happened to be elected mayor on a platform of general opposition to corrupt interests, a platform intended mainly to catch votes and deceive the people.

The charter in amended form combined with the Meehan-Conley bill will be submitted to the people at the state election, and if adopted will take effect and be in full force next year. The city is in the greatest need of a more systematic method of transacting its business, and the charter bill will accomplish something in that direction but not so much as we require. However, it is a matter of taking what we can get when we cannot get what we want.

THE VETO OF THE PAVING LOAN.

We approve the action of the aldermen in passing the paving loan over the mayor's veto. The reasons urged by His Honor for vetoing the loan order were far fetched and based simply upon the fact that the cost under the present contract is to be a few cents a yard higher than under the contract for paving Central and Middlesex streets last year. As Alderman Wainwright well said, the paving of Bridge, Merrimack and the remaining portion of Middlesex street will be a more difficult proposition than that of paving streets on which there is no net work of car tracks and few obstructions of any other kind.

The improvement of Central and Middlesex streets by the block paving laid there last year is so clearly a benefit to the city that nobody who has the city's interests in view could object to having some of the other business streets similarly paved even if the cost be a little higher.

It is an imperative necessity to complete the job on Middlesex street at least as far as the depot, and it is equally necessary to pave Merrimack street from Bridge street to city hall.

The condition of Merrimack square for some years past has been deplorable owing to the laying of conduits, the construction of sewers and the changing of tracks. Public convenience and necessity demand that the square shall be paved in the best possible manner, and we know of no better paving than that which is laid on Central and Middlesex streets, the kind authorized by the order which the mayor vetoed. The difference in the cost is a small matter compared to the possible loss and certain inconvenience that would be caused by putting off the paving of these streets for another year.

The aldermen acted in the interest of the city in passing the loan over the mayor's veto, and it is to be hoped that the lower board will concur in order that the job may be started in time to be finished before the arrival of cold weather.

THE SITUATION IN TURKEY.

The situation in the Turkish empire is very alarming. The country is at present in the throes of revolution intensified by religious frenzy aimed mainly at Christians. Already a large number of Christians have been massacred, and still other outrages of a similar kind will be perpetrated before the trouble is ended.

The Armenians as usual will have to suffer much of the atrocities perpetrated by the Moslem fanatics. The situation calls for the prompt interference of the powers to prevent further outrages. It appears that the sultan's sway will be overthrown and civilization will have no cause to regret that particular feature of the revolution. He has repeatedly saved himself by appealing to the fanaticism of the Mohammedans and turning their fury against the Christians.

The progressive element known as the young Turk, the leaders in this revolution, will probably overthrow the present dynasty and establish one to their own liking.

There is an opportunity now for the Armenian revolutionists to strike a blow for the freedom of their country. They have suffered untold cruelties, and anything they can do to overthrow the present government and to aid in establishing their freedom would be justified under present conditions. There is an opportunity for the Hunchakist and other revolutionary societies to help the motherland, but at late they have been too busily engaged in fighting one another, or we might say in cutting each other's throats to do anything for their country. It is to be hoped that out of the fires of revolution will come a government more strongly committed to the principles of justice and civilization than was that presided over by Abdul Hamid, who has been justly designated "the enemy."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Yolande Mero, a noted Hungarian pianist, will be presented to the American public next winter by Henry Wolfsohn, who has just closed a contract with her for sixty concerts in the United States and Canada, commencing in New York city in November next. Dr. Paul Ertel, in his book, "Artists' Biographies," speaks of Miss Mero as the greatest pianist who has come out of Hungary since the days of Liszt. In addition to all of the artistic requirements demanded of a virtuoso of the present Miss Mero is endowed with that rare gift of personal beauty that has won her distinction among her confreres. Miss Mero was born in Budapest in 1887, and her public performances commenced when she was nine years of age. She has toured Germany, Hungary, and not a year ago made her debut in London, where she was hailed with acclamations.

A movement is on foot in Russian and Austrian Poland to honor the memory of Helena Modjeska, the Polish actress who died in California, April 8. Arrangements are being made for a memorial service to be held in Warsaw, and a statue of Mme. Modjeska will be erected in the foyer of the Warsaw theatre. A committee is working in Austrian Poland to erect another statue at the Lemberg theatre.

The Warsaw theatre has established a Modjeska fund to further the education of young actors. An effort is being made to collect money to bring the body to Warsaw for burial, and it is permitted there will be a public funeral. There is some doubt, however, as to whether the Russian authorities will permit this, inasmuch as Mme. Modjeska was expelled from Russia several years ago when she was about to make a public appearance in that city. If burial in Warsaw is not possible, the body will be interred in Cracow, in Austrian Poland.

Cracow was the early home of Mme. Modjeska.

Chas. Morris was overcome with emotion at the close of a benefit performance given for her at the New York theatre, and in which she herself participated, appearing in the sleep walking scene from "Macbeth." Surrounded by members of the Twelfth Night club, which had arranged the testimonial, and the players who gave their services for the speaker, she nearly ten minutes, sitting in an armchair. She told the audience that she was not of those who believed the American public was unappreciative of the artist, and her case gave the lie to the perennial statement that woman's greatest enemy is her sex. Daniel Frohman, treasurer of the fund, organized to bring relief to Miss Morris in her declining days, announced that the receipts were $3,200. He had hoped to raise $4,000. Grace George added $100 to the fund by bidding that sum for a souvenir program containing the photographs of all the actors who took part in the performance. The bill was an extraordinary one, and enlisted the services of such well known players as Wilton Lackaye, Edwin Arden, Edmund Breeze, Chauncey Dicot, Frank Worthing, William Courthick, Virginia Harned, E. M. Holland, Robert Warwick, Nellie Thorpe, Frances Starr, Lawrence O'Shea, Mrs. Dorothy Tennant, Ida Waterman, Jefferson De Angelis and Sheldon Lewis. She received a genuine ovation both before and after her performance.

John W. Thomas of Shelby county, Ky., was an ugly citizen. He threatened and frightened the neighbors. His farm house was his arsenal as well as his castle; he defied the officers of the law, and they were afraid to venture upon the premises to arrest him. He's gone now. A kinsman offered to pay him $10 a month for living somewhere else than in Kentucky, and Thomas promptly closed with the offer.

J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., has decided to become a member of the North Shore colony of Nassau county, and has purchased the Leonard Jacob estate on Long Island sound at Glen Cove for a price reported to be "about $250,000." The tract consists of an island about fifty acres in extent in Long Island sound, adjoining Dosoris, the county seat of Chatham. Longue There is a country house on the property and an attractive lodge house, upon which more than $100,000 will be spent in improvements. Deep water admitting many large yachts is within a short distance of the house. Mr. Morgan assumes a mortgage for $235,000 on the property, which he obtained through Thomas Joyce from Lawrence Jacob.

The executive committee of the New Haven Paint and Clay club has made a public protest against the position taken by the county commissioners in not following the recommendation to include one or more experts on architecture in their committee for considering the plans for the new county jail. "It seems a reasonable and self-evident proposition," says the protest, "that one or more experts should be included in this court house commission. The court house, which will have one of the most conspicuous sites in all New Haven, is a matter of vital importance to everyone who takes pride in the city, and it will not be enough that the building should be a fine one in itself, if it does not harmonize and lend itself to the scheme of its surroundings. Ralph Adams Cram, in a recent lecture on architecture in the Yale school of Fine Arts," they quote, "spoke of the crying sin of American architects as 'individualism' the sorry result of which produces architectural anarchy. The fact that we have no municipal art commission to pass on buildings in New Haven makes it most important that every precaution should be taken to insure in the new court house a worthy and creditable structure. If the county commissioners should reconsider this point, and decide to admit an expert to their committee, they would have the satisfaction of knowing that they were acting in accordance with the best precedent, with the voice of public opinion, and for the best interests of New Haven."

MONUMENT UNVEILED

NEW YORK, April 22.—A monument to the memory of the late Henry Chadwick, known as "The Father of Baseball," was unveiled yesterday over his grave in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn. President Charles E. Elbert of the Brooklyn baseball club was master of ceremonies.

John J. Roberts, another discharged street department employee, told of conditions that existed in the paint shop during the five days that he was there. He said that the men idled away the time. He cited the shelling of three baseball bats for one of the carpenters as one of the items of work performed. He carried one hod of coal during the time he was on the payroll. He said the paint shop door was always kept locked on the inside, he said. "They read the papers or they might have rolled the bones for an hour or two."

Asked by Attorney Sughrue of Boston, counsel for the investigators, as to what he referred to as "bones," he said "fice."

Joseph S. Chambers said that Supt. Needham told him to select a street sprinkling cart for his horses and after he had done so informed him that the price was $50. Witness refused to pay and received no work.

Inspector Timothy McCarthy said that at the mayor's request he asked Supt. Needham if the two horses belonging to a Syrian were kept in the city stables. Needham said that they were not costing the city anything and he proposed keeping them. Morris Freedman testified that he paid $25 to Lewis Bernstein in the street department stable and was then conducted into the office where Supt. Needham was. He received 3 1/2 days' employment.

William Bohne told of his efforts to secure employment. Another time Needham told him that fifty dollars was easy for two years' steady work.

Najiv Nassah said that he gave Mrs. Needham a fancy scarf but when he was assigned to work in the sewer department he declined, preferring the street department.

Charles R. Vose, a police inspector, told of finding in cellar walls of private property stone flagging which had presumably been removed from Common street, as that street was then being paved. Atty. Sughrue said that he expected the expert accountants would be ready to report at the next session.

Asked by Attorney Sughrue of Boston, counsel for the investigators, as to what he referred to as "bones," he said "fice."

Joseph S. Chambers said that Supt. Needham told him to select a street sprinkling cart for his horses and after he had done so informed him that the price was $50. Witness refused to pay and received no work.

Inspector Timothy McCarthy said that at the mayor's request he asked Supt. Needham if the two horses belonging to a Syrian were kept in the city stables. Needham said that they were not costing the city anything and he proposed keeping them. Morris Freedman testified that he paid $25 to Lewis Bernstein in the street department stable and was then conducted into the office where Supt. Needham was. He received 3 1/2 days' employment.

William Bohne told of his efforts to secure employment. Another time Needham told him that fifty dollars was easy for two years' steady work.

Najiv Nassah said that he gave Mrs. Needham a fancy scarf but when he was assigned to work in the sewer department he declined, preferring the street department.

Charles R. Vose, a police inspector, told of finding in cellar walls of private property stone flagging which had presumably been removed from Common street, as that street was then being paved. Atty. Sughrue said that he expected the expert accountants would be ready to report at the next session.

John J. Roberts, another discharged street department employee, told of conditions that existed in the paint shop during the five days that he was there. He said that the men idled away the time. He cited the shelling of three baseball bats for one of the carpenters as one of the items of work performed. He carried one hod of coal during the time he was on the payroll. He said the paint shop door was always kept locked on the inside, he said. "They read the papers or they might have rolled the bones for an hour or two."

CAPTAIN BURNELL

Of U. S. Signal Corps is Dead

LAUREL, Md., April 22.—Captain George Burnell of the United States signal corps, died today from the effects of self-inflicted bullet wounds at Laurel sanitarium where he had been recently suffering from nervous breakdown. He shot himself in the head yesterday.

Captain Burnell was born in Vermont in 1884 and served with honor as an officer of the signal corps in the Spanish war.

DUKE'S CHILDREN

ARE SUE BY DOWAGER DUCHESS

NEW YORK, April 22.—Justice Dowling in the supreme court, yesterday appointed John Bowers of New York guardian of Viscountess Mandelstam, aged 6 years; Lord Edward Eugene Montague, aged 3 years, and Lady Mary Alva Montague, aged 8 years, minor children of the Duke of Manchester.

The children are made defendants in a suit brought by their grandmother, Consuelo, duchess of Manchester, and her sister, Valeria, Lady Kaye and Emily Yznaga, against William K. Vanderbilt and Harry B. Hollins, executors of the will of their father, the late Fernando Antonio Yznaga, and against Edward C. Rhodes as executor of the will of Ellen M. Yznaga, widow of Senator Yznaga. The Duke of Manchester is also made a party to the suit.

The court ordered that service of the order on the minors as well as on the Duke of Manchester be made on Mr. Bowers, who is the attorney here for the Duke of Manchester.

Senior Fernando Antonio Yznaga, 69, died in New York on May 23, 1902, and the suit now brought is to set aside the probate of his will in the orphans' court of Philadelphia, on the ground that that court did not have jurisdiction.

73 YEARS OLD

AGED MAN WEDDED TO A GOVERNESS

DAYTON, O., April 22.—E. J. Barney, 73, Dayton's wealthiest citizen and captain of industry, was married yesterday afternoon to Mrs. Elinor Chapman, 30, the pretty widow of State Senator W. W. Chapman, who for some months served as a governess in the Barney family.

Barney's two daughters remained away from the wedding.

Barney, until the last few years, was president of the Barney & Smith Car company, and is reported to be worth $5,000,000.

Since the death of his wife, nine years ago, with a large corps of servants he has maintained a magnificent $200,000 residence in Dayton, besides several suburban homes. The daughters, it is understood, have been admirably opposed to the second marriage of their father, and as a result social circles are stirred and the estrangement of the first family of the city it is believed will be the issue.

NEW MEMBERS

Board of Trade Gets an Increase

The directors of the board of trade met at the office of Secretary McKenna yesterday afternoon and admitted 27 new members. The membership committee is confident that it will increase the membership to 500 by July 1st. The committee consists of George D. Hawley, chairman; Messrs. Marks, Frank, A. A. Byram, and L. A. Ward.

A communication was received from Bernard F. Gately, asking for better train accommodations out of Lowell on Sunday mornings. The matter was referred to the transportation committee.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of Stephen C. Davis, a member of the board since its inception. It was voted to send a copy of the resolutions to the family of the deceased.

The city advertising committee, consisting of Messrs. Marks, Milo D. Clay, James O'Sullivan, S. F. Whipple and Abel R. Campbell, was appointed to assist the finance committee of the Lowell Automobile club in raising money for the auto carnival of the week of Labor day. Members spoke of the great interest outside of Lowell in the carnival.

The secretary of the Boston chamber of commerce asked co-operation for a more equitable system of taxation. An effort will be made to change the property tax of the state so as to tax property in classes as is done in New York, and some other states. Stocks and bonds, it is claimed, ought not to pay taxes often equal to one-half of their earning powers, when the tax on real estate and other property is figured in as cost of maintenance.

Chairman Charles H. Conant of the central affairs committee reported that through the efforts of the board of trade better postal facilities would be enjoyed by that part of Tewksbury recently annexed to the city, beginning the first of May. This will take in lower Andover street, Clark road and a part of the Oaklands. It was voted to extend a vote of thanks to Congressman Ames for the active part he took in the matter.

The newly elected members were as follows: Orville E. Conn, Frank M. Brooks, Joseph J. J. Wilfred, Charles E. F. Curran, E. W. Cragan, George P. Kimball, Herbert L. Chapman, P. A. Howard, Carl P. Burd, John C. McNaught, Louis Weiler, Stephen Ryan, Wm. A. Ayer, Murray H. Pratt, J. Barlow Thomas, John P. Davis, Al. Wm. Bennett, Silvanus M. Sweeney, H. J. Martin, C. E. French, Irving, E. H. B. Bachelder, A. A. Jones, Wm. H. Wilson, John J. Hanlon.

Ireland and the continent in 1910. Joseph O'Mara, the celebrated Irish singer and actor, during his recent engagement in Boston, witnessed a rehearsal of the Musical Congress for the peace festival which Mr. Perkins produced for the Young Men's Catholic Association of that city on Patriots day, and was entranced with the performance that he immediately invited Mr. Perkins to bring his company to Ireland. "It is one of the finest things I have ever seen," he said, "and would make a wonderful hit on the other side of the water. Mr. Perkins must certainly take it to London and Dublin in 1910 and must also make a tour of the continent." Mr. O'Mara was very enthusiastic about the outcome of such a tour, and prophesied that the congress would make the greatest hit in the musical history of Europe. The date here is Saturday, April 24, matinee and night.

WARD AND VOKES
In the company surrounding Ward and Vokes in their reunion production of a musical farce "The Promoters," will be found Lucy Daly, Lew Kelly, Sandy Chapman, Marion Merrill, Frances Avery, Josie Daly, David Wolf, Richard Barry, Jack Manly, John C. Fenton and Eddie Judge. A prominent feature of the big company, which contains sixty people, will be the Ward and Vokes young ladies' band. "The Promoters" will be seen at the opera house, Monday, April 26.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

When the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt lands in Africa he will perform any of the antics that Arthur Huxton foresees, at Hathaway's theatre this week? Possibly Teddy won't try to catch birds of paradise by sprinkling salt on their tails, or endeavor to kill boia constrictors with tin pans, nor is it a certainty that he will carry with him a cussing lodge, but Mr. Huxton manages to squeeze a lot of funny fun out of the situations he creates. The monkey and cockatoo he has in the act are lively and the incident of the zealous reporter, who is clothed in a lion skin, will give a new touch to affairs.

Joe Maxwell and company appear in the swift moving musical comedy, called "A Night in a Police Station." Maxwell plays the part of the lieutenant of the 15th precinct who likes music, and who puts all those who call on him through a few paces. The result is some comedy and plenty of music. Mr. Maxwell is supported by a cast of five men and five women. Other things on the bill are: Rae & Brosche, conversationalists; Zinka Panna, musical virtuoso; Birmingham, ventriloquist; Hennessy & Son, in the comedy "What the Answer, Pa?" Zinnelle's Bouffette in a singing act, and the Hathascop.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week, with special seats for women at the matinees.

STAR THEATRE

New vaudeville acts, new pictures, including a talking picture, and new theatre this afternoon. One of the best and best shows that can be produced for an admission of 50c, for which a seat can be had in being given, and large crowds are attending each performance.

Jimmie and Mazie Barrett, sketch artists, and Miss Leslie Palmer, ventriloquist, comedienne and ventriloquist, are presenting acts which are the equal of any ever seen in Lowell.

There will be a complete change of pictures tomorrow.

Spiritual attention is given to the women and children patronizing the most advanced picture theatre, with its first floor and singing orchestra, pictures, songs and vaudeville. Continuous shows are on duty. In warm pictures, songs and vaudeville. The interior is always clean, and the same

THEATRE LA SCALA

Today the Theatre La Scala will add another to its already long list of big feature pictures entitled "The Orange Grover's Daughter." There is one feature in this picture that is too often lacking in American pictures but which the foreign makers are pushing at every opportunity and that is a combination travel and story picture. "The Orange Grover's Daughter" was taken in Florida with many of its scenes in an orange grove and the result is a very instructive and interesting picture. The story which is quite sensational is not harmed by the scenic features and this picture represents one of the very best types shown on the screen. The other pictures are all new and pleasing and the songs are catchy and well sung. The admission is but five cents and there are no reserved seats.

CHILD DEAD

HE ATE STRYCHNINE TABLETS FOR CANDY

FRANKLIN, N. H., April 22.—Thinking strychnine tablets were candy, Kenneth Andrews, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews of Elm avenue, Tilton, ate five of them yesterday and died in less than half an hour.

The tablets were in the house for medicinal purposes and were accidentally left with reach of the little fellow. Although the fatal mistake was promptly discovered, it was too late to save the child.

By a peculiar coincidence the funeral of Frank A. Gilman, whose home was in the neighborhood, was held a few hours before. Mr. Gilman died Sunday by taking chloride of potash instead of epsom salts.

CRAZED BY FEAR

Woman Plunged Through Window to Her Death

NEW YORK, April 22.—During a small fire in the tenement at No. 445 Grand street yesterday afternoon Mrs. Rachael Mathison, temporarily crazed by fear, leaped from a window on the fourth floor, dragging with her her thirteen-year-old daughter, who had tried to restrain her. The woman struck the sidewalk and was mortally injured. She died last night in Gouverneur hospital. The daughter landed on top of her mother and was not seriously hurt.

The fire started in the flat on the third floor, occupied by Mrs. Rebecca Ganz, who opened the door of her bedroom shortly after four o'clock and found the room in flames.

Mrs. Ganz called in several tenants living on the same floor, and for several minutes they fought vainly to extinguish the blaze. It spread quickly to the other rooms of the apartment, and Mrs. Ganz ran screaming to the street and gave the alarm.

Mrs. Mathison, who was alone with her daughter, Rosa, in their rooms on the floor above, was aroused by shouting in the street. She ran to the front window, threw it open and was met by a blast of flame and smoke from the windows below. Her clothes were scorched by the flames.

Affraid to Escape by Hall

Jumping back from the window with a cry of terror, Mrs. Mathison ran with her daughter to the door of their apartment. The fire had not spread to the hallway yet, but it was filled with smoke. Other tenants were running down the stairs and both Mrs. Mathison and her daughter could have escaped unharmed. The latter tried to get her mother down the stairs, but Mrs. Mathison had lost her wits at the sight of the smoke and stood wringing her hands helplessly and praying aloud.

"Well have to jump!" she screamed to her daughter, and ran again to the front window, with Rosa clinging to her skirts and trying to calm her. The fire engines had arrived by this time, and, divining Mrs. Mathison's intention as she leaned from the window, the firemen shouted to her not to jump, and several of them started up the stairs of the building to bring her down. There was time even then for the mother and daughter to escape either by the stairs or by the roof-escape, through which some of the other tenants had climbed.

The frightened woman left the window for a moment and, picking up her pet fox terrier, which was barking about the flat, she hurried it through the window to the street. It was killed outright. Then she climbed onto the sill, while the crowd renewed its shout: "Don't jump!"

Girl and Woman Struggle

Rosa, clinging to her mother's skirts, was struggling desperately to hold her back. Mrs. Mathison did not try to drag her daughter with her, but sought to fight her off. For several seconds they struggled fiercely, the mother practically hanging out of the window and the daughter bracing herself against the sill within. The crowd below was watching breathlessly now.

Suddenly, with a violent effort, Mrs. Mathison threw herself from the window, and the little girl, her strength gone, but still grasping her mother's skirts, was carried with her. A cry of horror went up from the street as the pair fell, and then the crowd surged forward to the spot where they lay on the pavement, both unconscious.

Drs. Axtell and Wolfer, from Gouverneur hospital, took the mother and daughter there. At the hospital it was found that the daughter was suffering merely from a bruise on the head and shock. The mother's left leg was broken, her skull fractured, and she was injured internally. She lived only a few hours.

Mrs. Mathison was a widow and the mother of eight children, of whom Rosa is the youngest. The others were all away at work when the fire started. The blaze was extinguished without difficulty, but not before the front apartments on the third and fourth floors burned out. The damage was about $1,000.

CANAL ZONE EXPENDITURES

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The expenditure of $3,250,000 on the canal zone during the month of January has brought the total expenditures on the zone toward the construction of the canal, civil administration, sanitation and plant building up to $93,915,000.

MAY RESTORE CONSTITUTION

TEHRAN, April 22.—The British and Russian diplomatic representatives here received an audience by the shah today and advised his majesty to proclaim amnesty to all political offenders and to restore the constitution. The shah promised to reply within a few days.

THE AGONY OF RHEUMATISM

If the thousands of intelligent people afflicted with the agonizing pains of rheumatism would listen to the advice of those who are honestly striving to help them, the volume of pain in this world would be greatly diminished.

New-fangled rheumatism cures have come—most of them have gone—but for years NEURALGIC ANODYNE has stood the test; it has relieved and cured thousands of the most aggravated cases of rheumatism, and its friends are legion.

It quickly relieves and cures nervous headache, toothache, colden chest, lame back, cramps in the stomach, and all common disorders of the bowels.

MR. ROOSEVELT

Was Warmly Greeted at Mombasa

MOMBASA, British East Africa, Apr. 22.—Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt arrived here last evening on board the steamer Admiral. He was in the best of health as were all the other members of his party. The Admiral entered Villandri harbor lying the American flag at her fore and main masts. She dipped her German ensign while passing the British cruiser Pandora, whose rails and masts were manned by cheering sailors. The Pandora saluted the ex-president, who was on the bridge interested in watching the Admiral coming into port.

The people of Mombasa were in a great state of expectancy throughout the day, and the first word that the ship had been sighted brought them in crowds to vantage points, where they might catch a glimpse of the distinguished visitor. The Admiral, however, came slowly up to the harbor and it was dark when the ex-president, accompanied by his son Kermit and the captain, made a landing. They were brought ashore in the commandant's surf boat and carried to a place of shelter in chains on natives' shoulders.

There was a perfect deluge of rain, but in reply to the expressions of regret at the weather, Mr. Roosevelt said he was glad to get ashore in any weather. He added that he was in splendid form and that the start to the hunting grounds could not come a minute too soon.

The governor's aide welcomed the Admiral and extended a welcome to Mr. Roosevelt and his party. Another cordial greeting on shore from the provincial commissioner, who conducted him to the government house, R. F. Cunningham, the hunter and field naturalist, who is to have charge of the expedition, also was at the pier.

The president seemed highly pleased when he heard the military guard drawn up. He replied to the guard's salute by doffing his hat and smiling broadly. The crowds on shore pressed eagerly forward to see the noted American. They were composed of Europeans, Indians and natives, and presented a picturesque appearance.

While generally friendly, their welcome of the former president of the United States, the people were not in any way demonstrative.

It had been the intention of the party to remain in Mombasa for two days, but the floods have been heavy and it was deemed advisable to change this plan.

The special train which will carry Mr. Roosevelt and his party to Sir Alfred Pease's ranch on the Athi river will leave here at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

ON FREE LIST

COTTONSEED OIL MAY BE PLACED

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Cotton seed oil was the subject of an exchange of opinion between protectionist republicans and tariff for revenue democrats in the senate yesterday. Taunting members of the latter party claiming that the cotton seed oil industry of the south appealed to him for tariff protection, Sen. Aldrich suggested to Mr. Bacon that if the senator from Georgia and other southern senators would get together in favor of placing that product on the free list as was the case when the bill passed the house of representatives, he might secure an agreement to that end might be reported.

This suggestion was called forth by a statement by Mr. Bacon, who said if the 25 per cent. ad valorem levied on importations of cotton seed oil did not produce an income, he thought it should go on the free list.

Sen. Simmons of North Carolina coming into the chamber at that moment, protested against such action, declaring that he was free to say that he was not in favor of placing cotton seed oil on the free list.

"Saying that the importation of cotton seed oil in 1908 was 292 gallons, worth $31, and yielded revenue of $2,28, Mr. Aldrich said the tax on that article was for the protection pure and simple."

"Any pretense," declared Mr. Tillman, rising in his place and speaking vigorously, "that there is protection on cotton seed oil through such a duty, is a humbug. Cotton seed oil producers do not want any protection at all."

Mr. Aldrich said that he had been appealed to by such producers in the south, and Mr. Tillman retorted that he "did not represent such people."

Mr. Money joined in a declaration that the south did not want protection on cotton seed oil.

MRS. BOYLE

HAS FINALLY BEEN IDENTIFIED AS HELEN McDERMOTT

MERCER, Pa., April 22.—Mrs. Boyle, the alleged wife of James H. Boyle, a member of the White House, is a mystery no longer. Last night the Associated Press was given absolute information that the woman is Helen McDermott of Chicago. Stories to the effect that she is a member of a prominent and wealthy family it was said are without any foundation whatever.

Last night Attorney T. C. Cochran, representing the prosecution, said without qualification that Mrs. Boyle was Helen McDermott. Her family resides in Chicago.

Attorney J. P. Stranahan, Jr., counsel for the woman, confirmed the identification. Mr. Stranahan said last night that Mrs. Boyle's brother visited her once. This was some time ago, when he had a lengthy talk with her and returned to Chicago to prepare means for her defense. Since that time funds have come from Chicago regularly to Mrs. Boyle. During the latter part of the week a deposit of $1000 was made in Mrs. Boyle's favor here, and owing to various statements, the house was led to believe she was a member of a prominent family.

Attorney Cochran had had possession of the history of the woman for some time. Facts in regard to her alleged visits in Kansas City, St. Louis, Louisville, Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland, St. Joseph, Mo., and Brooklyn are to be made public by the prosecuting counsel.

NOMINATED FOR RECTORSHIP

WASHINGTON, Apr. 22.—The board of trustees of the Catholic University met yesterday to nominate candidates for rector of the university to succeed Bishop O'Connell, resigned.

Three candidates were named, one of whom will probably be chosen after the names have been favorably passed on at Rome.

Dr. Thomas Shahan, who was designated as pro-rector when Bishop O'Connell left the university for San Francisco, has been prominently mentioned for the rectorship.

NO AGREEMENT

The A. O. H. Conference Availed Nothing

DUBLIN, April 22.—The conference of Matthew Cummings, national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, and P. H. O'Donnell of Massachusetts, delegates from America, with representatives of the two sections of the Order of Hibernians, was held privately yesterday but ended without result. The proceedings were protracted, the American delegates declining to make any statement on the conference. Joseph Devlin, M. P. in behalf of the board of Irish, issued a statement in which he said:

"We believe that the center of an organization working for Ireland ought to be located in Ireland and not in America. Our national convention, meeting on Irish soil, continues to be the supreme authority to formulate a policy of organization."

It is said that the conference resolved itself into a conflict between the Sinn Féin and parliamentarians, and that an agreement appeared hopeless.

ENTIRE STATE

PLUNGED IN GRIEF OVER GOV. ERMOR'S DEATH

HARTFORD, April 22.—The whole state of Connecticut is plunged in gloom today over the death of Governor George L. Lilley, and messages of condolence with the family have poured into the executive mansion in Farmington avenue all night. The arrangements for the funeral awaited a conference between Executive Secretary Charles Goodwin representing the family, and the joint committee of senators and representatives appointed to see to the funeral arrangements.

Acting Governor Weeks of Middletown was sworn into office as governor during the morning. Immediately afterwards he officially notified the general assembly of the death of Gov. Lilley and his own accession to office.

It was expected that as soon as the day of the funeral was set that a proclamation making the day a holiday for the purpose of mourning the death of the chief executive, would be issued.

Gov. Lilley, it is believed, knew that he would not recover although he kept up bravely while consciousness lasted.

Just before he sank into semi-consciousness which preceded the state of coma, Mr. Lilley remarked to his nurse that he did not expect to leave his bed again. He expressed a wish to be able to do so to complete work that he had set out to do but he said he felt that he would not be able to. Said he, "If I had ten thousand lives to live I should be glad to have accomplished what I have accomplished."

A few hours later Gov. Lilley had entered the vale over which hung the shadow of death.

CHANNING CONFERENCE

FALL RIVER, April 22.—The 86th annual Channing conference of Unitarian churches was held in the First Unitarian church here yesterday. Officers were elected as follows:

President, Job C. Tripp, Fair Haven. Vice president, Samuel H. Tingley, Providence. Secretary, Rev. George Kent, Providence. Treasurer, Augustus R. Pierce, Providence.

A SQUARE DEAL

AND A SQUARE MEAL

Here's a square deal for the people who can't eat a square meal without pain and distress.

Go to Carter & Sherburne's today and get a box of Mi-o-na tablets. The great prescription for indigestion and stomach troubles.

Take one or if your suffering is intense, two tablets with or after meals and at the end of ten days if you can't eat a square meal without distress go to Carter & Sherburne's and get your money back.

That's where the square deal comes in.

But Mi-o-na is really a stomach up-builder of great merit: every day the makers receive more than a dozen letters from grateful people which state that after they had lost all hope Mi-o-na cured.

The quick and positive action of Mi-o-na on the stomach in case of gas, waterbrash, sour stomach and heartburn is worth a lot of money to any sufferer.

Why not try Mi-o-na at Carter & Sherburne's risk? Fifty cents buys a large box.

E. D. Howe, Gardner, Mass., says: "I suffered from severe pains in my stomach. I tried different remedies without relief; after using two boxes of Mi-o-na I found myself completely cured."

Mi-o-na is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

MAINE METHODIST CONFERENCE

BERLIN, N. H., April 22.—The consideration of routine business and the disposal of questions which had arisen among the different churches of the conference during the year occupied the forenoon session today of the convention here this week. The conference embraces the churches of western Maine and those in Gorham and Berlin, N. H.

Rev. Robert C. Polts preached the conference missionary sermon, after which the domestic missionary society held anniversary exercises with Rev. I. I. Bean presiding.

POLICE OFFICER

Was Attacked by the "Whyo" Club

BOSTON, April 22.—Hundreds of people looked on while upwards of 20 of the famous "Whyo" gang of the Roxbury Crossing district assaulted a police officer with hands, feet and clubs at the corner of Longwood avenue and Phillips street, shortly after 7 o'clock last evening.

Reserve Officer George Johnson was the victim of the attack, and saved himself from serious injury only by drawing his revolver and firing at the gang. When he was taken to police station 10 Lieutenant Rufus Fessenden quickly summoned a physician to attend him.

The affair was the first intimation that the police had that the famous gang or any part of it still existed or had been reorganized. A man named Michael Quinn, known by the police as "Silver" Quinn and living on Longwood avenue, demanded the attention of Johnson.

Quinn is of powerful build and is considered a difficult man to place under arrest. He is credited by the police with having in the past assaulted Patrolman Hooper, Patrolman McCarthy and Sergeant Byrne, all of Station 10.

Johnson resisted Officer Johnson and tore himself from the latter's grasp and at once began to put up a lively fight against arrest.

Dismissing his club on the man, Johnson called to a crowd of young men who were standing near by for assistance. Instead of giving aid, however, they set themselves upon the police officer with the cry of "Whyo! Whyo!"

"The officer drew his short club to protect himself against the attack of the crowd, numbering fully 20, but the club was snatched from his hands and used by the crowd to beat the officer. He was kicked and beaten with fists, thrown on the ground and trampled upon, while the crowd continued to shout their favorite call.

The scene of the fight was in a thickly populated tenement district. The calls of the mob and those of the police officer caused windows to be raised in nearly every house, while people ran from all directions to the scene of the encounter.

Under the attack Johnson released his hold on Quinn and directed his efforts to protect himself. He was nearly unconscious from the beating when his assailants fled, but he raised himself on his elbow, with his revolver in his hand, and fired a shot after the retreating gang. They scattered and continued at full speed while the officer regained his feet and pluckily staggered after them as fast as he could in his excited condition. He fired an occasional shot as he ran, but all of the bullets went wild.

Brutal and bleeding the officer called up his station and Lieutenant Fessenden sent men out to Johnson's assistance.

A watch was kept on the homes of some young men suspected, but no one was arrested.

SCOTT'S BILL

MAY NOT BE CONSIDERED BY CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Although it is not probable that the anti-grain speculation bill introduced by Rep. Scott will be considered by the house during the present session, the author of the measure is not relaxing his efforts to promote early attention to the measure.

For a time Mr. Scott has been under the impression that the placing of wheat on the free list until the Patton corner has been broken would offer a remedy for the situation, but upon investigation he has found that the price of wheat in Canada is practically the same as in this country and therefore it would be no inducement for the Canadian shippers to send their product to this country. Mr. Scott's bill proposes to reduce grain speculation to the minimum by preventing the use of the mails and telegraph companies for the purpose of dealing in grain futures.

POWERFUL PROOF

Sagwa a Vegetable Remedy

To prove that Sagwa contains no opium, morphine, cocaine, or other poisonous ingredients, we requested that an analysis of Sagwa be made by the Professor of Physiological Chemistry at Yale college, considered one of the highest authorities in this country. He reported as follows:

After a chemical analysis of Kickapoo Sagwa and examining the various substances entering into its composition, I find it to be an extract of roots, barks and herbs, without any mineral or other deleterious admixtures.

You will find the formulas of Sagwa and all the Kickapoo Remedies printed on every package. We believe you should know what you take into your stomach. Sagwa is a remarkable composition of roots, herbs and barks for the cure of all diseases of the stomach, liver and blood. If you feel run down, lack of appetite, don't sleep, have a bad taste in the mouth, pains in the side, shoulders, back and stomach, constipated, bilious, have no energy, half sick feeling, food don't digest, take Sagwa. It may save you a month's sickness, a month's loss of time, and a month's expense for a doctor.

Remember Sagwa contains no mineral or other harmful ingredients. Sagwa is a remedy for all times and for all seasons. It restores the stomach and liver to a state of perfect health. If these organs are in good condition, you need not have such diseases as Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Nervous Wreck, Scrofula, Erysipelas and Blood Diseases.

Kickapoo Sagwa; Kickapoo Oil, a healing family liniment; Kickapoo Worm Killer, for ailing children; Kickapoo Pills, for constipation and biliousness; Kickapoo Cough Cure, for coughs and colds; Kickapoo Salve, for piles, burns, sores and wounds, are for sale at all drug stores. BRILLIANT EVENT

Annual Ball of Lowell Council, K. of C.

Beautiful Decorations and Exquisite Gowns Made Striking Scene at Associate Hall Last Evening

The inclement weather failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the members of Lowell Council, Knights of Columbus, and their friends, and the annual ball of the council held in Associate hall was one of the brilliant social affairs of the season and was attended by a large and merry gathering.

The interior of Associate hall never looked more inviting, for the decorations were elaborate and most artistic. The prevailing colors were white and gold. The back wall of the stage was hidden behind a wall of lighting relieved by graceful clusters of greenery. The front was hedged with tropical plants in pleasing variety. A beautiful emblem of the order bordered with greenery. Streamers of the prevailing colors extended from the chandelier in the center to all corners of the hall while for the center piece was a large floral bell. The gallery front was decorated with white bunting and greenery while the windows were hung with beautiful draperies.

The floral decorations were done by Collins, the Gorham street florist, and were very artistically arranged. The Knights of Columbus orchestra of 12 pieces, composed of members of the council under the leadership of

T. A. D. Sullivan, opened the ball with the following concert program:
Radiant March, "Pied and Peasant," Supp. Trombone solo, selected.
Charles Sturtevant
Finale, "King of the Turks," P. Tolant

At the conclusion of the concert program the grand march was formed and 15 couples appeared on the floor. The march was directed by Dr. Thomas P. Carroll and was led by Matthew P. Maloney and Mrs. John P. Saunders. Mrs. Saunders was charmingly dressed in pink silk and carried sweet peas. The second couple were William Cawley and Miss Catherine Cawley, the latter wearing blue silk and carrying a bouquet. Others in the march were: Mayor George H. Brown and Miss Helen Kivins; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Molloy; Henry Heaps and Miss Madeline Ineson; John F. Golden and Miss Marion E. Gallagher; Frank W. Foye and Miss Hortense Gallagher; Dr. Frank Jantzen and Miss Catherine Jantzen; William O'Brien and Miss Lillian O'Brien; Roger Lang and Miss Mary Danahy; William E. Dillon; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crawford; Chas. Lynch and Miss Frances Cunningham; Mr. and Mrs. John Monahan of West Chelmsford; John Bourke and Miss Catherine Rafferty; Mr. and Mrs. John Cryan; Frank A. Connor and Miss Grace Draper; and others.

After the march general dancing was enjoyed with an intermission during which refreshments were served in the upper hall.

WHAT IS HEM-ROID?

A TABLET, TAKEN INTERNALLY, THAT CURES PILES.

Piles (hemorrhoids) are getting more common every day, because we live unnaturally, overeating, overworking, taking little exercise, gradually causing a decaying of veins and tissues in the lower bowel. Blood stagnation is the cause of piles, and a condition that can't be permanently cured with ointments.

Kaysers—the Gloves You Want

All women want the Kayser silk gloves—the standard for 25 years.

Without the Kayser patent tip—the Kayser fit and finish—what would a silk glove be?

None knowingly take anything else. But some women get inferior gloves, in the belief they are Kaysers, because they don't look in the hem.

The poorest silk gloves on the market cost just as much as the Kayser. That is the pity of it.

Gloves that don't fit and don't wear—that lack our finish and fabric—cost the Kayser price.

Get the gloves you have always worn—the gloves that we make from the raw silk up—the gloves that go through fifty operations.

JULIUS KAYSER & CO., Makers, New York

Bello, a port on the Caribbean sea east of Colon, to connect with Colon. The crushed rock for the concrete work on Gatun lock and the spillway of Gatun dam is to be obtained from Bello. This will amount to 225,000 cubic yards. The immense amount of transportation from Porto Bello necessitated a rapid means of communication.
